Municipal Elections.

TO THE ELECTORS OF MACQUARIE WARD.

GENTLEMEN,—As most of you are doubtless aware, my term of office as ALDERMAN for your Ward expires on the 30th November next; and as I flatter myself I still possess your confidence, I feel it my duty to state that it is NOT my intention to seek RE-ELECTION, in order that you may have ample time to select my successor.

Permit me to assure you that any influence which it is my pleasure to have with the gentlemen in the CITY COUNCIL, with whom I have had the honour to be associated during the past three years, is always at your command.

Thanking you once more for allowing me the privilege of representing you, and trusting that I may be favoured with your valuable influence in my candidature for EAST SYDNEY in the forthcoming PARLIAMENTARY ELECTION,

I remain, Yours faithfully, C. J. ROBERTS.

Chatsworth, Potts Point, October 22, 1880.

BOROUGH OF WATERLOO.

EXTRAORDINARY VACANCY.

WILLIAM R. EVANS, Mayor and Returning-Officer.

October 25, 1880.

ELECTORS of BRISBANE WARD, do not pledge your Votes. Alderman TAYLOR, who has well and faithfully represented you for the past three years, has again consented to be a CANDIDATE.

RATEPAYERS of Macquarie Ward are requested not to pledge their votes, as an influential requisition is being signed asking Mr. J. MASON, an old resident in the Ward, to stand in your interest in the coming Municipal election.

I HAVE BEEN REQUESTED by a Great Number of Persons to allow myself to be Nominated for MACQUARIE WARD, in consequence of the retirement of the present Alderman, C. J. Roberts, Esq. C. KIDMAN.

I beg to notify I am A CANDIDATE. CHARLES KIDMAN.

Business Announcements.

COBAR BRANCH.
NOTICE TO GRAZIERS.
We have much pleasure in announcing that we have opened a BRANCH of our Business, as STOCK AND STATION AGENTS,
at COBAR, under the Local Management of Mr. HOWARD MACFARLANE, and our friends throughout the colonies can safely rely that no pains or expense will be spared in conducting all business entrusted to our care, in a manner that, we hope, cannot fail to give satisfaction.
MAIDEN, HILL, and CLARK,
Pitt-street, Sydney, and Cobar.

DR. BELISARIO has resumed practice.

MUSICAL NOTICE.—A. HUENERBEIN, Jun., thanks his numerous friends and the public in general for the liberal support accorded to the firm of A. and C. Huenerbein, Pianoforte Warehouse, Pitt-street, during his connection with it.
A. HUENERBEIN, Jun., still continues his business as heretofore—namely, Tuning and Repairing—at his new address, 178, PHILLIP-STREET, near King-street (private residence). Intending Purchasers of Pianofortes would do well to get A. HUENERBEIN'S, Jun., advice previous to making a purchase at auction or elsewhere, as many Pianos are got up cheaply, and after being a little while in use become perfectly worthless. Fee for inspection and advice, £1 1s. Country letters promptly attended to.
Address—A. HUENERBEIN, Jun., Pianoforte Tuner and Repairer, 178, Phillip-st. PIANOS BOUGHT, SOLD, or Exchanged.
PIANO, by Bord, trichord, for SALE, full compass, £25, a bargain. A. HUENERBEIN, 178, Phillip-street.

THE CENSUS IN THE UNITED STATES.—Great complaints (observes the Times) are being made of the manner in which the Census now in progress in America is being taken. A Western journal describes "the confiding, trusting nation as confronted by another infamous outrage—a deliberate falsification of the Census returns from the South for the purpose of retaining political power to which it is not entitled." In the North, too, there are complaints of census outrages and frauds. The semi-official announcement gives St. Louis not more than 375,000 inhabitants, perhaps as few as 350,000, "when everybody knows that the population reaches or exceeds 500,000." The reporters of one journal profess to have discovered hundreds of families which have been omitted from the returns, and the City Council and prominent business men are urged to make an exact enumeration of their own. "How preposterous the official estimate for St. Louis is is shown from the allowance of 475,000 to Chicago; but then Chicago, too, had set its mind on half a million, and is only a little better satisfied than its rival." Cincinnati is keenly disappointed, and claims that the residents of its suburbs should be added to the meagre total of 250,000, making a round 300,000. Louisville is only allowed 120,000, instead of a population of 200,000, as claimed by its inhabitants. In the East, Philadelphia complains of the numbers assigned to it—viz., 843,000; as the State census of 1875 had prepared it for something like a million. Brooklyn and New York are also grumbling over the carelessness of the enumeration. Altogether, the action of the Census Bureau is being severely criticised.

PARLIAMENTARY ELECTIONS.

THE CANTERBURY ELECTORATE.

Mr. George Pile, one of the candidates for the representation of the electorate of Canterbury in the ensuing Parliament, addressed the electors last night, at the St. Peter's Town Hall. The attendance was limited, but Mr. Pile was well received, and was listened to with the utmost attention. Mr. William Alexander was voted to the chair.

The CHAIRMAN said that he had been called upon unexpectedly to fill the position, and had no idea of what Mr. Pile intended to say; therefore he should, without further delay, call upon that gentleman to address the meeting. (Applause.)

Mr. PILE said that he had heard of a man who, in olden time, gave a feast and invited certain guests, who all sent excuses—one man saying he had married a wife and could not come, and others giving other excuses, but the feast was not deferred on that account; and so if he had asked a certain number of gentlemen to meet him, and they had not joined him, there was no reason why he should act disrespectfully to those who had come to the meeting, and not say what he had to say. He regretted the paucity of attendance, and especially did he regret to notice the absence, not only from this meeting, but from St. Peters, of two gentlemen in particular—one of them being Mr. M'Cauley, who lived for many years here, and who was untimely taken away; and the other, Mr. Bown, of Barwan Park, who had also been called to the great majority. The first time he addressed a meeting at St. Peters was ten years ago, when Mr. Lucas spoke there, and he took the chair at his meeting. Mr. Lucas had done good work here; and as that gentleman had not announced an intention of coming forward again, he was not opposing him. He had addressed meetings upon the questions of the railway to Sydney, and the Illawarra railway to connect George's River to this place. An additional reason for this latter line had been given recently by the large national park set aside by Government en route to Illawarra. He worked, as they all knew, night after night, and spent his money, for the sake of pushing the question of metropolitan and suburban railways. He did not enter upon that question in the paltry way of only spending his breath upon it; but he had plans made, and showed practically that he was in earnest about it. He had certainly hoped that the last Parliament would have adopted some scheme for city and suburban railways. He did not think it was necessary for him to tell them that the Government had not done so; that they had deliberately shelved the question; and that they had not been in earnest about it, notwithstanding the promise of Sir Henry Parkes on the Canterbury hustings; but he thought it only his duty to come forward and test the question this year. It was true that the Government had commenced a system of tramways, and he had no doubt that they were highly beneficial until they got something better; but they were only a temporary expedient, and after being down a few years in the crowded streets of Sydney they would have to be pulled up again. They were really no substitute for railways. One subject which must come before the ensuing Parliament early in the next session, was the proper adjustment of our income and expenditure. (Applause.) This Government, in carrying on the government of the country, raised and expended about five millions of money every year, which seemed to be a large sum to be expended in governing 700,000 people. Any person looking at this sum of money would say what a large expenditure to keep the people of the colony in order. But the reverse was really the case. Of the five millions of expenditure, a large sum went in the management of a large public estate. Then the Government were the great carriers, having constructed the railways; and the money spent in the management of these railways formed a large part of the total public expenditure. Then the Government had thought proper to enter into business as conveyancers; they had a Lands' Titles office; they had all the telegraphs under their control, and fulfilled a multiplicity of other engagements which in other parts of the world were conducted by co-operations, public companies, or private individuals. But in all these undertakings they had no profit or loss account. For instance, he knew that the Government made £4000 or £5000 out of the Lands Titles Office. Everything from these different businesses went to swell the general expenditure, and revenue and expenditure were mixed up in a hodge podge style. He had endeavoured to dissect the figures, and ascertain the real cost of government, but he had not been able to do so. In all their enterprises, the Government would find that they would be deficient to the extent of from a quarter of a million to half a million of money—that their expenditure would exceed their income to that extent. If the returns this year were favourable it would be a quarter of a million, if unfavourable it would be half a million. The question of the adjustment of the revenue with the expenditure depended upon the raising of additional taxation, or of making reductions in the expenditure. They had noticed in all the speeches made by members of Parliament that retrenchment was talked of—but they had not seen any retrenchment. He did not think that retrenchment to any extent was possible. In the first place the real working members of the Civil service could not be removed, and in the second, political influence was too great to admit of the removal of others. A prominent public officer had said that a leading Minister had told him that there would be a "Black Wednesday" in this colony. If there was such a day—if there was a discharge of the public officers of merit and long-standing who had grown grey in the service—there would be such a public outcry as would hurl the Ministry out of place. Every appointment for the last fifteen years, certainly for the last ten years, had been made with the concurrence of at least one of the Ministers in power at the present time. During the last ten years either Sir Henry Parkes, Sir John Robertson, Mr. Lackey, Mr. Hoskins, or Mr. Watson, had been in office; therefore all appointments of incompetent men in the Civil Service, if there were such incompetent men, had been made with the concurrence of some member of the present Ministry. He was quite certain that political influence was too strong to turn out the incapables, and public justice would not allow the capables to be turned out. And then there was another side of the question. There was a large number of the public officers who had been working for many years on inadequate salaries, and he believed that many of them were worthy of higher incomes. One gentleman in the Colonial Secretary's office, who had been 20 years in the Civil service, and now had £20,000 a year passing through his hands, was receiving a salary less than was paid to younger men only five or six years in the service. If they could not lower their expenditure, what could they do to increase their revenue? First, they should get an adequate rent from the squatters, and to do that he advocated a plan enunciated by Mr. M'Elhone, which contained his own views, and in part had been enunciated by the Sydney Morning Herald—that was to divide the colony into two portions. In one portion where agriculture was known to be practicable, he would have the present law; but in the other portion, where up to the present time agriculture was not proved to be practicable he would give long leases—he would say twenty years indefeasible leases, and then put the runs up by auction at so much per year rent with arrangements for compensation for improvements to be paid for at the expiry of the lease by the incoming tenant. Under such a system they would get, he had not the least doubt, a quarter of a million more money than they got at present from the squatters' runs. Then there was last year about £650,000 spent on the public roads and bridges of the colony. Assuming that £50,000 was spent within the boundaries of municipalities, there would be £600,000 spent on roads and bridges in districts not incorporated. Not reckoning the reserves, there were over 24,000,000 acres of land sold by the Crown. Assuming—and it was a fair assumption—that the average price of that land was worth £2 10s. per acre, a tax of 1d. in the £ on the fee simple value of these 24,000,000 acres would bring £250,000 into the Treasury, to be expended on the roads and other works of the district in which the money was raised. By these two sources of revenue they would remove all fears of a deficit, and it would not be necessary to talk about excise duties or export duties on wool, or even to continue their present most iniquitous Stamp Act, an act which followed them in every transaction of their lives, which taxed industry, and which in its collection was indirectly the most extravagant tax they raised. On the question of free trade and protection, he might say that he was a free trader to the back bone. (Cheers.) He asked those of them interested in industry to travel round Sydney, from the South Head by Waverley, Woollahra, Waterloo, Redfern, and St. Peters, all along the railway to Parramatta, down the Parramatta River to St. Leonards, and on to Manly Beach. On a thousand hills around them houses arose. The question naturally occurred where did the people come from who inhabited these houses, and how did people exist who lived in these houses, and what an amount of wealth it would take to build them, and what an amount of income to keep them up? The foundation of all this prosperity was in the immense commerce of the city of Sydney—a commerce that embraced the whole of the Pacific Ocean, including every island from Honolulu to New Zealand, which, by one means or other, sent its wealth to feed the commerce of Sydney. Every islander fishing for pearlshell, every Communist prisoner working in New Caledonia, helped to bring this stream of wealth to their shores. It was not merely the flocks and herds of the west, it was the vast commerce which fed the wealth of the city of Sydney—which enabled these large houses to be built, and found a return for the labour and capital invested in the large industries around Sydney. Every vessel bringing copra or other produce from the South Sea took in return, not only things imported to the colony, but also the manufactures of the colony—its bricks, its boots and shoes, as well as its fruits and its wine; and all this because the facilities of the port were great. By free trade they had all these facilities, and their manufactures and the trade of the port were thus magnified. The very moment they commenced to stop this by the operation of protection they reversed the operation of the natural law of increase. The protectionist was a type of the man who killed the goose which laid the golden eggs. With the notion of getting wealthy at once, they destroyed the future source of it; and if these people had their way, they would find the grass growing in the streets of Sydney. They would have very few houses, and industries would languish. While on the subject of free trade and protection, he would mention something about the navigation laws, in their relation to the recent lamentable wreck of the Susanne Godeffroy at Newcastle. For many years past he had entertained the conviction that shipowners should be held liable for the lives of the seamen employed by them. There should be a law to protect workmen's lives from accidents arising from their employer's neglect. In England a law had lately been passed rendering shipowners liable in this respect, and on the Continent there was a far more stringent law in the same direction. In his opinion the Marine Board should not be elected by the shipowners at all, but by those who were interested in preventing rotten ships going to sea. If returned to Parliament, he would do all in his power to have a sweeping reform in this direction. He strongly supported the construction of a railway to Circular Quay, which he considered was the keystone in the arch of our railway system, and without which no railway system in this colony would be complete. (Hear, hear.) The candidate then proceeded to refer to local matters, one of the principal of which he considered was the reservation of a block of land lying between St. Peters, Newtown, and Marrickville for the purposes of a public park. This should be at once reserved by the Government for recreation purposes. He considered that the Government should push on the construction of the tramway through Newtown to Cook's River dam, for which the money had been voted by Parliament, and which was, in his opinion, a far more important undertaking than the tramway to the Randwick racecourse. The Kenny Hill water scheme had been most unmercifully snuffed out by the Public Works Department; and he trusted the citizens of Sydney would not allow this important scheme to be set aside without a thorough investigation into the whole circumstances of the case. Coming back to more generally important matters, he was a thorough supporter of the Public Instruction Act, but he regretted to find that the measure had not met with the support of the entire community. He trusted every member of the community would do all he could to sharpen down the edges of irritation which had prevented its reception by all classes, and he hoped that the Act would long be retained on the statute-book. (Hear, hear.) He had now to touch upon another important subject. Professor Huxley had described the emancipation of black and white, but he had to speak of the immigration of yellow and white, and of yellow first. When he said he was opposed to the large introduction of Chinese into this colony he did not speak against them as a people; but this was a British colony, and should be for a British community. A friend of his, Mr. Alderman Fripp, of Cook's River, told him that some of the Chinese merchants had market gardens, and employed men in them at half-a-crown a week and their rations. How could Europeans compete against those men, who were really slaves, though nominally free; who lived in miserable houses, and had no families to support? After all, self-preservation was the first law of nature; and, if so, some proper steps should be taken to prevent the continued influx of these men into the colony. It was no use to blackguard the Chinese, to say that they were bad men, that they smoked opium and had other vices; but it was sufficient to put forth the facts of the case as he had done, to show that some course must be adopted. The matter was not to be spoken glibly about, but action must be taken at once; for it was necessary that the inhabitants of the colony should protect themselves from being eaten out of house and home. (Applause.) As to the immigration of our own fellow-countrymen from England, Ireland, and Scotland—and he might say, from Germany—he endorsed those laws by which people could bring out their relations, for people so brought out found homes and employment at once. But he was opposed to bringing out unskilled labour at the expense of the country, and should prefer a system which should assist people to come here from home at a cost not more than it would be for them to go from England to America. If public funds were used in this way, people who would otherwise pay to go to America would be induced to come here, and by that means we would have a better class of immigrants than at present—a class of independent men with some money to start them. We must not stop the flow of immigration; for if so, what was the use of building houses, and making bricks, and carrying on other industries to the same extent as at present; but if the plan he advocated were followed, we should bring here thrifty, industrious striving men, and not paupers who only came out for hire. The Canadian Government and the American Government had done all in their power to attract these small capitalists, and we should do the same. One more thing he had to speak of was the free selectors' parliament, for there was a free selectors' parliament here the other day. Delegates came from all parts of the country, and they passed certain resolutions. They said: "We made a bargain and agreed to pay taxes, and we won't keep our bargain; we have got lots of land, and we want you to make roads through it as fast as you can; we want you to establish a bank and lend us money, and we will pay you interest upon it." By-and-bye they would say "We won't pay the interest." This was a most important matter. A bank was an institution which gathered the idle money of the colony, paid a small interest for it, and afterwards distributed it in a hundred ways. It brought money from Singleton, where it might otherwise be useless, and lent it to some man at Botany, and thus assisted to establish some industry. The moment a Government bank was established, the value of this money would fall, and people who had any knowledge of commercial transactions could understand how disastrous would be such a suicidal policy as this free-selectors' bank, and the abolition of free-selectors' interest. (Hear, hear.) He asked them to support him on the following grounds:—First, there was the simple principle that he had no private interests to serve—no political axe to grind, and that he had no sons to put into Government billets. Secondly, he would do all he could to adjust the revenue and expenditure of the country on the lines he had mentioned, and he would adhere to free-trade principles. Thirdly, he would do all he could to assist in the proper reorganization of the Civil service, doing justice to the deserving ones in it, who had been neglected, and getting the political drones turned out. Fourthly, he would support a reorganization of the land laws, so as to obtain a proper revenue from the squatters' leases. Fifthly, he would do all he could to get enforced here the Imperial Act which rendered employers who neglected proper precautions liable for injuries sustained by their servants. In conclusion, he thanked them for the patient hearing they had given him. (Applause.)

In reply to questions, Mr. PILE said that he would have the same law for the Europeans as for the Chinese; the Chinese could be punished if they worked on Sundays. He was in favour of boilers on land being inspected as well as marine boilers.

Mr. S. HODGES moved that Mr. George Pile was a fit and proper person to represent the electorate of Canterbury in the ensuing Parliament.

Mr. JAMES DRUMMOND seconded the resolution, and it was unanimously passed, and a committee was formed to secure the return of Mr. Pile. A vote of thanks was passed to the chairman, and the meeting terminated.

On Monday last Mr. Pigott addressed a meeting of the electors, at Jacob's Hotel, Arncliffe. Mr. Bowmer, the Mayor of West Botany, occupied the chair, and spoke very favourably of the candidate. Mr. Pigott entered fully into the political questions of the day, and the usual resolution in his favour was unanimously carried; and also the usual vote of thanks to the chairman. On Tuesday Mr. Pigott addressed the largest meeting ever held in the village of Canterbury. The chair was occupied by the Mayor, Mr. J. C. Sharp, who, in introducing the candidate, spoke of him in very high terms, and intimated his intention to vote for the candidate and Sir Henry Parkes. Mr. Pigott referred to all questions of local and general interest, and the usual resolution that he was a fit and proper person to represent the electorate was moved by Alderman Francis Quigg, seconded by Alderman Roberts, and supported by Mr. Moncur, and other gentlemen. Mr. O'Mara, barrister-at-law, then addressed the meeting in opposition to Mr. Pigott's views, and contending that interest should be remitted to the free selectors, and that those who had already paid interest should have it refunded. He was continually interrupted by the meeting. Mr. Pigott replied, and the motion in Mr. Pigott's favour was carried amid cheers, Mr. O'Mara being the only dissentient.

NEWTOWN ELECTORATE.

Last night Mr. John Young addressed the electors of Newtown from the balcony of the Town Hall Hotel, Newtown. A very large concourse of the voters on the roll and others (including a considerable number of boys of the larrikin class) assembled; the chair being occupied by Mr. D. Wildman, Mayor of Newtown. The chairman having introduced the candidate,

Mr. YOUNG (who was received with applause and some marks of disapprobation) said he came before them as a candidate for their suffrages at the forthcoming general election—(dissent)—and those gentlemen who were boohooing him would do better to wait, and see what he had to say. If after listening to what he had to say they thought he was not a fit person to represent them they knew what to do on the polling-day. (Hear, hear.) The first thing he had to say was that he was a freetrader, and he was a freetrader because he thought that in a country like this they should not interfere with the trade of the country or they would injure it. At the same time, as one who knew and had had great experience, he contended that trade in the country should be encouraged by the Government having their locomotives, rails, and railway carriages, and all such things, as far as possible, constructed in the country. (Applause.) He had been in the protectionist colony of Victoria, and in their railway carriages he saw American walnut, and American bird's-eye maple, and American nickel silver, and yet the names of Wright and Edwards at their ends as the makers. He called that a fraud. ("Oh," and applause.) He had been in carriages built in this country, and had seen the genuine cedar and other genuine colonial work made in this country by Hudson, Brothers. He called a carriage like that a genuine native production; and he thought, therefore, that when they found in a protectionist country a fraud in the shape of foreign material, he gave the preference to the home production as they found it in New South Wales. He believed that all the works required by the Government should be carried out in the colony. No man in the community had done more for native productions than he had done himself, in the development of the marble and stone industries. He had introduced New South Wales stone into Adelaide and Melbourne; and there was a large trade now between Sydney and these places, due to his efforts. (Hear, hear, and dissent.) He had done his share to encourage these native industries a very much larger share than some people supposed. He was opposed to ad valorem duties, as dishonest merchants and importers could manipulate them for their own benefit; but they required taxation in that country; there was no doubt of that, for, as had been shown last session of Parliament, there had been a deficiency of £150,000 or £200,000. He believed the right way to raise the revenue of this country was that the lands of the country should be taxed. He considered that the squatters did not pay sufficient for the rights and privileges that they had; but at the same time he thought there were lands in the country, that were not required for other purposes, that might be let on a fixity of tenure to the squatters, and if this were done he believed they would pay five or six times the amount of rent that they paid at the present time, and this would give a very considerable amount of revenue to the State. There was another thing that he would be strongly inclined to do, and that was to tax absentees. (Cheers.) He did not say they could do that personally, but those who were drawing their money from the country should pay for it, and not, as they did now, make their tenants pay. He would prevent the tenants paying the tax that might be put upon the absentees, for they had quite enough municipal taxation to pay. He thought there were ways of reaching those people, and he would go for reaching them. The next question he had to consider was that of education, and he might say at once that he was in favour of the present Education Act. (Applause.) He believed in educating every child in the country. He was very sorry to say that there were parents who did not know the value of education sufficiently to make their children go to school, and he would compel these persons to send them. The State should require that reading, writing, and arithmetic should be properly known to all; but he would go further than that, for he thought it would be a good thing for the rudiments of all the sciences to be taught to the children, and for lecturers to be employed to go continually through the length and breadth of the country to teach these rudiments. If they did this the children would know the reasons why of things. (Hear, hear.) In reference to the eight-hour system, he could only say that he had been in business over twenty-five years in Australia, and for twenty-three years he had carried on under that system. It was no theory with him; he had carried it out amongst his employés for twenty-three years, and he had employed more men than any single individual in Australia; and he had not only employed them, but had paid them the highest rate of wages going. (Dissent.) And he had had the best men, and had them now, and some of them he had had for over twenty years. If men said he was a harsh master, he would say let his own men come forward and say what they thought. He had had plenty of employés who had not done their duty, and they could not expect that he would be foolish enough to keep them. Some of these men might speak ill of him, but let those who had been with him for years come and speak. ["How about the £28?"] He would tell them about the £28. About two months ago he let a contract to make a tramway line. A man started it, and he paid him £38 on account. And he thought he had finished it; and when he came to see it he found he had gone 40 feet out of the direct line. ("Its a lie.") It was true, and he (Mr. Young) had had to pay £33 to put that right. That man sued him in the Court, but he had not a chance, and lost his case. He had had a lot of business in his time, and had met with lots of rogues, but he had always stopped the rogues while the honest men had had fair play. In regard to the eight hour movement, he could assure them that he was much a supporter of that than many people thought. He had taken the chair at the early closing meetings—and it was here that he blamed many working men who worked only eight hours themselves, but had no consideration for others, but shopped at night, and kept other people up. These men were not consistent, and when the question was raised in the Municipal Council of Sydney the other day, he took the opportunity of saying to those who raised it, "You are working your own people fourteen or fifteen hours a day, and yet you come here to deal with other people's money in this way. Why don't you do it yourselves? Be a little consistent and carry the thing out in your own businesses. You are simply doing it for electioneering purposes." He believed in early closing, and thought that if there was one thing above another that machinery should do for mankind it was to shorten the hours of labour. He next came to the land question. The free-selectors had recently got up an agitation in this colony for the purpose of getting the Government to remit their interest. As Sir Henry Parkes had told them, if this interest were remitted it would make a difference of £450,000 a year in the revenue of this colony. Were they prepared to make that up? No. And if the people of the towns and cities and villages were not prepared to make that up, who was? This amount must not be remitted; it was an honest debt contracted, but at the same time every consideration should be given to the selectors, but the remission of interest would be more benefit to the squatter than to the free selector. (Hear, hear.) When a man went into agricultural pursuits he wanted his money at the beginning, and not at the end of his occupancy of the land. Under present arrangements, if a man took up 400 acres he had to pay 5s. an acre cash down and £1 an acre in improvements, making a total of £500 which he had to lay out; was it not better that he should keep the money in his pocket, and in order that he might do this he would reserve areas of land to be leased for 99 years at a low rental instead of making them pay out all their money at the outset. There was another most important question, and that was the matter of irrigation. He would reserve all the lands that were fit for irrigation, for Australia was subject to drought, and would have the Government carry out works for each section. The irrigation of New South Wales would take 50 or 100 years, but at the same time we should make a beginning, so that we should have something to fall back upon in case of drought. Now he came to the question of Chinese immigration. (Cheers.) He would stop it at once. (Applause.) He did not believe in them. He did not believe in the Chinese coming here at all. He had been to San Francisco and had seen 40,000 of them there, and he would not like to live within 100 miles of them. It was a most serious business, and when they remembered that China had three or four hundred millions of people, and that if they took a fancy to come here they might come in millions and millions, and they ought to nip it in the bud. (Hear, hear.) With respect to European immigration he would like to see people so impressed with the prosperity of New South Wales that they would come here without Government money being expended. We did not want the scourings of the streets and cities of Europe, but those who had a bit of energy in them and had some money in their pockets. [A voice: "You have done well enough."] He had done very well. The next subject he found on his paper was that of payment of members, which he might as well say at once he was not in favour of, simply for the reason that wherever the principle had been adopted it had not proved successful. In America it was started at £300 a year, and had now increased to £1500 a year. He did not not want payment if he were returned, for he had enough in his pocket. Yet he had worked—aye, as hard as any one in that crowd. Some called him a successful man—(hear, hear)—but he did not call himself one; but still he was satisfied. He would, however, go to this extent, that if there were a poor man in a locality whom a majority of the electors of that locality considered a fit man to represent them, he would agree to that man being paid. They had recently had in this country what he regarded as an infringement of the liberty of the subject, and he was very sorry to see it, for he was one of those law-abiding individuals who, when he saw a policeman, even said that his coat should be respected. When, however, Judges took the law into their own hands without introducing the judge and jury principle, he was not pleased. (Cheers.) It was a tyrannical act. If, instead of fining people to the extent of £250, they had put the matter before a jury of twelve of their countrymen, he would not have said a word against them. There was not a man in the country that would uphold such high star-chamber proceedings, and if he had the honour of getting into Parliament, he would be one of those who would put these matters in such a form that they could not do these high-handed things. He now came to the subject of public works, and he must say that he was one of those who believed that the country could be developed to an enormous extent by judicious public works. He was looking in the newspapers the other day, and he saw that there were upwards of 10,000 miles of railway line in course of construction there. He had been all over America, and observed that it had been so well developed by railways that he now came to the conclusion that this country could not do better than follow its example. He would advocate not costly railways so much as those of medium cost, and he would advocate the construction of these as quickly as possible. He remembered the time when £100 was paid for the conveyance of a ton of flour to Mount Victoria; but now it was carried for £1, and that was a very fair instance of what was done by judicious public works. He would be in favour of extending the railway to the middle of Sydney to Circular Quay, and to all the wharfs. The streets at present were cramped by the enormous amount of traffic in them. Statesmen should look to the future and what the country was coming to. It was the want of their doing so that had lost so much to this country. If the statesmen of twenty years ago had looked forward to the present time millions of money might have been saved. (Cheers.) He would, in addition to this, like to know how they could carry out practical things if they found in Parliament men who had no experience of practical matters. If they were ill they would go for a doctor, if they wanted to go to law they would go to a lawyer, and he supposed if they wanted information concerning public works, they would go to a man experienced in them. Therefore, he did not think he was wrong in saying that Parliament would be much better for the introduction of a few practical men into it, and he would ask, would it be any the worse for the State? Did they not think that it would be to the advantage of it? If not, what was the use of all experience. While he said this he wished it to be understood that he did not want pecuniary assistance from the State, nor from any living man. They were all dependent upon each other, and what he wanted was the countenance and respect of his fellow men. Their support was honour to him, and if it were not for the honour of being their representative, nothing else in the world would have induced him to come forward. [A voice: "You are not in yet."] [Another voice: "You soon will be, though."] For twenty-five years he had invariably acted to the best of his ability, and had given satisfaction to his employers in all the public works he had undertaken for them. (Hear, hear.) Did not that prove him worthy of their support? (Hear, hear.) He had been in business in Melbourne, in Tasmania, and in this colony; but he was a New South Welshman. His home was here, and all the exertions he was capable of should be given on behalf of New South Wales. ["What about the tramways?"] He was in favour of tramways everywhere, and he knew a great deal about them. The next matter he desired to refer to was the licensing system, and he must say that he was not in favour of the present one. To his mind it was terribly abused. If they went to the licensing Court they would find one party organizing itself against another in a most improper manner. The result was that really good men who had the best of liquors and houses sometimes had their applications for licenses refused, and men who really ought not to have licenses obtained them. (Hear, hear.) To his mind—and he would fight for the principle—all license fees in a district should go to that district, and that district should have the privilege of spending them, and if there were a locality in which the majority of people did not desire the establishment of a public-house, he held that they should have power to prevent it being established. He did not, however, maintain that proper houses should not exist, because he considered them a necessity, but he thought there were too many public-houses for the requirements of the public and to be advantageous to all who kept them. (Hear, hear.) He believed more people were killed by taking adulterated drinks than by taking good liquor. (Cheers.) He was not in favour of tolls, because he considered them an antiquated method of raising revenue. Out of every £100 raised, £30 or £40 went to the toll-keepers. If they imposed a tax, the gross amount which it realized should, with as few deductions as possible, be paid into the Treasury. Who liked to pay a toll when he went out driving? ["You don't."] He did not, but he as perfectly willing to pay his share towards keeping the roads in repair. He was willing to put on a wheel-tax which he considered fairer than tolls; do away with tolls—["So I say"]—and find some other method of keeping the roads in order. ["What about the Exhibition?"] He had had one, and that was enough for him. (Hear, hear.) He was in favour of extending the municipal system all over the country; of establishing shires which should arrange for keeping the roads in order, and for raising revenue for constructing bridges and forming roads. The Government were too much overtaxed with work to attend to these works, and therefore the country people should be made to put their shoulders to the wheel, and to help themselves. The Government should give them a certain amount of assistance for a few years because the difficulties in the case of all municipalities in a new country arose at their commencement. He was sure that works in the country could be executed in better form under the direction of a local board than under that of a central Government. The City of Sydney suffered for many years from the fact of the Government extracting from it the various license fees, and leaving it only the power to impose a shilling rate. The result was that it got about £700,000 into debt. That was a very bad state of things. It and all municipalities should have power to sufficiently tax a neighbourhood, but not to overburden it. (Hear, hear.) Two more subjects he desired to trouble them with, which were the water supplies for the city, suburbs, and all other places, and the sewerage, both of which he regarded as most important. The Government were going to spend a million pounds on waterworks, and he thought that too much attention could not be paid to the matter. They were aware that recently a gentleman named Gipps said that from Kenny Hill a gravitation system of water supply could be obtained for the city. That gentleman had shown sufficient data to justify a thorough investigation into his proposal. He should have fair play, for they knew that a gravitation scheme was infinitely preferable to a pumping one. (Hear, hear.) If they came to a pumping scheme their Botany scheme was pretty nearly good enough for their requirements. He had gone into the question to a considerable extent. It was his opinion that there must be 60 feet of water in the Prospect dam before they could draw a pint from it. That was a defect, because there would be in the dam 60 feet of dead water. ("Gravitation for ever.") There would also be about forty miles of open course over rough country and sandstone spurs, and this meant puddling and lining with brick or cement. And what was that going to cost? It had not been calculated yet, and therefore he thought there were grave defects in the scheme. The Kenny Hill scheme, it was said, obviated the necessity for an open course, and on this account he felt assured that it demanded investigation. (Hear, hear.) In matters of this kind the presence of a practical man in Parliament would be advantageous to the country, for they could not expect people who were doctors and barristers, or anything of that kind, to know anything of the practical nature of waterworks or railways; and small blame to them. One or two millions a year were being spent on public works, and he maintained that with a view of seeing the money suitably applied, half a dozen good practical men in the House would be a benefit to it. This was one of the views which induced him to seek the suffrages of the electors of Newtown. He thanked them for having listened to him so long, and he hoped that when the polling day came they would return him. (Loud cheers.)

Mr. YOUNG, in reply to questions, stated that he was opposed to the introduction of Chinese, and was in favour of a poll-tax; that he was in favour of the present Education Act; that he was in favour of leasing country lands, and selling town and suburban lands; and that he would support a local option measure.

The proceedings concluded with a vote of confidence in Mr. Young, proposed by Alderman J. H. SMITH, seconded by Alderman WILLIAM TYE.

A preliminary meeting of the friends and supporters of Mr. Edward Hordern, for South Sydney, was held at M'Annally's Garrick's Head Hotel, Crown-street, Surry Hills, when a large number of influential gentlemen attended. Mr. W. B. Cole was elected chairman, and a large committee formed to secure Mr. Hordern's election. The electorate was divided into sections, and other necessary arrangements made for securing Mr. Hordern's return. After the candidate had briefly stated his views, Mr. Benjamin Rhodes proposed, and Mr. John O'Brien seconded,—"That Mr. Hordern is a fit and proper person to represent the electorate of South Sydney in the new Parliament." The motion was carried with acclamation, and an executive committee afterwards appointed.

A preliminary meeting of the friends and supporters of Mr. Thomas White, candidate for the representation of West Sydney electorate at the forthcoming election, was held last night at the Three Crowns Hotel, Charlotte-place. Alderman J. D. Young occupied the chair. After some discussion, it was resolved that the gentlemen present should form themselves into a committee, with power to add to their number, to secure the return of Mr. White.

A meeting of the friends and supporters of Alderman John Taylor, candidate for the representation of Balmain, was held last night at Moran's Native Rose Hotel; Alderman Hutchinson in the chair. Mr. Taylor, who was well received, spoke for over an hour on local and general matters engaging the attention of the public at the present time, and answered various questions put to him by electors in a manner satisfactory to them. Mr. Thomas P. Lister proposed the usual vote of confidence in Mr. Taylor, which was seconded by Mr. Hutchinson, and on being put to the meeting was carried. About 250 electors were present, many of whom signed their names on Mr. Taylor's committee. Three cheers for the Queen and candidate, and a vote of thanks to the chairman, brought the meeting to a close.

Our Tamworth correspondents telegraphs:—Mr. Levien addressed the electors at Bowling Alley Point on Thursday; Hanging Rock on Friday, and Nundle on Saturday. He was well received at each place, and the meetings were largely attended. In that locality his return is considered certain.

SONS OF TEMPERANCE.

The No. 1 Grand Division of the order of the Sons of Temperance commenced its fifteenth annual session last night, in the Temperance Hall, Mr. G. F. Mason, G.W.P., presiding. The grand division was opened in the usual manner, after which credentials were received from 105 representatives; and eight new members, who had filled the chair in their subordinate divisions for the required time, were duly initiated. Brother C. T. Pierce, the Grand Scribe, then read the minutes of the previous quarterly session. The ballot for the election of officers for the ensuing year was then taken, Brothers Brown, Tillock, and Carpenter acting as scrutineers. The addresses of the Grand Worthy Patriarch and Grand Scribe were then delivered, both dealing with the doings of the officers and the general working of the order for the past year. From these we learn that there are 42 subdivisions under No. 1 Grand Division, viz.:—29 of sons, and 13 of daughters, the former numbering 1838 members, and the latter 980, who collectively subscribed about £6500 during the year, out of which they paid £4500 away in benefits and working expenses, &c., leaving them with a credit balance of £10,800. After the reading of the reports the scrutineers handed in the result of the ballot, showing Brother G. F. Mason had been re-elected G.W.P.; Brother G. Gordon, G.W.A.; Brother T. J. Pierce, G.S. (unopposed and for the third time re-elected); Brother H. Smart, G.T. (unopposed); Brother H. Billinghurst, G.C.; Brother W. S. Jenkins, G. Conductor; and Brother E. Manning, G. Sentinel. The business of the Grand division was then adjourned until Monday, the 8th proximo. Immediately after the ballot had been announced the members, at the invitation of Brother Mason, adjourned to take tea at the new Coffee Tavern, Pitt-street, and about 160 persons, including a number of visitors, sat down to the refreshments. Brother Mason occupied the chair, and among those present were Brothers John Davies and John Roseby, M.S.L.A.; D. M'Beath, P.G.W.P.; Holdsworth, M.W.S.; Carpenter, Naughton, Abigail, and Pierce. After the usual loyal toasts had been duly proposed and honoured, Brother Holdsworth proposed "Our Order," and Brother Roseby responded. "Kindred Associations" was proposed by Brother Davies, and responded to by Brother M'Beath. Brother M'Beath then proposed "Our Visitors," to which Brothers A. Morris and F. Abigail responded. The health of Brother Mason was proposed by Brother E. Bevan, and and feelingly acknowledged, and the formalities of the gathering then terminated.

WOOD-PAVING.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I have long been of opinion that the system of wood-paving would be suitable for our streets, and quite practicable, having at our command timber adapted for the purpose, and almost useless for any other.

I feel confident if a trial were made it would prove more successful than the asphalt blocks now laid in George-street. If adapted it would open up a new industry; the saving of cleansing would be enormous—a brigade of boys would suffice. But, before attempting such a plan, all defective kerbing should be replaced by granite cut kerbstone.

In order to produce this material I would suggest that all persons under sentence for over six or more months should be made to cut granite kerbing, the same to be offered to our municipal authorities, at a reasonable price per foot. In establishing a granite quarry for prisoners, it would relieve the present central gaol of its members, and give good wholesome labour to the prisoners, in place of the present light work of mat-making, bookbinding, &c. After they have spent a few not unpleasant months in gaol, they leave the same with improved health, with soft white hands, and with very little or no taste for manual labour. Let the indigent and blind of our country have the light labour, and send the prisoners to quarries.

Our streets once kerbed with granite will look well, and last for half a century to come. Yours, &c.,

THOMAS REEVE.

METROPOLITAN VITAL STATISTICS.

The following is the Registrar-General's report on the vital statistics of Sydney and suburbs, for the month of September, and for the quarter ended 30th September, 1880:—

"Sydney: The births recorded in Sydney during September numbered 288, viz.:—147 males and 141 females, being 48 in excess of the deaths, and 3 below the quinquennial average. The deaths numbered 240, viz.:—121 males and 119 females, being 77 above the five years' average. The proportion of local diseases was 41·25 per cent.; the principal causes of death in this class were—cephalitis, 8; apoplexy, 4; convulsions, 12; heart disease, 10; bronchitis, 22; pneumonia, 17; and congestion of the lungs, 6. The next in order, as being the most fatal, was the zymotic class (27·91 per cent.), due principally to the prevalence of measles, to which 40 succumbed; of these 35 were under the age of 5 years, and the disease was in many cases accompanied with, or succeeded by, pneumonia, bronchitis, congestion of the lungs, croup, cephalitis, convulsions, or diarrhœa. The other diseases most prominent in the zymotic class were, whooping cough, 5; croup, 4; typhoid fever, 6; and diarrhœa, 5. Next follow constitutional diseases, the percentage of which was 13·75—dropsy, 5; cancer, 7; phthisis, 16, &c. Developmental diseases gave 11·25 per cent.: premature birth, 3; childbirth, 1 (besides 1 from metria); old age, 5; and atrophy and debility (infants), 13, being the primary causes. The violent deaths were—accidents, 7 (tetanus, 1; drowning, 2; infant suffocated in bed, 1; suffocation whilst eating, 1; from the effects of chloroform administered with the intention of performing an operation, 1; and from injuries causing miscarriage, 1); infanticide, 1; manslaughter, 1; and found drowned, 1: total, 10. The number of persons of the age of 70 years and upwards that died during the month was 13, viz.:—Two males, aged 72 and 74, from old age; one, aged 76, from bronchitis; and one, aged 79, from chronic cystitis and dropsy. One female, aged 70, from congestion of the lungs; three, aged 72, 74, and 82, from bronchitis; one, aged 75, from dropsy and hepatitis; one, aged 76, from heart disease; and three, aged 76, 80, and 82, from old age. Thirty-three deaths, or 13·75 per cent. of the total number, took place in public institutions:—In Bourke Ward, Sydney Infirmary, 20, and Hyde Park Asylum, 4; in Phillip Ward, Benevolent Asylum, 7; and in Fitzroy Ward, St. Vincent's Hospital, 2.

SUBURBS.—In the suburbs the number of births registered was 354, viz.:—167 males and 187 females, being 182 more than the deaths, and exceeding the average of September in the years 1875 to 1879 by 57. The number of deaths was 172—viz., 95 males and 77 females, being 75 more than the average of the previous five years. Nearly half the deaths (49·42 per cent.) were from local diseases, of which the following were the most fatal:—Convulsions, 11; heart disease, 13; bronchitis, 20; pneumonia, 17; and congestion of the lungs, 9. Zymotic diseases stand next with a proportion of 30·23 per cent:—Measles, 18; diphtheria, 5; croup, 5; whooping cough, 9; diarrhœa, 8, &c. Next follow developmental diseases (11·63 per cent.)—the primary cause of death—premature birth, 3; childbirth, 3 (besides 1 from metria); old age, 4; and atrophy and debility, 8. The proportion borne by constitutional diseases was 8·14 per cent.,—cancer, 3; phthisis, 7, &c. There were no accidents, and only one violent death, a suicide by hanging. The number of deaths of old people was 8, viz.: One male, aged 75, from chronic bronchitis and asthma; one, aged 80, from cardiac disease; and one, aged 96, from old age. Two females, aged 70 and 71, from apoplexy; one, aged 76, from pneumonia; and two, aged 83 and 86, from old age.

In the Metropolitan Division (Sydney and suburbs) the births numbered 642, and the deaths 412, being respectively 119 less and 129 more than the numbers registered in September last year. The number of births for the quarter was 2139, and the deaths 1145, which are 8 less and 335 more than the registrations made during the same period of 1879. The infantile deaths were 51·25 per cent. of the total mortality in the city, and 18·33 per cent. above the average of the previous five years. The per-centage in the suburbs was 59·88.

FOUNDATION OF THE TOWN HALL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In your sub-article to-day you ask who it was that set the Corporation on distrusting the foundation of the Town Hall. If any credit is due to any one it is to myself. A short time since the Council met to decide on Alderman Hardie's motion as to adopting plans, &c., for the completion of the Town Hall, to cost, I think, £70,000 or over. Being outside the Council room to enjoy a smoke I noticed what I thought to be some very inferior work for such a building. I rooted out some rubble, &c., out of a large opening with my knife, and noticing some more very bad work, I called Alderman Dean outside to inspect it. He at once expressed a very strong opinion on the character of the work. The result was that when Alderman Hardie moved his resolution I moved an amendment to appoint a committee, consisting of Aldermen Dean, John Young, Withers, and others, to report on the character of the work done in the foundations. After inspecting it, they recommended that certain architects should be appointed to inspect the work and report on it. The result is known through the columns of the Press, and I believe a most glaring job has been exposed.

Mr. Rowe, architect, and others, gave certificates which were read before the Council; and, if I recollect rightly, they stated the work was of a good character, and sufficient to carry the superstructure.

I was not in the Council when the tenders were accepted; but I think I am correct in stating that Mr. Rhodes tendered to do the work for £1000 less than the successful tenderers; and his contract was refused, I think, on the ground that his sureties were not good ones.

The worst part of the job is this, that after the money of contract was spent, it was stated that, in consequence of the contractors having to put more courses of masonry below ground than was thought to be required at first so as to get a good foundation, it was found necessary to carry up more courses, so as to raise the work to its proper level; and it was stated that as the contractors had their plant on the ground they could do the work for less than other persons, and a sum approaching, I think, £2000 was paid them for it; and this was the work which I noticed.

I have no hesitation in saying that a number of the aldermen are ruled by a certain organization in Sydney; and through them Corporation contracts are given to favoured persons, and the result of this is known through the Press revelations as to the nature of the work done in the foundations of the new, or great hall of the Town Hall.

Whilst writing, I wish to call attention to the fact that the aldermen are mere puppets in the hands of the Mayor for the time being, who has almost the sole control of the expenditure, in proof of which I will cite two cases. Some twelve months ago, I carried through the Council, whilst Mr. Roberts was Mayor, a resolution to appropriate a sum of money to form, ballast, macadamise, kerb, and gutter Rosebank-street; but up to this date the work is not done; but a lane intersecting Rosebank-street was formed and macadamised whilst Mr. Roberts was Mayor, to oblige a brother alderman, and this job was done without the Council voting the money, and the lane goes from an alderman's back door to his stables. 'Twas part of the plea that no money was available to make Rosebank-street. On the 10th of June last I had carried through Council a motion to appropriate £98 to make a sewer to Victoria-street, to connect Mr. W. Long's new and large terrace of houses. This work is not done yet. On speaking to the City Engineer about it some time ago I was told by him to get an order from the Mayor, and the work would be done at once. And other works of a similar nature, for which the money was voted long after, have been done through favoured aldermen getting an order of the Mayor to have the work done.

I intend shortly to sever my connection with the Council. I object to having to go hat-in-hand to any Mayor to get work done as a favour which I claim as a right, after the Council has voted the money. The cliquism in the Corporation is too strong for me; and before taking my leave of it I think I may be doing the ratepayers some service by letting them know how the wires are pulled behind the scenes.

In conclusion, I wish to say that I believe the Corporation accounts are as badly kept in many cases as it is possible for them to be, as was proved by the auditors' late report, showing large sums of money as due to the Corporation, and of which the treasurer's books showed no account.

I believe that the money would be well spent if the City Auditor, Mr. Joseph Carroll, were appointed to thoroughly inspect the Corporation books for the last ten years.

INSTITUTION FOR THE DEAF AND DUMB AND THE BLIND.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—A Mr. Sharp, in his letter of this morning in the Herald, on the subject of the education of the Deaf and Dumb and the Blind in the institution on the Newtown Road, seems desirous of impressing his own peculiar inferences on the public mind. I would simply ask anyone interested in the matter to visit the school in question, and judge for himself as to the efficiency of the institution in having some of the pupils taught trades, &c.

The words used by the chairman to which Mr. Sharp takes exception are as follows:—"We turned our attention to industrial pursuits, and had some of the pupils taught trades, according to their several capacities. One of the pupils, named David Gilbert, acquired such a knowledge of music that he is now a tuner of musical instruments, and has the confidence of all who have employed him."

Yours, faithfully, GEORGE KING.

A RELIC OF THE SPANISH ARMADA.—Another relic of the Spanish Armada has been secured at Slains by the efforts of Mr. David Ritchie and the salmon fishermen. It is a large gun raised up out of the place where one of the ships belonging to the Armada was wrecked, and, strange to say, though it has been in that place for upwards of 290 years, yet it seems as good as ever. The length of the gun is 8 feet, the diameter at the touch-hole 13 inches, and the diameter of the bore at muzzle 4 inches. It appears to be loaded, partly with nails. One of these is in a complete state, well made, and arrow-shaped. A slight rubbing with a piece of cloth makes it shine, which leads to the supposition that it is made of hammered iron. Several guns from the same place have been raised and presented to the Queen, and another is in the possession of Lord Abercorn.—Edinburgh Daily Review.

Custom-House.—Entered Outwards, October 25: Ridge Park (s.), 618 tons, Captain A. M'Kenzie, for Adelaide; Te Anau (s.), 1028 tons, Captain M. Cary, for Auckland and New Zealand ports; Leura (s.), 758 tons, Captain John Pain, for Melbourne via Newcastle.

The ship Mitredale, from Liverpool, has not previously visited this port, though she has several times voyaged to Melbourne, and from thence went to San Francisco via Newcastle. Captain Brown reports leaving Liverpool on July 24th with S.W. winds, which continued for eight days after leaving, variables and W. and N.W. winds followed till taking the N.E. trades in latitude 26° N. on August 8th; after being very light the trades were lost in latitude 14° N. on August 15th; had S. and S.W. winds from thence to 1° N.; crossed the equator on August 26th in longitude 22° W. The south-east trades were pretty good, and took the ship into latitude 20° S., and longitude 30½° W., from there to the prime meridian had moderate and variable winds; passed the meridian of the Cape of Good Hope on the 17th in latitude 41° S.; ran the longitude down in the parallels of 41° and 43° S., with very moderate, but unsteady winds on September 26, in latitude 41° S. and longitude 62° E.; had heavy gale from N.W. with a nasty sea; another gale came on on October 8th from the W.S.W.; from the 9th to the 16th, light variables prevailed; made Cape Otway on the 19th at 11 a.m. with a strong west gale; but it went round to east on the following morning, and varied from N.E. to south-east for three days, with a very low barometer; since leaving the Straits on Friday evening, south-east to south-west winds have prevailed; took the pilot off Sydney Heads on October 25 at 7 p.m.

The Ridge Park (s.), from Adelaide, brings a large quantity of salvage goods from the wreck of the Sorata.

The Te Anau (s.) left Port Chalmers on the 13th at 4 p.m., and after calling at Port Lyttelton, Wellington, Napier, Gisborne, Auckland, and Russell, left the latter port for Sydney on the 20th at 5 p.m., passed the Three Kings at midnight, and experienced strong westerly gale until the 23rd, after which moderate south-west winds until arrival at 10 a.m. on the 25th.

The Australian (s.), from the Grafton, cleared the Heads on the 24th instant, at 3 p.m., and entered Sydney Heads at 3.15 on the 25th. Experienced light northerly winds to Smoky Cape, thence fresh southerly winds to arrival. Cargo: 1170 bags maize, 240 mats sugar, 120 hides, 412 bunches bananas, 13 cases eggs, 4 coops fowls, and sundries.

The Leura (s.) cleared Port Phillip Heads at 0.15 p.m. on the 23rd instant, and entered Port Jackson at 11 a.m. on the 25th, making the passage in 40½ hours. Experienced light variable winds to Cape Howe, and moderate S.E. breeze the rest of the passage.

The American barque Calcutta sailed from Boston on July 16. Experienced moderate south-westerly and variable winds to the north-east trades, which were very moderate, and prevailed well from the southward. Crossed the equator on August 21; thence had fair S.E. trades, and passed the meridian of the Cape of Good Hope on September 15 in latitude 40° S. Ran the easting down in latitude 45° S. with most unsteady winds and unpleasant weather; made Cape Otway on October 19, at 11.30 p.m., and when off Flinder's Island, on the 22nd, had a strong S.E. gale, lasting throughout the 23rd. The gale started at E., went to N.E., and finally backed into S.E., bringing up a very heavy sea. The Calcutta has on board a quantity of cargo for Brisbane.

The Firth of Cromarty sailed from Glasgow on June 30, and had variable winds to the N.E. trades, which were got in latitude 23° N. on July 22, and lost in latitude 17° N. From thence had fresh and variable winds to the Equator, which was crossed on August 12, in longitude 22° W. Had strong S.E. trades, with changeable squally weather, to latitude 27° S., made on August 26. From thence to the meridian of the Cape of Good Hope had strong breezes and squally weather from W. and S.W. Passed the meridian of the Cape of Good Hope on September 9, in latitude 43° S., and ran the easting down between the parallels of 43 and 45° S., with very variable weather. Passed Cape Otway on October 18, and had a very rough passage on the coast. On the 22nd, off Cape Howe, had a strong gale, veering between S.E. and N.E.

The Keilawarra (s.) left Rockhampton at 10.30 a.m. on the 19th instant, and arrived at Maryborough at 7.40 p.m. same day, light northerly winds; left Maryborough at 6.15 a.m. on the 21st, and entered Moreton Bay at 5.30 p.m.; anchored until 10.30 p.m., proceeded and arrived at Brisbane at 12 (midnight)—fresh southerly winds, hazy weather, with occasional rain squalls; left Brisbane at 10.15 a.m. on the 23rd, cleared South Passage at 1.30 p.m., and entered Sydney Heads at 4.45 a.m. on the 25th, and made fast alongside wharf at 5.30 a.m. same day. Experienced fresh head winds from Point Danger, accompanied with rain.

The single girl immigrants by the La Hogue were landed by the Minx (s.) at Fort Macquarie at noon yesterday.

The Wentworth (s.) passed Gabo Island at 3.15 p.m., and the R.M.S. Hydaspes at 3.35 p.m. on Sunday, both bound west; and the Tasman (s.) at 3.20 p.m. on Sunday, bound south.

The Ly-ee-Moon (s.) cleared Port Phillip Heads at 5.55 p.m. on the 23rd instant, and entered Sydney Heads at 4.45 p.m. on the 25th. Experienced moderate southerly wind and sea to Promontory, moderate N.E. wind to Gabo Island, moderate and light easterly to Cape St. George, thence light and moderate E.S.E. wind to Heads.

The barque Ocean Ranger, from New York bound to Port Lyttelton, put into Mauritius on August 26 for repairs.

A steamer, supposed to be the Menmuir, from Hongkong via Port Darwin, was off Ballina Heads yesterday at 6a.m.

The pilot steamer Captain Cook, in addition to her regular duties, occasionally acts as a rescue steamer, and as lately as Saturday last appeared in that character. Shortly before 7 o'clock at night the signal "proceed" was made to her from the South Head Station, and after rounding the South Head Reef Captain Creer observed a vessel close to the shore, burning flash lights. This was the barque Fanny Fisher, whose captain wished to be towed further out, and this seasonable service was at once performed for him by the Captain Cook.

Messrs. Gilchrist, Watt, and Co. have received a cablegram advising the departure from San Francisco of the R. M. S. S. City of Sydney on the 23rd instant, contract date 25th.

The recommendations of the surveyors of Valparaiso regarding the barque Antipodes were as follows:—The vessel to be placed in dock, and to be stripped, horsed to the bends, caulked throughout, and to be felted and remetalled, new bulwarks where required, and a new rudder stock. In order to meet the cost of these repairs, bottomry bonds to the extent of 26,000 dols., Chilian currency, were invited.

The Valentine, ship, left Barow July 27, for Port Augusta, South America.

The Gunga (s.) not having arrived from Levuka, the Leichardt (s.) will take her place on the Fiji line, leaving Sydney to-day.

Herr Bottger says that there is no method so convenient and so sure as that by glucose in alkaline solution for reducing the salts of silver.

Extract from letter of Private Ward, of the Frontier Mounted Police, Cape Colony.—"I should just like you to see the real farm-house Bread that I bake! The oven is one dug in the ground, and is just large enough to hold our daily quantum of two loaves. We use flour, water, salt, and Borwick's Baking Powder. My bread of ten surprises me, it is so light, and white as snow. Some of our men will insist that I have been 'in the trade,' and nothing I can say will convince them to the contrary." N.B.—This invaluable article may be obtained of all grocers and storekeeper in 1d and 2d packets, and 6d and 1s patent boxes.—Adv.

MONETARY AND COMMERCIAL.

Monday Evening.

The Stock and Share market opened to-day with a quiet all round demand, and a limited number of transactions. Bank shares were steady: City had inquiry at 11⅞, offered at 12; fully-paid Commercial wanted at 104, held for 105—buyers of new issue at 87, sellers at 89; Mercantile placed at 6, and for sale at that figure; New South Wales had buyers at 55, sellers at 56; New Zealand changed hands at 21⅞ cum div., 20½ ex div.; Joint Stock wanted at 15¾, held for 16¼; Queensland National salable at 7⅞, holders quoted 7⅝; Union firm at 64 buyers, 65 sellers. Steam shares steady: Australasian could not be bought at 18¼, sellers asked 18⅝; Clarence and Richmond for sale at 5, wanted at 4, with a similar margin between buyers and sellers of preferential; Hunter River wanted at 6⅞, obtainable at 7⅞; buyers of Illawarra at 5⅞, sellers at 6¼; inquiry for North Shore Ferry at 17s. 3d., held for 18s. Accident Insurance had a sudden rise, offers of 1s. 1d. having been declined, 1s. 6d. wanted; General in demand at 83s., offered at 88s.; City asked for at 1s. 2d., for sale at 1s. 4d.; buyers of Mercantile at 1s. 6d., sellers at 1s. 10d.; no New South Wales obtainable, 75s. demanded; Pacific wanted at 61s. 6d., held for 68s.; Sydney Fire in request at 72s., offered at 76s.; Sydney Marine inquired for at 32s. 6d., held for 35s.; for United 42s. 6d. was obtainable, 44s. asked. Fully-paid Gaslight had no buyers at above 14¼; new shares wanted at 5, held for 5½. Pyrmont Bridge could have been disposed of at 6⅞, holders asked 7¼. Shale and Oil were dealt in at 10s., and for sale at 10s. 3d. Coffee Palace in demand at 21s., held for 24s. 6d. Volunteer land orders had an advance, 128 declined, 130 would have been taken. Coal shares weaker: Bulli had buyers at 11, sellers at 12; Wallsend wanted at 13⅞, offered at 14½, sold at 13⅞; inquiry for Waratah at 7½, for sale at 7½; Vale of Clwydd had several transactions at 16s. 1½d., 16s. 3d., and 16s. 6d. Great Cobar Copper firm, sales at 76s., sellers at 77s. Gold shares dull—Krohman's had buyers at 2s. 6d., offered at 3s. 3d.; Star of Peace in demand at 3s., offered at 4s.; Band and Albion wanted at 6, for sale at 6⅞. There were no Debentures obtainable: New South Wales long-dated fives in request at 110; funded fours asked for at 97; City of Sydney sixes at 108; and A. S. N. Co.'s at 102.

The Import markets were not very active, though in one or two lines a good business was transacted. Breadstuffs opened very firm at up to £12 for best Adelaide flour; 4s. 9d. for Victorian wheat, and 5s. for South Australian. A stronger inquiry for dried fruits existed; a shipment of 43 tons currants, to arrive ex Candida, was placed, about half being bid for by a speculator, and the balance by the trade, at up to 6d. per lb. Late cablegrams report that the London market had also advanced, and that Eleme raisins were almost unobtainable. Witherby and Farley's London circular to hand by the mail says that stocks of all Smyrna fruits were nearly bare. Candles firm at 8d. for trade parcels of D. R. J. There is a better market for bulk ale; purchases of good second brands at £6 12s. 6d. to £6 15s. 1-lb. salmon is dull for the moment, under the influence of the late heavy arrivals. The news from California is favourable to holders of building materials and lumber, prices for the latter having advanced 2 dollars per thousand, and the mail steamers' freight being raised 20 per cent. No shipments had been made for the colonies during the month; and the Lady Bowen was the only vessel chartered, it being almost impossible to get lumber ships to leave profitable coasting work for foreign voyages. 80s. had been refused for Melbourne. It was estimated that the stock of wheat from last harvest was 1,100,000 tons, and only 209,000 tons for freight were known to be on the way to be conveyed to foreign markets. Malt quiet, at 8s. 6d. to 8s. 9d. We note the arrival of a trial shipment of Californian, made from Chevalier barley, as having arrived by the Zealandia, in barrels. Fencing wire is the most salable article in metals. Galvanized iron has a limited sale, at up to £25 10s.; lots of a case or two command a trifle more. Salt has had more inquiry, and prices are a trifle better.

At Darling Harbour this morning there was another short supply of produce, and the market was slightly firmer. Prime oaten hay brought from 5s. to 5s. 3d.; other qualities, from 3s. 9d. There was no lucerne forward. Clean lots of straw went as high as 2s. 11d., other sorts from 2s. 3d. Some prime lots of mixed oaten and wheaten were offered, which excited some brisk bidding, realizing from 3s. 11d. to 4s. 3d. Mixed chaff sold at 3s. 6d.; oaten chaff, 4s. 6d. Potatoes brought from 2s. to 3s. 5d. per cwt. At the wharfs, lucerne hay is quoted at from £2 10s. to £2 15s. for prime; and oaten at up to £6; but there have been no important quittances this morning. This week's supply of maize promises to be large, and large consignments are already in the market at from 2s. 1d. to 2s. 2d. Potatoes are still very dull, and are selling at various prices. Picked lots of Circular Heads are worth from £3 to £3 10s., but other qualities have no quotable figure. Onions are firm, at from £10 to £12 per ton. The butter agents have not altered their tariff since last week, and best is quoted at 6d. per lb. Cheese sells at from 3d. to 8d. Bacon manifests an improving tendency, holders ask an advance of 1d. upon recent prices. Pigs alive are also in good demand, eligible porkers commanding a ready sale at 3½d. per lb. Lard is worth from 3d. to 4d. Fowls are worth from 3s. 6d. to 3s. 9d.; ducks, from 4s. to 4s. 6d.; geese, from 6s. to 7s.; turkeys, from 5s. to 12s.; eggs, from 9d. to 10d. per dozen. Tobacco leaf sells at from 4d. to 8d.; bush honey, from 2½d. to 3½d.; garden honey, from 4d. to 6d; beeswax, from 6d. to 8d.—extra pure samples worth 9d. and 10d. Millet brooms are worth from 8s. to 10s. per dozen; marketable calves, from 10s. to 17s. 6d. each.

Messrs. Harrison, Jones, and Devlin's wool sale to-day attracted a larger attendance than was present on the opening day, and biddings were brisk. Out of a catalogue of 1200 bales two-thirds changed hands, at equal to last week's values. A second parcel of NSL over Mudgee fleece realized 2s. 2d.; DCo. over Deepwater, 87 greasy sold at 12d; SI over B, 58 hoggets at 11¼d.; ⌒ over B, 101 at 9½d.; JH over Beamba, 66 at 9½d. The top price for scoured was 23¾d., for 16 bales SMPCo. under Collingwood. The quality of the skins offered was hardly equal to last week's, and prices scarcely so strong.

J. W. Watkin reports having sold, on Saturday last, on account of Mr. Frederick Clissold, the whole of the Greenhills estate, grossing £18,122 10s. 9d.

The Calcutta, from Boston, with American goods; the Firth of Cromarty, from Glasgow, with general cargo valued at £35,900; and the Mitredale, from Liverpool, with a general cargo, arrived to-day.

Our Mauritius correspondent, writing on September 10th, reports of Australian produce:—

"Breadstuffs: The only receipts of flour during the month have been 4200 bags from Adelaide per Ardentinny; a portion of this has changed hands at R 8.80 to R 9 per 50 kilogs., say, for superfine quality—the remainder has been stored. The market closes with a moderate demand; best Adelaide flour, however, is fully worth the rates abovementioned. The wheat market is dull, and fully supplied from India. Horses: None have reached this since my last, and it is difficult to give a correct idea of the value of these animals. All I can say is, there is a fair demand for good horses at from £30 to £45, but inferior batches would not sell to advantage. Salt Beef: There is a heavy stock of inferior Australian beef in the market, which is sold slowly at from 32 rupees to 36 rupees per tierce. Good beef is extremely scarce, and holders will not sell under 55 rupees to 60 rupees. Tallow: There is some inquiry for good Australian tallow in casks, and sales are feasible at 26 rupees to 27 rupees per 50 kilogrammes. Butter: Some sales of medium quality Australian have been made during the interval since my last at 38 rupees per 50 kilogrammes for tins. This is a low figure, but better quality would have realized from 40 rupees to 50 rupees. Sugar Market: During the past few weeks transactions have been on the whole on a moderate scale, the native firms for Bombay having been our chief purchasers, for the Bombay market. Prices paid have been high, and this is the more satisfactory that the crop will be below the average. It is probable that the whole of the produce of the colony this season will be exported to Bombay, Australia, and the Cape, European buyers being unable to purchase at the prices now ruling here. Yellows and rations are scarce, and indeed not sufficiently abundant to give steadiness to prices. The only sales worth notice have been made on the footing of 15·50 rupees to 16 rupees for qualities equal to No. 16 to 19 D. S. Freight: The month has witnessed a fair proportion of transactions, which have, however, been mostly for one destination, viz., the Indian market. The fact is, the sugar hitherto made here has been almost exclusively of white crystallised quality, which is most suited to the Bombay consumers, and hence the large proportion of charters for that destination. Rates of freight, as will be seen from the quotations I give below, have not changed here latterly. Rates of freight are:—London, £1 12s. 6d. to £1 15s. per ton, nominal; Cork, for orders, £1 15s. per ton, nominal: Australia, £1 2s. 6d. to £1 5s. per ton; Cape, £1 5s to £1 7s. 6d. per ton; Bombay, 10 to 11 annas per bag."

The Customs duties received to-day were as follows:—Spirits, £1041 5s. 10d.; wine (still), £118; ditto, sparkling, £22 10s.; ale, porter, and beer (in wood), £62 10s.; ditto (in bottle), £8 11s.; cigars, £52 2s. 10d.; tea, £56 3s. 3d.; coffee and chicory, £28 2s. 3d.; sugar, unrefined, £275 3s. 2d.; rice, £67 15s. 5d.; dried fruits, £20 16s. 8d.; nuts, 2s. 4d.; malt, £51 9s.; specific duty, £505 5s. 3d.; pilotage, £104 5s. 4d; harbour and light dues, £77 3s. 8d.: total, £2491 6s.

BLAIR ATHOL, PETERSHAM STATION.
FOR AUCTION SALE, on the Ground, NEXT SATURDAY, 30th October, by RICHARDSON and WRENCH.
BLAIR ATHOL is positively at the Station, and owing to its position, must improve in value year by year, no matter how ordinary suburban land may fluctuate.
BLAIR ATHOL, being first-class Suburban Land, is superior to second-class city property as an investment, as it must increase in value as the neighbourhood improves, and is readily salable, such land being always in demand.
BLAIR ATHOL must be a select neighbourhood, having been subdivided for Villa Sites, which cannot be built in; there are only first-class houses near it.
BLAIR ATHOL is planted with trees and shrubs, all of which will become the property of the purchasers of the allotments. There are avenues of fine trees in the broad streets, all of which will be preserved.
BLAIR ATHOL. The vendor will, without responsibility, protect the trees and shrubs for one month from date of sale, until dividing fences are erected. Gas is laid on to the property, and a reservoir is being constructed at Petersham.
BLAIR ATHOL. Lithograph plans are now ready, and the property is open for inspection.
For Sale, on the Ground, next SATURDAY, October 30th.

CUTICURA.
HUMOURS OF THE SCALP, LOSS OF HAIR.
Loss of Hair in thousands of cases is due entirely to some form of scalp disease. Seventy-five per cent. of the number of bald heads might be covered with hair by a judicious use of Cuticura, assisted by Cuticura Soap. It is the most agreeable, as well as the most effective hair restorer ever produced by man. It is medicinal in the truest sense of the word. All others are some oleaginous mixture or poisonous dyes. None but Cuticura possesses the specific medical properties that enable it to cure all itching and scaly diseases that inflame and irritate the scalp and hair glands and tubes, causing premature baldness. Medium doses of the Cuticura Resolvent will purify the oil and sweat glands of the virus of scrofulous humour of the blood, and insure a permanent cure when taken in connection with the outward application of Cuticura.
SALT RHEUM AND DANDRUFF,
Cured, that several physicians had failed to treat successfully.—Messrs. Weeks and Potter. Gentlemen,—I have had the Salt Rheum on my head and all through my hair, also on my legs, for the past four years, having suffered exceedingly with it. The dandruff falling from my hair was very annoying. I consulted several distinguished physicians in regard to it, and had taken their prescriptions as ordered, but did not find any cure and but little relief. I was told by many persons who have the Salt Rheum, and who have been doctored for years, that there was no cure for it; that it was in the blood, and I should always have it, and I was almost inclined to agree with them; but a friend wanted me to try Cuticura, made by your firm. I did so, and to my astonishment in less than three weeks my head was entirely free from all Salt Rheum and Dandruff, and I cannot see any appearance of Salt Rheum on my person. I think it a wonderful remedy.
Respectfully yours,
GEORGE A. MUDGE.
Portsmouth, N. H., February 6, 1878.
HUMOUR OF THE SCALP
That was destroying the Hair, cured with one box of Cuticura.—Messrs. Weeks and Potter. Gentlemen,—I want to tell you what Cuticura has done for me. About ten years ago my hair began falling out, caused by Humour of the Scalp. I tried various remedies, too numerous to mention, without relief until I began to use Cuticura, one box of which has entirely cured me, and new hair is beginning to grow.
Respectfully,
Mrs. O. J. ROOT.

We know the above to be true.

SCALD HEAD
For nine years cured, when all other Remedies failed.—Messrs. Weeks and Potter. Gentlemen,—Since July last, I have been using your Cuticura for Scald Head, and it has cured me, when all medicines that I have taken for nine years did me no good. I am now using it as a hair dressing, but my head is well. It keeps the hair in very nice condition.
Yours truly,
H. A. RAYMOND,
Auditor Fort Wayne, Jackson and Saginaw R. R.
Jackson, Mich., Dec. 20, 1878.

WHY DON'T YOU CALL IN A PHYSICIAN? is the common interrogatory propounded to almost every patient labouring under some trivial affection. The result is the physician is summoned, medicines are administered, and often more real hurt is done than would otherwise accrue from the ailment itself. Now, if the patient would only consult his reason, and accept from experience such a prescription as UDOLPHO WOLFE'S SCHIEDAM AROMATIC SCHNAPPS, much suffering would be saved, and expensive bills avoided.

SUMMARY OF NEWS FOR EUROPE.

The summary of news for transmission to Europe, per R. M. S. Hydaspes, will be published in the Herald of to-morrow, Wednesday, October 27. Orders for extra copies should be lodged with the counter clerk to-day.

The Sydney Morning Herald.

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1880.

How does New South Wales stand in regard to the extent of her provision for the religious wants of her people? It would be the greatest of all mistakes to suppose that a question like that is indifferent to those of our citizens who have been most strenuous in their efforts to emancipate religion from subserviency to the State, and the State from ecclesiastical domination. Religion is too sacred a thing to be made the stalking-horse of political parties—to be pampered or starved according to the exigencies of a popular election. Objectively, it claims to be a revelation from Heaven, with criteria which appeal to the judgment and the conscience of every man. Subjectively, it consists of the emotions, the dispositions, the habits, the general conduct of those who acknowledge its authority and seek to exemplify its precepts and principles. The State can be no judge of the criteria of objective religion, because its decisions are simply those of majorities, many of whom care as little for truth as PILATE did when he condemned to death the Founder of Christianity; and because, in matters of belief and conscience, not even the majority has any right to interfere with the minority, or with a single individual. It can be no judge of subjective religion, because the virtual social contract implied in the very existence of civil society cannot touch character and beliefs which do not manifest themselves in overt acts detrimental to the rights and liberties of others. Hence springs the necessity for the State to be absolutely neutral in matters of religion, and, while protecting all its citizens in the enjoyment of their equal rights, to coerce none and to favour none, because they belong to any particular faith. The State has done that in New South Wales, with the exception of a few relics of aid from public funds fast dying out; and henceforth the Churches themselves must supply the religious wants of the people by their own free and voluntary action, as the parent Church at Jerusalem did eighteen centuries ago, with this difference, that the State in this colony will persecute none and will favour none. To what extent, then, have the Churches made provision for meeting their responsibilities?

Although religious statistics are liable to be more than usually unfair, especially in census returns, we do not think it desirable to eliminate them just yet from all official recognition in this colony. The information is valuable to the public for very many purposes, and unless it is collected through the machinery of the Registrar-General it is not likely ever to be collected at all. For last year we learn from this official source that there were 654 ministers of all denominations within the colony, of whom 219 belonged to the Church of England, 262 to other Protestant denominations, and 173 to the Church of Rome. That gives one clergyman for every 220 families—not too liberal a provision for the capital itself, and painfully inadequate for the scattered population of the interior. The number of "individual sittings" said to be provided in churches and chapels consisted of 70,706 for the Church of England, 97,977 for other Protestants, and 40,201 for the Church of Rome, or a total of 208,884 besides 40,234 attendants said to be accommodated in other places used for public worship. The latter term is probably not intended to include declamation in parks, street preaching, and cottage services, although it most likely includes services in Courthouses and sheep-sheds, and other operations of the travelling clery, from the bishop to those of the humblest bush missionary. If the buildings were distributed in fair proportion to the distribution of the people, they are spacious enough to accommodate one-third of our entire population, which is as large a number as can ever assemble at any one time. But here again it is only too apparent from the returns that the people are often in one locality, and the buildings that could accommodate them are in another. In many cases it looks as if sectarian zeal had striven more for successful rivalry in places already occupied than to take up new and neglected ground. The waste of energy and resources which this implies can be ill afforded in a country so vast and with a people so widespread and so rapidly increasing as ours. But it is inseparable from matters of conscience. Truth and error must do battle with each other in religion as in other spheres of thought until truth finally prevails. Happily, the bitterness of past ages between Church and Church is dying out, and theological controversy is beginning to show itself worthier of its Christian name. To convert the erring should always be a work of love, and where it is a work of love it will also be one of courtesy as well as conscientiousness.

The returns of average attendance differ materially from those of accommodation. In all its places used for public worship the Church of England had a total average attendance of 70,550; other Protestants, 70,584; the Church of Rome, 64,983, making the whole average attendance 212,117. The Church of Rome evidently makes more use of its buildings than other denominations, probably because a larger number of services are held on Sundays in its city churches at which different people attend. They report 30½ per cent. of the total average attendance, for 34½ per cent. for the Church of England, and 36 per cent. for other Protestant Churches—results out of all proportion to the number of people said to belong to each denomination at the date of last census. The Church of England has a great deal of leeway to pull up if these returns be reliable, for with her larger avowed population, the attendance of the Presbyterian, Wesleyan, Congregational, and other Protestant Churches, in the aggregate, exceeds hers.

Tested by its bearing upon recent educational controversies as well as by its inherent value, the Sunday-school work of the denominations is of the greatest interest. Altogether they had last year 1285 schools, 8491 teachers, 82,082 children enrolled, and 69,512 in average attendance; the last-named figures surpassing the attendance of the Council of Education for all the State day-schools. Taking the average attendance as the fairest test, 35½ per cent. of the children belonged to the Church of England, 40½ per cent. to other Protestant Churches, and 24 per cent. to the Church of Rome. From this it appears that the denominations which took the initiative in relieving the State of its sectarian educational functions are themselves providing the most effectually for the voluntary religious instruction of their children, while leaving the secular work to the public teacher. The whole of these returns may be confidently cited as evidence that Christianity is in no danger in New South Wales when left to the free conscientious support of men and women who alone can have the personal qualifications to teach it.

The speech delivered by M. DE FREYCINET at Montauban, which was reprinted from the Times in yesterday's Herald, was certainly well calculated to make the industrial population contented with the way in which the Constitution of the country had operated. The Premier was able to say that, notwithstanding the enormous taxation that presses on the country as the result of the late disastrous war, the Government was able at the same time to increase the amount spent in public works, and to lighten some of the heaviest burdens. We are so much accustomed in this country to look upon railways as necessary to open up a country for settlement that we are apt to forget that they are equally needed in an old and settled country. France has found that the multiplication of internal means of transit has done more than anything else to increase its wealth: and the Government, therefore, has become increasingly liberal in the support it gives to such undertakings. If it were not for the very heavy expenditure on the army and navy, due to the desire to be ready once more to cope with Germany, France would be able to spend very much more in this direction. But, even in spite of the heavy unproductive expenditure on soldiers' equipments and fortifications, so industrious and frugal have the French people been that part of the cost of the war has already been paid off, the interest on the debt has been steadily met, and the debt itself diminished, while the expenditure on public works increases every year. It is a sure sign of industrial prosperity and of moderate well-being among the great mass of the people when a lightening of duties is followed by no diminution in the revenue. This was what Sir ROBERT PEEL discovered in England when he lightened the taxes on articles of general consumption. By cheapening the article he multiplied the number of consumers and the quantity of their consumption; and in that way he added to the comfort of the people without diminishing the revenue. Of course there is a limit beyond which this policy would not tell in the same way; but in a heavily taxed country, where there is a large population, it has been proved beyond doubt that moderate duties are more productive than high duties. The system of taxation in France is anything but perfect, judged by the standard of political economy, and writers and legislators are perpetually discussing such improvements as would simplify it, and make the incidence of taxation more equitable; and any similar system established in an English community would give rise to prodigious complaints. But the people are accustomed to it; and it has certainly been successful in bringing in a large revenue under very trying circumstances. Nothing could have been more serious than the financial position of France after the war with Germany, and the way in which the country has worked through speaks wonders for the intelligent industry of its population.

In the United States, the Government has also made a good beginning in working down the cost of a disastrous war, but the difficulties there were nothing like so serious as they were in France. America had practically nothing but this one war debt to deal with; it possessed an enormous area of fertile and unoccupied land; it had a population rapidly increasing, and the dominant party in the community was elate with the sentiment of victory, while the Government of the country was stable. France, on the other hand, had to go to work under the deep depression of defeat, with a territory diminished by the loss of two valuable provinces, with a population which was stationary, and with a new debt added to an old one, which was already very large. The way in which it has struggled through and restored its position presents a spectacle which is unexampled in the history of modern communities, and will be a lasting lesson to show how much is possible to industry and frugality.

It may seem strange that M. DE FREYCINET's speech, which presented everything so couleur de rose, should have been the cause of his dismissal from power. Yet the pacific tone he assumed in respect to foreign policy seems to have given umbrage to M. GAMBETTA. That gentleman had made rather a warlike speech at Cherbourg, and M. DE FREYCINET endeavoured to neutralize it by one in a more moderate tone. The consequence is, that he has been neutralized himself by the great French kingmaker, and M. FERRY reigns in his stead.

The English mail brings some details of a large and disastrous strike in the north-western part of England. The only respect in which it seems to differ from other strikes is in the indication it gives of an increasing tendency towards forcing masters into union. It is stated that the policy of supporting men on strike is to be met by a counter policy of supporting masters, and that the means for this support will be obtained by a reduction of wages in all districts contributing to the support of the strikers. That union is strength is a doctrine that has been very plentifully illustrated by trades' unions. Masters, as a rule, have been very slow to learn the same lesson. The reason for this is not hard to find. The spirit of competition does not prevail amongst workmen to the same extent that it does amongst masters, and the consequence is that class feeling predominates over individual interests. The men find no other difficulty in working together than such as necessarily arises where a large number of tempers have to be adjusted and harmonized; but amongst employers the case is different. They are all competing with one another—very often competing fiercely. They are pushing for individual fortune, and are to the last degree jealous of each other's progress, and therefore the difficulty of getting them to co-operate is very great. Yet it would seem that, in spite of themselves, they are being forced into union. In order to protect themselves they are compelled to adopt class tactics, and to protect the weaker of their own number against the overwhelming strength of the union. What effect this may have in mitigating the general play of competition amongst the large employers has yet to be seen. At present masters' unions seem difficult to get together, and difficult to keep together, and they are only possible in the presence of a common danger. But at the present time in Lancashire they seem to be in vigorous and effective operation.

One of the candidates for the Murrumbidgee told the electors of Wagga Wagga on Saturday that "he was in favour of religious education." So are nine-tenths of the people of New South Wales, and that was never a matter of dispute during the whole educational controversy. The question is, not whether religion shall be taught or not, but simply whose duty it is to teach it. So far as religious teaching involves matters of disputed theology the State has decided to leave it with the Churches and the parents, unsubsidized by Parliamentary grants in aid. The one point in the Public Instruction Act left inoperative until the close of 1882 is the withdrawal of certificates from Denominational schools, and upon this point Mr. G. C. LOUGHNAN speaks vaguely. He says: "He did not believe that any new legislation would be attempted next Parliament; but, if it were, he should oppose it, and insist on going to the country, as the people desired that the present Act should have a fair trial, and the education question was not the question before the country in the coming elections." But the question of withdrawing certificates from existing Denominational schools is before the country and it is important that men in the position of Mr. G. C. LOUGHNAN should speak out on that matter, and let the people know what their return to Parliament may involve. If they honestly think these certificates should not be withdrawn, let them stand by their convictions, and try the issue on the hustings. If they are willing to accept the decision of last session, and let it pass unchallenged on the hustings, they will have no right to plead their election to the next Parliament as an argument against the withdrawal. Candidates should at least be tested on this point by the electors, because it is the one "open question" in the Public Instruction Act, and the voice of the people should decide that at the ensuing contest beyond the danger of those little Parliamentary accidents to which "open questions" are always liable.

The news from China states that Colonel GORDON recommends the Chinese Government to give up free emigration to America. If the Government is willing to adopt this course, it will greatly facilitate dealing with the treaty difficulties. It may be practically impossible for the Chinese Government absolutely to prevent people from leaving their country, but it might do what it could to discourage it. The awkward part of this proposal, however, is, that if the Chinese Government undertakes to try and keep its own people in, it may ask to keep other people out, and so return to the exclusive policy that prevailed before the English guns battered down the Chinese wall of prohibition. It must be remembered that foreigners are just as much disliked in China as the Chinese are in the countries to which they go. We may think it very unreasonable that the Chinese should dislike seeing English and American traders settling in their cities, pushing into the interior of their country, working hard for a few years to accumulate a fortune, and then taking all their gathered wealth away. But whether this is an unworthy prejudice or not, there can be no doubt whatever that they entertain it, and they neglect no opportunity of manifesting their opinions, and they might be willing to return to their former isolation if the foreigner would only consent to leave them alone.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE agitation in Ireland is still being fomented by Mr. Parnell and other leaders. At Galway, on Sunday, Mr. Parnell inveighed against the House of Lords for its rejection of the Compensation for Disturbances Bill, and the policy pursued by the Secretary of State for Ireland, to which acts he attributes the disturbed state of feeling in the country, and the many murderous outrages that have been committed. As a cure for existing evils he proposes an autonomous government for Ireland. The Government, however, are adopting very different remedial measures, and have already indicted Mr. Parnell and several other members of Parliament and political agitators, whose names have been prominent of late, for conspiracy; and it is rumoured that there will be a change of venue, that the trial of the defendants will take place in London. Another item of our message of this morning refers to the probable resumption of hostilities between Chili and Peru. The friendly intervention of foreign Powers has failed to secure a lasting peace, and negotiations have broken off. A semi-official Russian journal, the Agence Russe, favours the claims of Greece to a rectification of frontier, but counsels moderation and discretion. The CZAR is reported to be alarmingly ill.

THE speech of his Excellency the Governor on the prorogation of the last parliament of this colony has been very extensively noticed in England. It is satisfactory to observe that the Australian colonies are attracting increased attention in England and on the continent of Europe. It is not often, however, that the prorogation of the New South Wales parliament has been the subject of so many leading articles and semi-editorial paragraphs as that which took place three months ago. By the last mail, Sir Henry Parkes received from Sir Daniel Cooper—who appears to have performed his duties as acting Agent-General with more than ordinary zeal—extracts from twenty-two papers having reference to the prorogation of our parliament, and commenting favourably upon the progress of New South Wales.

THE interest in the coming elections is every day increasing. The preliminary arrangements, so far as the Government is concerned, are nearly completed. The last of the electoral rolls have been received, and as soon as they are printed and arrangements have been made in regard to polling-places, Parliament will be dissolved. A circular, of which the following is a copy, has been addressed to the various returning-officers:—"Colonial Secretary's Office, Sydney, 21st October, 1880. Sir,—In transmitting to you the appended list of places which have been set down for appointment as polling-places within your electoral district, I am directed by the Colonial Secretary to request that you will, as speedily as possible, furnish him with a report showing which, if any, of these places may, in your judgment, be dispensed with, and what additional places, if any, should be appointed. 2. I am further directed to remind you that no new polling places can be appointed after the issue of the writs for the general election. I have the honour to be, Sir, your obedient servant, CRICHETT WALKER, Principal Under-Secretary." Formerly the general election extended over a considerable period; but now the means of communication by road, rail, and telegraph are much more facile, and we understand that the forthcoming general election will be brought into a much narrower compass than was practicable on similar occasions previously. As we have already intimated, the returning officers have been all appointed. All that is now required is that answers shall be received to the circulars issued, when the arrangements for the polling places will be completed.

To meet an unusually heavy demand on the railway passenger accommodation to Melbourne on Wednesday, the Commissioner for Railways purposes to run the southern train in two divisions. After the mail train another will leave Sydney at 9.25 p.m.; and those who have been fortunate enough to secure sleeping berths will leave by this, and arrive at Gerogery a little before the mail train. The number of passengers travelling overland this week is very great. Messrs. Cobb and Co. have booked about 500 for the journey between Gerogery and Albury, as many as 120 for Wednesday. For about fifty persons they could not find accommodation. We learn also that so many people are wishing to go to Melbourne that the steamships cannot find room for their accommodation.

ALTHOUGH the Duke of Manchester was allowed to come to Sydney as a private citizen he is not to be allowed to leave us without being entertained in a manner befitting his rank and many valuable services rendered to the colonies. On Friday a public dinner will be given to his Grace; and a large number of gentlemen have associated themselves together to initiate the proceedings. A meeting will be held at the Town Hall this morning for the purpose of forming a committee to carry out the necessary arrangements for the dinner.

THE Department of Education are now, under the compulsory provisions of the Public Instruction Act, serving printed notices on those parents who are neglecting to send their children to school or to pay the fees for their instruction.

THE Minister for Mines has favoured us with a copy of the following telegram, which was dated from Cobargo on the 23rd instant, and received from Mr. T. C. Binny, who was commissioned by the Department to search off Bermagui for Mr. Lamont Young and his comrades:—"Search has been made inland towards Dromedary. Mr. Young is believed to have left Bermagui for the purpose of visiting Corunna, which has also been searched. I cannot find that he purchased any provisions at Bermagui. He stated that he had a tent, which may be the one found; but that cannot be positively proved at present. The instruments in the boat were a compass, a book on geology, and a part of a German almanac, and German calculating tablet. His belt, with hammer, tape-measure, and another instrument, was left by him on the diggings, and is now in my possession. The country is all pretty well settled between Bermagui, Corunna, and Dromedary, and is being daily searched by the police and others. I have had caves inspected, and the beach also. The sea was too heavy for boats to go out during the last two days; but they are working to-day, and have been using dynamite in the largest holes in the hope of bringing up bodies." It will be seen by a telegram in another column, from our Bodalla correspondent, that supposed traces of the missing men have been discovered.

IT has been pointed out that of the twenty-one delegates who recently sat in the free selectors' conference in Sydney, no fewer than nineteen came from the southern districts of the colony. The other two were Mr. G. R. Maclean, who is well known in Sydney, and represented Inverell, and Mr. Ardill, who was the Molong representative.

NOTWITHSTANDING the very great improvements which have been made of late years in naval architecture, it seems that the ships which are usually termed floating palaces are to have dimensions considerably increased. Sir Daniel Cooper, in a letter to the Premier, says that the new steamer for the Orient Company is to be all of steel. Her length between the perpendiculars will be 455 feet, her breadth 48, and her depth 37. These measurements are somewhat greater than those of that magnificent steamer, the Orient. The height from the keel to the upper deck is 27 feet 10 inches; from the top of main deck to upper deck beam 8 feet; from lower deck beam to main beam 8 feet 3 inches; from top of orlop deck to top of lower deck beam, 8 feet 3 inches. Her tonnage will be 5200 tons gross register, and she is intended to provide first-class accommodation for 118 passengers, second-class for 120, and third-class for 274, or for 512 passengers in all. She will be furnished with compound engines of 5800 h.-p. indicated; be fitted up with freezing chambers and chambers for ship's stores instead of pens and coops for live sheep, cattle, and fowls. She is to be classed 100 A1, and to have a trial speed of 17 knots as well as an ordinary one of the same number.

THE Council of the New South Wales Art Society held a meeting at its rooms last evening to arrange preliminaries for the forthcoming exhibition. A portion of the Garden Palace has been granted to the Council in which to hold the exhibition. Messrs. Hoyt, Collingridge, Piguenet, Burgis, and Minchen were appointed a sub-committee to draw up a plan of procedure, to be submitted to the Council at its next meeting. With regard to the Art Union, it was resolved to allow the sale of tickets to remain open until after the pictures are on view at the exhibition. Several new members were elected, and the Council adjourned.

DURING the past few days the weather has been cold, and though there has not been a heavy downpour of rain, yet the sky has been, as a rule, overcast, and several light showers have fallen. Last night it was again calm and cloudy.

THE present sittings of the Metropolitan District Court were concluded yesterday, before his Honor Judge Wilkinson. In the case of Toohey and another v. O'Neill, a Supreme Court issue, a verdict of £90 13s. 3d. was returned for the plaintiffs. Samuel v. Hall, a Supreme Court issue, was also set down for hearing, but the case was settled without being entered into. In Henley v. Wilks, a case set down for judgment, his Honor gave a verdict for the plaintiff of £5.

A DEVOTIONAL meeting was held in the lecture hall of St. Stephens' Church last evening, presided over by Mr. Andrew M'Credie. The object of the meeting was to supplicate a blessing on the ensuing session of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, which commences its sittings this evening at 7 o'clock, and will continue in session during the week, and part of the following one. The meeting last evening was conducted by elders of the church—Messrs. Anderson, Gray, Miller, Mackenzie, Micelson from Tonga, and Wells, taking part in the proceedings.

THE annual meeting of the congregation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church was held on Thursday evening—the Rev. Dr. Moore White in the chair. The report of the session showed that the various congregational agencies had been in successful operation during the year; that the Sabbath school and the Young Men's Mutual Improvement Association were in a specially prosperous condition; that a Young Men's Sabbath Morning Fellowship Association had been formed; that the attendance at the ministers' week-night service, and at another conducted by Mr. Field, had been most encouraging; and that valuable and efficient services had been rendered by the choir, under the conductorship of Mr. W. J. Hall, with Mr. Gehde organist. The report of the committee of management showed that the year, owing to special circumstances, opened with a debt of £68 19s. 6d.; and that after clearing this off, and paying all congregational and Assembly expenses, closed with a credit balance of £30 6s. 5d. The revenue for the year amounted to £812 11s., towards which the Sabbath collections contributed £385, and the congregational Sustentation Fund £104 19s. 6d. Cordial votes of thanks were passed to the committee, the choir, the Sabbath school teachers and officers, the lady collectors for the Sustentation Fund, and the church workers.

A LECTURE, in aid of the funds of the St. Michael's Ladies' Visiting and Poor Relief Society, was delivered by the Rev. J. N. Manning, in St. Michael's Schoolroom, Fitzroy-street, on Thursday evening last, the 21st instant, Canon King in the chair. Notwithstanding the threatening appearance of the weather, there was an attendance of about 80 persons. The subject of the lecture, "Castles in the Air," was most ably treated by the reverend lecturer; and the descriptions of the various castles built in the air, and of the castle-builders themselves, created great amusement amongst his audience. At the close, a hearty vote of thanks was accorded to Mr. Manning, and a hope expressed that on some future occasion he would give his audience a similar treat.

A VERY interesting lecture upon New Zealand was delivered last night, in St. Patrick's Hall, in aid of the parochial fund, and the Christian Doctrine Confraternity. There were nearly 500 persons present, who listened most attentively to the remarks of the lecturer. The lecture was illustrated by about 100 views, which were thrown upon a large canvas by a powerful lime-light instrument. The scenes were very beautiful, and gave a really good idea of what Maoriland is like. The Terraces at Rotomahana, in the Lake District of the North Island, were beautifully pourtrayed, and appeared to be truthful photographs. All present seemed delighted with this pictorial entertainment of Maoriland.

A LETTER has been received here from Lord Carnarvon, in which he expresses a hope that he will at some future time visit Australia. His Lordship was Under-Secretary for the Colonies from 1857 to 1859, and Secretary of State for the Colonies from June, 1866, to March, 1867, and from February, 1874, to January, 1878. It is natural, therefore, that he should take an interest in their development and progress.

MANY persons in this colony will be interested to hear about Thomas Carlyle, with whose numerous books and expressions of rugged yet vigorous thought they are familiar. It cannot, of course, be expected that the "seer of Chelsea," who was born in 1795, should be now in very robust health. A neighbour of his who visited the colony a short time since, and who has just returned to England, has written to say that he found a marked difference in the health and appearance of his neighbour. He says that the venerable author and teacher of teachers has recently manifested symptoms of greatly increased feebleness. He states also that Carlyle has given up his customary walks and rides, and only drives out about half an hour each day.

THE Grand Lodge of N. S. Wales of the Independent Order of Oddfellows will be formally constituted this afternoon, at the Masonic rooms, Oxford-street, by Grand Sire Stirling, G. M. Munday, and G. S. Judge, who have arrived here for that purpose from Melbourne. After the Past Grand's credentials have been accepted, the election of G. L. officers for the first term will take place, and be followed by a banquet to-night, at the Masonic Hall.

THE sixth anniversary of the Glebe Presbyterian Church was celebrated on Sunday, by special services in the church. The Rev. Andrew Gardiner, M.A., preached in the morning, Mr. W. Corrie Johnston in the afternoon, and the Rev. J. M. Ross (of London) in the evening, large and attentive congregations being present on each occasion. Last night the annual tea meeting was held in the schoolroom, and about 300 persons partook of an excellent tea provided by Compagnoni and Co. Afterwards a public meeting was held in the church. There was a good attendance, amongst those present being a large number of ministers. Addresses were delivered by the chairman (Rev. A. Gardiner, M.A.), Revs. J. C. Ross, Bruce (from New Zealand), Jarvie, H. M'Cready, M'Innes, W. Taylor, R. M'Kinnon, J. Rickards, and Gardiner (of Bombala), and the choir at intervals rendered selections of sacred music, Mr. Parkinson efficiently presiding at the harmonium. The annual report showed that the membership of the church has largely increased during the year, the total number on the roll being now 310, or 52 more than last year. The various organizations in connection with the church were in a satisfactory state, and the improvement in the psalmody, which took place when the congregation entered the new church, had been maintained during the year. The financial statement showed that the total receipts were £851 7s. 8½d., and the expenditure £849 3s. 2½d., leaving a balance in hand of £3 4s. 6d. The Sabbath-school Fund showed receipts £65 19s., and an equal expenditure, and the total collections on behalf of the School Mission Fund amounted to £22 7s. 2d. During the evening, it was announced that it had been decided to raise the minister's salary from £400 to £500, a statement that was received with applause. The whole of the proceedings in connection with the anniversary were in every way satisfactory and successful.

THE annual festival in connection with St. James' parochial schools was held on Friday last. The previous day had been chosen, but the inclemency of the weather made a postponement necessary. With the exception of a little rain in the afternoon, the weather on Friday was all that could be wished. Upwards of 400 children and about 300 adults were conveyed to Chowder Bay. The grounds at this favourite resort of picnickers were in excellent order, every convenience being provided for visitors. Through the kindness of many friends, the children of St. James' schools were on this occasion provided with an abundance of good things, the supply being more than equal to the demand. The usual games, with racing and skipping contests for toys, were resorted to; and bright faces were to be seen and merry voices heard throughout the day. The children were accompanied by two bands of music, both of which gave their services gratuitously. One was the fine brass band of No. 2, Volunteer Fire Brigade; the other was the parochial drum and fife band, which appeared before the outside public for the first time on Friday. The members have been practising during the year with commendable perseverance, and their playing and marching on this occasion gave evidence of the fact.

WHAT might have been a very serious accident occurred opposite this office on Saturday evening. Two gentlemen were passing down Hunter-street, when one, having steel studs in his boots, trod on a piece of orange peel and was thrown to the ground. In falling his feet struck against his friend's with such force as to cause him also to fall heavily; but, fortunately, both escaped with only a few bruises. Greater attention ought to be paid to the abatement of the dangerous nuisance caused by throwing orange peel on the pavement.

AT about a quarter to 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, a buggy in which was a boy named Edward Gates, in the employ of Mr. Taylor, of 175, Pitt-street, was standing opposite those premises, when 'bus 128, driven by Anthony Eggleston, of Waverley, collided with it. The buggy was upset, the axles broken, and some other damage was done; but the boy was not injured. In the evening a similar accident occurred to a buggy belonging to Mr. John Rath, with which a cab collided, but no very serious damage resulted.

THE following were among the casualties attended to at the Infirmary, during yesterday:—Thomas Gould, 21, lacerated wound on the forehead, caused during an altercation in a cab. William Ogg, 23, lacerated thumb and injuries to fingers on the left hand, which he received through an accident occurring at a circular saw at Pyrmont. Robert Russell, 35, injuries to back, which he sustained through falling from a bale on one of the Hunter River steamers. Lawrence Geraghty, 38, lacerated wounds sustained through getting crushed between the crank and broplate at the iceworks at Tooth's Brewery.

THE American Exporter has the following paragraph respecting the shortening of the route from the United States to Australia:—"The Atchison, Topeka, and Santa Fé Railroad has secured a grant from the Mexican Government for a road through Sonora to Guaymas on the Gulf of California. This line will leave the main route to the Pacific at Soldier's Farewell, and will make the distance of about 400 miles direct to the Gulf. It is 3400 miles from New York to San Francisco, and 4000 miles from San Francisco to Sydney, Australia. From New York to Trinidad, Col., is 2000; from Trinidad to Guaymas, Mexico, 1000; and from Guaymas to Sydney, 3000 miles. In other words, it is 1400 miles nearer to Australia by way of Guaymas than by way of San Francisco. The commerce between this country and Australia is rapidly becoming greater than with any other country on the Pacific coast of the old world, and in the near future will become of vast importance. The saving of 1400 miles is no small thing, and should lead to greater development of mutual interests."

WE learn from our Auckland files that the trial of the two Chinamen, Ah Lee and Lee Guy, for the murder of Mrs. Young, at Kyeburn, was concluded at the Supreme Court, Dunedin, on the 9th October. Mr. Justice Williams summed up at considerable length, and the jury, after a retirement of 5½ hours, brought in a verdict of guilty against Ah Lee, and one of not guilty against Lee Guy. The former was sentenced to death; the other was discharged. At Hokitika, on the 9th October, David Hutchison was committed for trial for the murder of his wife Margaret, and his infant son Patrick, who were burnt to death in their house at Hokitika.

THE Yatina correspondent of the S. A. Advertiser thus describes a fatal accident in that locality:—"James M'Dougall, a wellsinker, met with a fearful accident. He was descending a well, and when about 20 feet from the top the rope broke, precipitating him to the bottom, a distance of 80 feet. His mate, Cornelius Hogan, who was lowering him, immediately cooeyed for assistance, and pluckily went down the well on the same rope. After he had made the poor fellow fast to the rope he was safely landed at the top, but he lived only a few minutes. M'Dougall's left leg was broken in two places and the spine of his back was also broken."

CONSIDERABLE excitement (the Argus states) was caused inside the Pentridge stockade and in the village of Coburg, on Friday, by the report that two prisoners had escaped from the gang employed in quarrying stone on the bank of the Merri Creek. The first intimation heard was the sharp firing of the warders' rifles, and it soon became known at the main portion of the establishment that something was wrong, as the other portion of the gang could be seen marching in the direction of the prison, headed by the overseer of the gang. Mr. F. P. Donald, the assistant superintendent, proceeded to the place, and was informed by Mr. Bird, the overseer, that two of the men had escaped, and the remainder of the gang appeared to be greatly excited. From the statement of the overseer it appears that the two prisoners, named Tully and Jewel, were at work on the top of the bank removing soil. At 4 o'clock the men made a rush past the chain of sentries in the direction of Melbourne. Warder Scott, who was the nearest to the men, called to them to "Go back," in accordance with the regulations. As the men only quickened their speed, the warder discharged one barrel of his rifle, the ball passing close to one of the men, as it caused him to make a sudden start. Warder Parr, who was some distance off, also fired his rifle, but without effect. The men proceeded at a rapid pace through the paddocks, and were soon lost from view. As soon as the rest of the gang were inside the walls of the stockade the warders went in pursuit, but could not overtake the men. As soon as the gang had communicated to the stonebreakers, who numbered about 70, that two of the prisoners had escaped, the men belonging to both gangs took off their hats and gave a loud cheer, which was heard through the building. Mr. Donald, who was close by, behaved in a very cool manner, as the prisoners were excited, and no guard near to protect the officers if any attempt had been made to assault them. After a few minutes the order was given to fall in as usual in ranks, and the men marched to the prison.

THE recent stoppage of packets of jewellery sent through the Post-office (says the Argus) has led the Commissioner of Trade and Customs to make arrangements by which a Customs officer is to be gazetted as a Post-office official. In this capacity he will be enabled to watch the interests of the revenue, and, at the same time, to make concessions to Melbourne jewellers doing business with the adjacent colonies. It is arranged that Melbourne jewellers sending watches or other articles into the adjoining colonies on approval will pay duty upon those which have been sold when the remainder are returned.

THE following is the report of the Sydney Infirmary for the week ended 23rd October, 1880:—Admitted, 17 males, 13 females: total, 30; discharged, 27 males, 14 females: total, 41; died, 5 males, 3 females: total, 8; remaining, 135 males, 57 females: total, 192.

THE AGITATION IN IRELAND.

LONDON, OCT. 25.

A meeting of persons interested in the land question was held yesterday at Galway. Mr. Parnell was present, and made a speech in reference to the recent murders and agrarian outrages generally, and the present unsettled state of the country. He maintained that the House of Lords, by its rejection of the Compensation for Disturbance Bill, and the Right Hon. W. E. Forster (Chief Secretary for Ireland) by the policy he pursued towards Ireland, were solely answerable. Mr. Parnell, in conclusion, declared that the only remedy for the present state of affairs was an autonomous Government for Ireland.

LATER.

The Government are taking steps to carry out the resolution recently arrived at to prosecute the leaders of the Irish Land League, and summonses have accordingly been issued against the following members of the League, namely, Charles S. Parnell (member for Cork), John Dillon (member for Tipperary), Joseph Biggar (member for Cavan), Thomas Sectom (member for the county Sligo), Timothy D. Sullivan (member for West Meath), Alexander M. Sullivan (member for Louth), T. P. O'Connor (member for Galway), Dennis M. O'Connor (member for county Sligo), and Kelly. Summonses are also issued against the principal officers of the League; and the charge to be brought against the accused is that of conspiracy. It is rumoured that the trial will take place in London.

THE AGENCE-RUSSE ON THE GREEK QUESTION.

ST. PETERSBURG, OCT. 24.

The semi-official Agence-Russe publishes a leader on the present position of the Greek question and the claims of the Hellenes upon Turkey. The tone of the article is generally favourable to the claim of Greece to a rectification of frontier, but counsels moderation and discretion.

THE RELATIONS BETWEEN CHILI AND PERU.

LONDON, OCT. 25.

According to intelligence received from South America, the difficulties between Chili and Peru are not yet settled. The endeavours made by Foreign Powers, notably England and the United States, to mediate between the two Governments have failed, and negotiations are broken off. It is expected that hostilities will be resumed at an early date.

NEWCASTLE.

MONDAY.

Another case of sudden death occurred here to-day. An elderly woman named Jennings, residing at the Castlemaine Hotel, Charlton-street, fell dead. An inquest will be held to-morrow.

The secretary of the Newcastle Cricket Club is in receipt of communication from Mr. Alexander, of the Australian Eleven, dated from Scarborough, in which he desires to make arrangements for playing the first match of the Eleven on their return at Newcastle, and suggesting the 25th and 26th November as the dates for playing the match, as the Eleven expect to be in Sydney about the 22nd November. The Newcastle Club will arrange to meet the Eleven accordingly.

Very heavy rain fell during nearly the whole of last night, and the weather is still threatening.

Early on Sunday morning one of the police force arrested a young man, near the rear of the Castlemaine Brewery, for assaulting a woman; but, after placing the handcuffs on him, the fellow made his escape, and is still at large.

WEST MAITLAND.

MONDAY.

An inquest was held before Coroner Vindin, at the Cross Keys Hotel, to-day, touching the death of a woman named Ellen Campbell, who expired suddenly at her residence near the railway crossing on Sunday evening. After hearing the evidence the jury returned a verdict of death from apoplexy. Deceased was 65 years of age.

It rained very heavily this morning, and the sky still has a threatening appearance.

DUNGOG.

MONDAY.

At Little River the Enterprise battery will be ready to start crushing in a fortnight. They have only about eighty yards of fluming to put up, and the tables, which are ready to put down. There are six hundred tons of stone ready on the field for the battery to crush.

To-day it has been showery, and seems likely to continue so.

TAMWORTH.

MONDAY.

The weather has been fine since Saturday, but the sky keeps very overcast. This evening it is cold and wintry, the wind being from the east, and blowing strong.

HILL END.

MONDAY.

The Patriarch hauled some splendid stone this morning.

LISMORE.

MONDAY.

Mr. Pittman, Government Geologist, is investigating the mineral resources of this district, which promise to be very great.

Much satisfaction is expressed at the intention of the Government to call for tenders for Lismore Bridge, as it is greatly required.

The season so far has been very favourable. The corn and cane crops are looking well, and the cane now crushing is giving good results, the returns from the Big Scrub being better than any yet obtained. The wheat and barley sown for experimental purposes in low-lying localities are doing well, and showing no signs of rust. The mangoes planted some two years since are in flower, and give promise of fruiting; while generally there is plenty of grass for stock. The new land between Lismore and Brunswick River, comprising several thousand acres of well-matured rich land, is attracting the attention of free selectors, and will carry a large agricultural population.

The weather is showery, with heavy thunderstorms at times.

Business is quiet.

WELLINGTON.

MONDAY.

The wet weather is retarding the shearing, but the crops look in splendid condition.

TEMORA.

MONDAY.

Fine gold-bearing stone has been struck in the Caledonia. About a ton of mixed stone will be dispatched next Wednesday for Mint assay. The proprietors purpose testing the reef by means of Mitchell and Giles's well-borer to a depth of two hundred feet. On the Hope reef boring operations are being proceeded with, after cutting through a six feet thick reef, partly to explore and partly to strike water. The assay of the Hope Reef surface stone is 1 oz. 5 dwts. 5 grs. No. 1 from Deutscher's paid a dividend last week of £59. Pitts and Hale, near the above, again had several small nuggets, ranging up to six and eight ounces.

Messrs. Mitchell and Giles purpose purchasing another boring plant driven by steam, and capable of piercing to a depth of 1000 feet.

The rain has ceased without doing any good, except to fill a few small tanks constructed by the miners for prospecting.

COBARGO.

MONDAY.

John Stephens, working in No. 4 south, had one of his legs broken by a shaft slipping in on Saturday.

Many persons on the diggings are suffering from sickness.

The country back for miles is being thoroughly prospected, with promising results. Fresh discoveries are daily anticipated.

DENILIQUIN.

MONDAY.

The business on the civil side of the Circuit was commenced and finished to-day. There were two actions tried. In the first—Barbour v. Crump, an action for detinue—Mr. Simpson, plaintiff's counsel, accepted a nonsuit, after the Judge had directed a verdict for defendant, subject to points reserved for the full Court. In the action, Barbour (member for the Murray) v. Jones (proprietor of the Pastoral Times) the jury were locked up for six hours, when they gave a three-fourths verdict for the plaintiff, with £250 damages. Mr. Simpson for plaintiff, and Mr. Pilcher for defendant.

QUEENSLAND.

BRISBANE, MONDAY.

In the Assembly, this afternoon, the Premier read a telegram from W. M'Kinnon, of London, in reference to the mail contract, as follows:—"Final telegram received: proceeding vigorously necessary arrangements." The Railway Companies Preliminary Bill passed through committee, with some further amendments. The Treasury Bills Bill, providing for an issue to the extent of £251,160, passed its first reading; and a bill to legalise the alteration in the tariff already agreed upon passed its second reading. The Marsupial Destruction Bill passed through committee. The principal amendments made were that the assessment shall be two shillings per score for cattle and two shillings per hundred for sheep. The clause exempting enclosed lands was negatived. The House then adjourned.

An Aramac telegram states that a young man named Drury shot himself in the forehead at Coreena station yesterday, and there are no hopes of his recovery.

VICTORIA.

MELBOURNE, MONDAY.

The Treasurer will make his financial statement to-morrow evening, after the dinner hour. It will be of unusual length, and is awaited with much interest. Some changes in the Customs are contemplated, but it is not known to what extent.

The Minister of Works yesterday informed a deputation of unemployed that the relief works were closed, and all the money spent. He could hold out no hope of further assistance.

Judge Molesworth has refused an application for leave to appeal to the Privy Council in the suit of the United Hand-in-Hand and Band of Hope Mining Companies, as there was no evidence to show that the interest involved was over £500.

The suit of Brougham and the Melbourne Banking Company to have it declared that the bank were mortgagees in possession of the Alma station, in the Lachlan district, is proceeding.

A meeting of grocers was held to-day, and appointed a deputation to the Chief Secretary, to bring under his notice certain grievances under which they suffer.

Mr. George Vallentine, well-known in banking circles, is dead.

A petition, signed by 250 unemployed, has been presented to the Minister of Works. They complain that there is no work available at Lancefield, and that they had tried to find work from the farmers, but the crops were not sufficiently advanced to harvest, and they asked that works be inaugurated in order to give them employment.

Two churches in Carlton were broken into on Saturday night, and a few shillings in money and some silverware taken.

Both the Argus and Age comment strongly this morning on the Berry appointments.

The war steamer Atjeh left to-day for Java, via Brisbane.

There are 60 competitors for the £100 premium offered by the Harbour Trust for the best scheme for raising silt.

Jeremiah Murphy, one of the escapees from Pentridge, has been re-arrested. He was engaged at the time in the perpetration of a case of assault and robbery, and was recognized.

The National Bank has declared a dividend of 12½ per cent. and added £5000 to the reserve fund, besides carrying forward £7500.

The Minister of Railways has recently travelled over both routes suggested for the Kerang Railway line, and has determined to adhere to the previously formed determination for the line to start from Elmore in preference to Eaglehawk.

The City Council intend to petition Parliament against the Telephonic Communication Bill, as the pillars erected disfigure the streets, and the company pay no rates.

The Ceremonial Committee of the Exhibition have arranged for several musical entertainments, including the Austrian and Australian bands.

At a Conference of all the Northern Shire Councils held at Upper Preston to-day, a resolution was passed condemning the establishment of a Metropolitan Board of Works.

The discussion of religious education was resumed at the meeting of the Social Science Congress to-night, and several speeches were made on both sides of the question.

The return ball to the Mayor took place to-night, in the Town Hall. There was a good attendance, and the Governor was present.

The weather is very fine, and the city is now getting full. Numbers are arriving daily for the races.

The attendance at the Exhibition is scarcely improving yet, and to-day it was under 5000.

SOUTH AUSTRALIA.

Two gentlemen have ordered two hives of Ligurian bees from England per steamer, as an experiment.

A young man named Thomas Hughes was painting trucks on the railway yard, when in stooping he was struck on the head by a passing truck and killed instantaneously.

G. A. Fesenmeyer, assistant Auditor-General, is suspended, in consequence of alleged irregularities in regard to advances.

At the annual meeting of the Society of Arts, it was decided, on the suggestion of the Governor, to make an effort to obtain a loan of the Exhibition pictures belonging to the Queen and the Prince of Wales; also some from the South Kensington Museum. The new institute building is likely to be finished by the time the Melbourne exhibition closes, and the University library is available.

The Conference of the Postmasters-General of the various colonies proposed by Victoria, to be held in Melbourne, with a view of settling the several disputed points in reference to postal and telegraph services, has fallen through. South Australia is the only colony that consented to send a representative, and the other colonies consider that if the conference is held it should be attended by responsible Ministers.

It is thought that the barge which foundered at the Sorata is so damaged that she would be useless if raised.

THE DUKE OF MANCHESTER IN THE NORTH-WEST.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

GUNNEDAH, MONDAY.

The Duke of Manchester, Sir Patrick Jennings, and the Hon. John Lackey arrived here, by special train, on Friday evening. When the train entered the station the band played some appropriate music. Mr. T. K. Abbott afterwards read a suitable address to his Grace, on behalf of the residents of the town and district, which was replied to by the distinguished visitor, amidst hearty cheers from a large assemblage present. The Duke and party were then driven round the town in Mr. Nowland's carriage, drawn by four greys, and accompanied by a large number of vehicles; and in the evening his Grace was the guest of Sir Patrick Jennings, who entertained him at a dinner to which about twenty people sat down. On the following morning early a start was made for Porcupine Hill, from which a good view of the country adjacent was obtained. Then the party returned to Hurley's Hotel, where the residents entertained his Grace and party at a champagne breakfast. A start was made for Garawilla at 10 o'clock, the trip to Gullendaddy, and the picnic at Gunnedah, being found impracticable, owing to the bad state of the weather, and the limited time at the disposal of the Duke.

COONABARABRAN, MONDAY.

The Duke of Manchester, Sir Patrick Jennings, and Mr. Lackey stayed here last night, and inspected the various Government buildings. They proceeded on their journey this morning. A number of leading residents waited on the Duke and presented an address to him. His Grace replied in suitable terms, and spoke highly of the capabilities of the country he had passed through.

SUPPOSED TRACES OF THE MISSING BOATING PARTY.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

BODALLA, MONDAY EVENING.

Supposed traces of Lamont Young's party were discovered on Saturday evening, near Corunna Lake, about 12 miles from Wogonga, and on the sea coast. A small strip of shirting and a small quantity of what is supposed to be human entrails were washed up close to where the boat was found, and near Montague Island. I paid a personal visit to the spot this morning, and the impression of the boatman is that the remains are human. They have been taken to Montreal, pending analysis. A small quantity of honey, cigars, and biscuits were found on the beach close to where the remains was washed up. The general impression is that the unfortunate party were drowned, and eaten by sharks. Efforts have been made to catch some of the sharks, but so far with no result.

NORTH SHORE STEAM FERRY COMPANY.

The following is the report for presentation to the general meeting:—

Your Directors beg to submit the following statement of the Company's operations for the past half-year:—

The net profits amount to		£674 14 6
Add balance from last half-year		245 1 8
Leaving available the sum of		£919 16 2
Which your Directors recommend shall be appropriated as follows:—
To payment of a dividend of 9d per share, equal to nearly 8½ per cent. per annum	£620 11 9
Balance to next half-year	299 4 5
		£919 16 2

During the past half-year the steamer Victor has been sold, and a new steamer, the Millie, suitable in every respect for the requirements of the traffic, is now approaching completion, and will, it is expected, be placed on the ferry within the next fortnight. The cost of repairs has been exceptionally heavy, but it is anticipated that the expenditure on this account will be nominal during the ensuing half-year, as the plant is now in a very efficient condition. In addition to this unusual outlay, your Directors have amply provided for depreciation. The dividend will be payable on and after the 1st November proximo.

SPORTING INTELLIGENCE.

THE VICTORIA JOCKEY CLUB SPRING MEETING.

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

(FROM OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.)

MELBOURNE, MONDAY.

We had fine weather this morning. Grand Flaneur went nicely, and on the strength of a trial the other day, extending over two miles and a quarter, was backed to-day for the Cup to win about £12,000. Somerset beat Nellie over five furlongs, and Secundus, Elastic, and Gem did good work. Riverton did a good two miles, and Banter had the best of Wandering Jew in a fair gallop. Mata went well with Camballo and Chatterer. Strong work was done by Lord Burghley, Lord Lisgar, Sapphire, The Pontiff, Spinningdale, Shipka, and most of the regulars. The Maribyrnong Plate and Derby betting is unchanged. Cup, 9 to 1 Mata, 10 to 1 each Progress and Grand Flaneur and Lord Burghley, 12 to 1 Napper Tandy. The other prices are unchanged.

The booths and gates for the V. R. C. meeting and review on the 9th were sold to-day for £2377.

The following handicaps were declared to-night:—

THE TURF.

Owners and trainers are reminded that entries for the Summer Cup, to be run for on Boxing Day next, close with Mr. Clibborn, 163, King-street, at 4 o'clock to-day.

HAND-BALL.

On Saturday last, a very exciting and interesting match took place at the Rising Sun Ball-court, Elizabeth-street South, between A. Dillon (champion of New South Wales) and A. Dwyer v. M. Langham (champion of Victoria) and M'Hale—the rubber of three twenty-ones—Dillon and Dwyer mastering their opponents. Langham, the champion of Victoria, has forfeited to Dillon in the match for £200 aside.

RIFLE MATCH.

ENGINEERS v. NO. 1 COMPANY NAVAL BRIGADE.—On Saturday afternoon, the 16th instant, an interesting rifle match was fired on the Paddington range, between teams from the above corps—the former under the command of Lieutenant Parrott, and the latter of Lieutenant Lewington. This was the first challenge issued by the Engineers since their reorganisation, and instituted more particularly with the view of bringing out the shooting powers of some recruits lately drafted into the company. The weather was unfavourable to fine shooting, a strong gusty easterly wind blowing, accompanied with showers of rain. The conditions were—eight men aside, seven shots each at 500 and 600 yards, and two sighting shots, with the weapons with which the respective companies are armed. Commander Jones (Naval Brigade), and Captain Rowe and Lieutenant Cansdell (Engineers), together with friends and several members of the companies, were upon the ground, and watched the proceedings with great interest. The Naval Brigade were victorious. It is the intention of the officers of the Engineer Corps to present the highest scorer on each side—Golding (A.B., Naval Brigade), and sapper Sellar (Engineers)—with a trophy in commemoration of the event. Appended are the scores in detail:—

CRICKET.

NEW SOUTH WALES CRICKET ASSOCIATION.—A meeting of the committee of the association was held last evening at Tattersall's Hotel, Mr. R. Teece in the chair. On the motion of Mr. Gibson, it was resolved that no delegates should be permitted to take part in the proceedings of the association unless they were furnished with a proper certificate from their clubs, whose admission fees shall have been previously paid. Messrs. D. Gregory, T. Garrett, and C. W. Beal were appointed a selection committee to choose the representatives of New South Wales in the Intercolonial match which is to commence at Melbourne on the 27th December, and the secretary notified that Mondays and Fridays in each week had been set apart for the players who may be selected, to practise on the Association Ground. The chairman read a letter which had been received from a leading cricketer in Melbourne, suggesting the propriety of selecting a combined intercolonial eleven to play the Australian team on their arrival in Melbourne. The writer mentioned that the feeling in the sister colony was strongly in favour of such a match, and that the best cricketers there were willing to co-operate. He thought that a good eleven could be obtained from the following, namely:—Evans, Garrett, D. Gregory, Tindall, C. Bannerman, Massie, or Allen, for New South Wales; and Allan, D. Campbell, Horan, Kendall, G. H. Bayley, or W. H. Cooper, for Victoria and Tasmania. The feeling of the meeting appeared to be in favour of arranging such a match, but nothing definite was arrived at. Mr. P. Sheridan asked if any steps had been taken to bring under the notice of the Commissioner for Railways the inconvenience that cricketers and visitors to the ground are put to by having to pay an extra fare for being put down opposite the ground. He thought it rather hard that they should be charged an extra twopence for being carried about 200 yards. Mr. Gibson said that before the season opened he wrote to the Commissioner for Railways suggesting that cars should be put on to the ground, and also that the charge should be made 2d. He received a reply to the effect that the Department would put on extra cars but that they would have to charge 4d., as the regulations had been made and could not be broken. The chairman thought it was a matter which should not be allowed to drop, and if a deputation waited upon the Commissioner, the concession might be obtained. On the motion of Mr. Sheridan, it was resolved that Messrs. Brown and Fitzpatrick (vice-presidents of the association) be communicated with and asked to wait upon the Commissioner for Railways with reference to the matter. The Parramatta, Alfreds, Petersham, and Stanmore Clubs were admitted to the association. This concluded the business.

FIRST STANMORE v. FIRST WARWICK.—On Saturday afternoon last a one-day's match was played between these clubs in Norwood Park, Stanmore, resulting in a win for the Warwicks by forty runs. The Warwick team was captained by James Oatley, and Stanmore by F. M'Kern. The former won the toss, and sent the suburban team to the wickets, there being a drizzling rain at the time, which continued during the greater part of the Stanmore innings, and no doubt contributed to the small score made by them. For the losing team, W. Farnsworth, W. Allen, and G. Fisher contributed 16, 11, and 11, respectively. The number of runs required by the Warwicks to win were made by A. Hiddleston, E. Seale, J. Oatley, and D. Ogilvie before the fourth wicket fell, who played very cautious cricket—the excellent trundling of Messrs. Wisdom and Farnsworth, combined with the treacherous nature of the ground, preventing their taking many liberties. Subjoined are the scores:—

CROYDON v. CUMBERLAND C.C.—These clubs met, on the grounds of the latter at Penrith, on Saturday last, the match resulting in a victory for the country club by 54 runs, who, besides having the advantage of an exceptionally strong team, were first at the wickets, and had the advantage also of the light, which the dull weather of the day afforded. The Croydons' innings did not commence until half-past 5, and for some time before the last wicket fell, at half-past 6, the light was very bad for cricket; with these disadvantages, and the effective bowling of A. and J. Evans, backed up by the good fielding of the Cumberlands, the score was a creditable one. The scores on both sides are given below:—

LORNE C. C. v. OUR BOYS C. C.—This match came off on the former's ground, Camperdown, and resulted, after a very agreeable game, in a win for the former by 16 runs. Play commenced soon after 3 o'clock, when the Lornes were sent to the wickets, and after displaying some very good batting, closed their innings for 66. Our Boys then filled the creases, but owing to the very good bowling of their opponents, backed up by splendid fielding, failed to reach the score of the latter, and their innings closed for 50 runs. Lorekin and Duesbury played very well for 20 and 14 respectively. In their second innings the Lornes had lost 6 wickets for 50 runs when time was called. J. Atkinson, 22; A. Mills, 20; W. Bloomfield, 17, and C. Tye, 11, obtained by first-class batting. The bowling on both sides was very good, the state of the ground through the wet weather being considered. For the Lornes Atkinson bowled 62 balls, 18 runs, 4 maiden overs, and 4 wickets; Tye, 66 balls, 25 runs, 4 maiden overs, and 4 wickets. Stafford and Ferris bowled for Our Boys, the former obtaining the best average.

BELVIDERE C. C. v. ASHFIELD C. C.—These clubs met at Ashfield on Saturday last, the former winning by 9 runs. The small scores made by both teams may be accounted for by the wickets being in a very treacherous state after the late rains. The Belvideres in their second innings made a better stand, five wickets falling for 42 runs, Mair being not out 27. Appended are the scores:—

A match was played on Saturday last, at Stanmore, between the second elevens of the Carlingford and Stanmore cricket clubs, resulting in a victory for the local club, by 19 runs. Messrs. Hughes and Baly batted very well for Stanmore, the former obtaining 25 runs, and the latter 32. Mr. S. Abbot's bowling for the same club was very effective, gaining seven wickets for 33 runs. Messrs. Johnson and Thompson were the most successful batsmen for the visitors, the former obtaining 13 runs, and the latter 25. Mr. Lumsdaine played a not out innings, and gained 8 runs by very good play. The following is the score:—

TRICKETT AND LAYCOCK.

The aquatic correspondent of Land and Water writes:—"As far as regards appearances and pace, all the club junior scullers fancy they can go faster than Laycock, and are by no means sure they could not tackle Trickett. This may seem an exaggeration, but one night last week I saw a L.R.C. junior start behind Laycock at Hammersmith Bridge, and finish in front of him at Putney. We were all, no doubt, prepared for plenty of exhibition sculling for the benefit of the touts; but either the two Australians are neither of very much account, or they are the most accomplished 'kidders' on the river."

BOROUGH COUNCILS.

MARRICKVILLE.—The Council met at the usual hour on Monday last; present—The Mayor (Alderman Graham) in the chair, and Aldermen Chisholm, Miles, Moyes, Pfoeffer, and Wallace. The minutes of the last fortnightly and the special meeting were read and confirmed. Correspondence: The following letters were read, viz.:—1. From the Council Clerk, Newtown, stating that the improvements agreed to be made to Edgeware Road were completed, and asking this Council for a cheque for their moiety of the expenditure. The letter was received, and it was resolved that a cheque be forwarded, as requested. 2. From Lot Latcham, directing attention to the state of Fletcher-street. Received. 3. From J. Neville, dedicating to the Council certain streets running through property lately sub-divided by him. Received. Works.—The following reports from the Committee for Works were adopted, viz.:—1. Progress report, municipal work. 2. Progress report, Canterbury and Illawarra Roads; Government accounts. 3. On work in anticipation at Morgan-street. The following report was accepted, to be re-considered when the supplementary ward estimates were brought up, viz.:—On work proposed to be done at Cook's Road. Finance.—Accounts were passed and ordered to be paid amounting in all to £37 15s. 8d. The treasurer reported that he had banked the sum of £91 14s. since the Council last met.—L. J. PARK, Council-clerk.

WOOLLAHRA.—Meeting of Council on 12th October. Present—The Mayor (Mr. W. J. Trickett), Aldermen Norton, Mitchell, Brodribb, and Oatley. The minutes of last meeting read and confirmed. The Mayor reported, verbally, on the following matters:—Repairs of Double Bay Jetty: That, in accordance with the resolution passed at last meeting, he had accepted the tender of Messrs. Oates and Hawkesford to complete this work in accordance with the specification of the overseer, for the sum of £61. That a contract had been signed on 19th ultimo, and the work was to be completed in eight weeks therefrom. Tramway to Woollahra: That a deputation appointed at a public meeting held in the Council-chambers on 27th September had been received by the Secretary for Works on 1st October, who stated that the delay that had occurred in the carrying out of the work had arisen from a breakage of the rolling machinery at Lithgow, where the rails were manufactured; that work had since been resumed, and that the tramway would be laid with all possible speed; and that on a subsequent day some members of the deputation had an opportunity of inspecting the plans of the tramway, and ascertained that the route to Albert-street, Woollahra, would be by way of Queen-street and Ocean-street. That a deputation, composed of members of the Councils of the Eastern Suburbs, had waited on the Minister for Justice to urge the necessity for the establishment of a local Court of Petty Sessions; that the Minister had promised to give the subject his earnest consideration, and give full weight to the statements made by the deputation. That a deputation from this Council had been received by the Secretary for Lands on the subject of the vesting of the reserve in Bellevue South in the hands of this Council; that it was stated by the Minister that a similar application had been previously received by him for the trust to be placed in the hands of private individuals, but that the fact of the Council being prepared to spend £200 on the making of the road connecting the reserve with the old South Head Road, as stated by the deputation, would have great weight with him in arriving at a decision. The Council was requested to state its views on the subject in writing. Seaweed, Double Bay: The Mayor mentioned that an accumulation of decayed seaweed existed at the Bay, and recommended its removal by punts, to be towed into deep water, and discharged. It was resolved to leave the matter in his hands. The report of the Finance Committee was read, and adopted. The reports of the Council-clerk, inspector of nuisances, and Inspector Long, were read, and passed; and a special report of the inspector of nuisances, as to matters existing prior to his absence on leave—which were subjects of complaint—was read, amended, and received. Correspondence: Statement from the Municipal Conference, showing the applications of the balance of subscriptions received from the various Councils thereat represented. Letter from the Hon. Sir G. Wigram Allen, giving a consent to the vesting of the Reserve Camp Cove in the hands of the Council, on certain conditions. Letter from the Minister for Mines, advising a payment of £20 towards the expense of erecting a public pound in Woollahra. Letter of complaint from Mr. J. C. Neild as to the nuisance proceeding from premises adjoining his residence. Ordered that the Inspector of Nuisances visit the locality at once, and report thereon. Motions pursuant to notice: By the Mayor,—"That, in view of the difficulties and serious disadvantages attendant upon surface drainage in this borough, the Council take steps to urge upon the Government the necessity of carrying out at once their general sewage scheme." Referring to this motion, it was moved by Alderman Mitchell, seconded by Alderman Brodribb, and carried, "That the Council of the Glebe who had initiated a similar movement be requested to take measures to obtain united action on the part of suburban municipalities for this object. That application be made to Government to complete the filling up of that portion of the Rushcutter Bay reclamation, adjoining the New South Head Road, so that the footway might be made good." Moved by Alderman Norton, seconded by Alderman Oatley, and carried. "That the fences of Double Bay Reserve be repaired at a cost not exceeding £40." Moved by Alderman Brodribb, seconded by Alderman Norton, and carried. "That Government be asked to send in their report as to the proposed baths at Rushcutter Bay." Moved by Alderman Norton, seconded by Alderman Oatley, and carried.—SAMUEL SYMONDS, Council-clerk.

DETERIORATION OF GUNPOWDER. — The changes which take place in gunpowder after a certain lapse of time, and which have been noticed to have been so great as to cause a decrease in the velocity of the ball according to the age of the cartridge, have been found by M. Pothier to be due to chemical decomposition, due in all probability to the presence of metallic substances, such as copper and zinc. M. Pothier placed a certain quantity of powder, the analysis of which had been carefully made, in contact with copper, zinc, iron, tin, and lead, and after the lapse of a stated interval, made a fresh analysis. New products had been formed, containing salts of the metals experimented with, together with sulphate of potash. It was found that zinc had the greatest power of affecting the powder, and particularly if damp; next came copper, iron, tin, and lead had less effect.—Times.

Among the novelties in Christmas cards, which Messrs. Marcus Ward and Co. are preparing for the forthcoming season is a set of six folding tryptich cards, illuminated in the best style of chromo-lithography, with original songs, composed expressly for this purpose by Alfred Scott Gatty, W. C. Levey, Boyton Smith, B. Hobson Carroll, and F. Harvey. The words of the songs are by Mr. Frederick Langbridge.

MR. PARNELL.—The following sketch of Mr. C. S. Parnell, M.P., is from Vanity Fair of September 11:—"Some 40 years ago a scion of the noble house of Congleton was espoused to the only daughter of Admiral Stewart, of the United States navy, and in the year 1846 their union was blessed with a little boy, Charles Stewart Parnell. This little boy having grown into a big man, and having learnt all that Magdalen College, at Cambridge, could teach him, turned his mind to politics. Following in the steps of his grandsire, brother to Baron Congleton, who was a mighty anti-Unionist, Charles Stewart has become a leader among Home Rulers, and the prophet of the Anti-rent party. A union of Saxon, Milesian, and American blood has made the greatest agitator of the day, and the people of the oppressed island hold him as a second Liberator. Lord of the lovely Vale of Avoca, and brother of sisters who are celebrated for their beauty, Mr. Parnell cares little for the amenities of life, and he is most at home when his foot is on his native platform, and the excited Milesian is before him. He is at this moment an acknowledged power which Ministers treat with deference, if not with kindness, and he has it in his hands to do much for his country, either for good or for evil. Mr. Parnell is not a heaven-born orator, but an unbounded belief in himself has carried him on, and he is now always listened to both in and out of the House of Commons, where he has sat or stood for five years. His grateful countrymen have provided him with a variety of seats in it, but with not one easy one among them."

OFFICIAL ROTTENNESS IN CHINA.—We hear of a good story from the North which, if true, forcibly illustrates the rottenness of the official system which in China plays into the hands of Russia, or any other power that meditates hostilities with the Middle Kingdom. The expensive guns which were procured from Europe (Krupp and others) were very soon robbed of their brass sights by certain peculating petty mandarins, and the weapons were, of course, of no use whatever for actual service. Great was the consternation, therefore, when the 'cute Viceroy, Li Hung Chang, gave orders that a review should be held, and that these deadly pieces of artillery should be fired off in his presence. The astute official thieves, however, were equal to the occasion; they speedily improvised pieces of bamboo in shape very nearly resembling the real sights, and gilded over the more thoroughly to hide the deception, placing them in position, and firing by rule of thumb, as if the finest calculations and sighting had been elaborated. One of the precious guns burst, it may be remembered, at this same review, by overcharging or double-shotting; but the greatest triumph of the military rogues on that day was the sighting of Krupp's guns with pieces of gilt bamboo. Such are the men who would lead the Chinese braves to victory against disciplined Western troops. We fancy that Tso Tung-tung keeps a better run of his artillery than was done on this memorable occasion. It is not, we believe, an uncommon thing to find the most vital part of a machine stolen (if loose) after having been passed into hands of the Chinese.—Pioneer.

OUR BERLIN LETTER.

BERLIN, SEPT. 1.

To-day, the tenth anniversary of the great Battle of Sedan, is being celebrated all over Germany. Emperor William has taken the opportunity to make an address to the army, in which he proudly reminds the troops of the old days of glory, and in which he thanks once more the army and the country for the great sacrifices both made for the welfare of the Fatherland. All papers contain, of course, leading articles on this subject, but in all these articles it is clearly observable how carefully all implication of inimical feeling towards France is avoided. On the contrary, great hopes are expressed that peace will continue between the two neighbours, and that all plan of revenge will be abandoned. Nevertheless, everybody knows very well that such friendly feelings do not exist, and that France is only watching for a good opportunity to once again tempt the fickle goddess, Fortune. In my last letter I gave you a little account of the relations between France and Germany, and I there told you that M. Gambetta had at last thrown down the mask, and openly declared that France must have only one end in view, viz., to reconquer Alsace and Lorraine. The German Government press has now answered this speech by declaring that France has no right to claim possession of Alsace and Lorraine, which were wrested by treachery from Germany, in time of peace, by Louis XIV. Germany is willing to preserve good and peaceful relations with France, and to support the Republican rule there; but the French must at the same time never forget that Germany would rise to a man to defend that which they have won by dint of bloody battles, and great personal sacrifices. The French Government has, in consequence, hastened to offer very peaceful assurances, but at the same time it seems certain that the present ambassador at the Court of Berlin, Count de St. Vallier, will be withdrawn, and replaced by some one more inclined to support the policy of M. Gambetta. From all this it may be seen that the relations between the two countries are not so satisfactory and reassuring as they might be, and that the chances of the outbreak of a new struggle are by no means diminished. The Eastern question is also still menacing the peace of Europe. Until now the general understanding between the Powers has seemed indeed to exist, for they had resolved to collect a united fleet in Albanian waters; but the Porte knows very well that the interest of each Power in the East is a different one, and it hopes therefore that the understanding will soon disappear, now that diplomatic notes must give way to common action. The Porte pretends to be quite willing to cede some territory to Montenegro, but it starts at the same time fresh difficulties in order to gain time, and to weaken the understanding between the Powers. It is much feared in well-informed circles here that new troubles will arise in the provinces of the Peninsula, and that the Russians particularly will seize the opportunity to try and hasten on the total dismemberment and disembodiment of the Turkish Empire. The unfortunate diplomatists have not been able to enjoy any recess this year; and it is clear that the Eastern question will continue for a long time to occupy the diplomatic and political world.

In the home politics of Germany the most important event for the last fifteen days has been the disappearance from the party stage of the National Liberal party. It was long ago noticeable that many differences were existing between the various members of this party, and that many were no longer willing to follow the Government sans phrase. The commercial and economical policy of Prince Bismarck was not approved of by the more Liberal elements of the party: and Prince Bismarck, who does not relish being contradicted, was in consequence very much displeased with them. The ill-feeling between him and his former supporters has increased in proportion; but it cannot be denied that the Chancellor has made a mistake in separating himself from his old friends. The Conservatives and the Ultramontanes are not the real friends of the German Empire, and will never support any measure by which the institutions of the Empire might be strengthened. But Prince Bismark regards it as his highest task to fulfil the work of his life, i.e., to perfect the union of all Germany, in order that she may be able to retain her influential position in Europe. The Chancellor will therefore be obliged again to fall back on the help of the National Liberals, who have the same end in view; and it is already observable that the Government is not at all satisfied with the dismemberment of the National Liberal party. The Government organs recommend peace between all Liberal elements, and declare that the Government will never make a coalition with the Conservatives, but will always rely on support from the Liberals. We must wait and see whether these words will prove true. All former experience has clearly shown that the Chancellor is determined to exercise a complete dictatorship, and to lead the party, not to be led by it. Many conflicts between the Government and the Parliament may now be expected, but it must not be forgotten that in Germany the constitutional system of government is not yet established on a very firm basis, and Prince Bismarck will never give in his dismission, even if he does not possess a majority in the House. The Germans are well acquainted with this species of politics, and are accustomed to bear such a state of affairs, which would be impossible in any other country.

A few days ago the great cathedral at Cologne was finished, the last stone having been laid in the tower, and thus is completed an edifice of which the foundation-stone was laid 600 years ago. King Frederick William IV., the brother of the present Emperor, immediately on his accession to the throne, began the task of completing the erection of this vast and splendid cathedral, a task for which he begged the help of all Germans. His proposals were received with great enthusiasm by the nation at large, without any difference of religion, and from all sides large sums were placed at the disposition of the King, for the work which is now happily completed. The Ultramontanes have of course taken the opportunity to state that they cannot share in the general rejoicings, for the Archbishop of Cologne is living in banishment far from his diocese, and the Roman Catholic Church has to suffer persecutions equal to those instituted under the reign of Diocletian. But nevertheless the Emperor has resolved to celebrate the completion of this grand and important work by a great festivity, to be held on the 15th of October, being the birthday of his defunct brother. The whole Imperial family is invited to be present at the ceremony; and the Rhine Provinces and Westphalia will certainly make great efforts to offer to the Emperor a very splendid and hearty reception on this important occasion.

The great autumn manœuvres have already begun, and the German capital resembles a vast camp. The Crown Prince held some few days ago a review of the German navy in the Baltic, and several interesting experiments were made with torpedoes.

The German navy—the foundation of which, ten years ago, was regarded with contemptuous indifference by the greater maritime powers of Europe—has now, it is well known, become an imposing force. Of late years especially the increase in its strength has been very remarkable. In her own waters Germany has at the present time four armoured frigates, two spar and two flush decked corvettes, and one dispatch-boat in commission, besides sailing vessels, school and instructional ships, surveying vessels, an artillery instructional vessel, and craft employed only in harbour service. Two armoured frigates are also kept in reserve, with reduced crews, but ready to be commissioned at very short notice; so that a squadron of six ironclads could be quickly assembled either for offensive or defensive purposes—a force, it may be remarked, twice the strength of that ordered to be kept in readiness in 1878. Besides the above, two armoured corvettes, three armoured gunboats, two spar-decked corvettes, and two dispatch-boats, all new vessels, are ordered to proceed on trial cruises this year. That with such a fleet at her disposal Germany has the power of taking up a strong position in all parts of the world is very evident, and recent events have shown that she is not disposed to allow the weapon she has forged to lie idly in her hands should the necessity for using it arise. Germany now maintains on foreign stations one ironclad vessel, ten corvettes, two dispatch-vessels, and five gunboats, making a total of eighteen men-of-war, or three times as many as were in commission abroad in 1872.

The Crown Prince is now in South Germany, in order to be present at the manœuvres of the Bavarian and Wurtemberg troops, but he is expected back in a few days, as many princes and high personages will then come to the German capital. The Duke of Cambridge is, among others, expected here: and the Duke of Connaught has already arrived. Also the Crown Prince of Austria will join the Imperial guests; and, besides the military exercises and evolutions, many fetes and festivities will take place.

The annual picture exhibition of the Royal Academy was opened last Sunday, and at once visited by many admirers of modern art. These exhibitions are very advantageous for the artists, none of them like to be missing in the catalogues, and thus there is a continual encouragement for them in this arrangement. This year again more than 1100 works of art, that is, oil and water-colour pictures, drawings, architectural models, sculptures, &c., are exhibited, and it has given particular satisfaction that this year also fresh Dutch and English artists have participated in the exhibition, and particularly the exhibition of pictures from England is quite numerous. The well known famous names are almost all represented, the two Achenbachs, the brothers Begas, Professor v. Werner, Ekwall, Charles Becker, Professor Richter, Professor Knaus, Meyer von Bremen, Professor Jasson, Count v. Harrach, Count v. Kallkreuth, &c., have sent chef d'œuvres, but of course there are also a great number of mediocre pictures, done by young beginners. They are, nevertheless, received because the principal object of these exhibitions is to give an opportunity to the growing talent to show itself and to get known. The Royal family always takes the liveliest interest in these exhibitions. The Emperor and the Crown Prince, the Crown Princess and her daughters, all went on the day before the opening to the exhibition, and stayed there several hours. One picture particularly creates great sensation; it is by Professor von Werner, and painted by order of the Crown Princess. It represents the christening of the youngest child of Professor von Werner, to whom the Crown Princess was godmother, and at which also the Crown Prince, Count von Moltke, and other illustrious persons assisted. The picture is very small, but contains about twenty miniature portraits, which are all of a speaking likeness. The day after the opening, the Duke and Duchess of Connaught—who are staying at Potsdam, on a visit to the Court—and Princess Heinrich of the Netherlands, the young widow, eldest daughter of Prince Frederick Charles, visited the exhibition. Their arrival created, of course, a general excitement, as both Princesses are visiting their native cities for the first time since their marriage. The young widow, who still is dressed in deep mourning, looks rather wan and sad, while the Duchess of Connaught, who was almost a child when she married, has during the past year developed into a very beautiful graceful woman. Her figure is perfect, and her face wears such a happy look, which is alone sufficient to beautify. The Duke wore the uniform of his familiar Hussar Regiment, a little circumstance which certainly will help to augment his popularity.

The season at the Royal theatres has begun, though the Royal Opera House, which is being somewhat renovated inside, is not yet quite finished. Representations, therefore, only go on in one of the Royal theatres, sufficient, however, for this time of the year, when Berlin is still comparatively empty, and only passing visitors are peopling the public establishments and meetings. The Royal family are all settled in and near Potsdam, where also the marble palace is being repaired and prepared for the reception of Prince Wilhelm and his young wife. The wedding will probably take place at the end of the winter, early next year. For the last few weeks an exhibition of china, pottery, and all sorts of ceramic works, took place in Berlin, and was visited by many thousands of people from near and far. These special exhibitions have so much become the fashion that there is a new one opening up every few weeks. They have the advantage of giving great encouragement to the different branches of industry and to vivify trade in these articles in a very perceptible manner. The Court always visit these exhibitions, thereby proving the interest they take in any endeavours of the nation towards progress and perfection.

THE MEAT EXPORTATION QUESTION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In reference to the letter of "Sydney," in your issue of this day, allow me to make a few remarks. In the first place, if the English co-operative societies are to be communicated with, it must be in a regular business-like manner, by authorised and responsible individuals. There must be no beating about the bush, or "sounding the views" of each other; but a frank and honest exposition of the objects of the promoters of the movement. At the present moment there exists in England a profound ignorance of the real character of the food resources of Australia, and that ignorance is not likely to become dispelled by the delivery of lectures before audiences of Anglo-Australians at the London Society of Arts, or the Royal Colonial Institute, or by semi-philanthropic movements calculated to make English artizans regard Australian meat much in the same light as they do workhouse "skilly" or soup. Neither are the great Australian mercantile houses in the mother country likely to be of much service in initiating or developing the new trade, as their transactions have hitherto been conducted in a wholly different direction, rendering them more familiar with Coleman-street or Leadenhall-street, than with the vicinity of the Dead Meat Market in Smithfield. The first step to be taken is to open communication with those who possess facilities for the rapid disposal of the shipments of meat as they arrive in England. These people are represented principally by two bodies—the wholesale dealers in the new Smithfield market, and the leaders of the Co-operative Society movement. The first named have no objection to dealing with new foreign importations of meat, providing the quality be good and the price not too low. And here I would remark that mutton of common quality, such as that retailed in Sydney at from 1½d. to 2½d. per pound, has always been abundant in London and other large centres of population, the price averaging about 5d. per pound. It is the prime qualities, bringing from 9d. to 15d. per pound, for which such a demand exists, and which at times is so scarce. This is why in my letter to the Echo I had recourse to low quotations. The Strathleven experiment, while encouraging to a certain degree, cannot be regarded as wholly decisive; nor can any similar experiment become such unless repeated two or three times with similar results. The Americans understand this, and are now engaged in breeding sheep especially for the English meat market, procuring for that purpose the best English stock, for which high prices are continually being given. Next to the Newgate salesmen, come the co-operative associations, both middle-class and working-class. To these the idea of importing fresh meat direct from Australia has never yet been presented in a practical shape, and some little difficulty might be experienced in inducing the different executive committees to consider the project in a favourable light. It is probable, however, that the Civil Service and other middle-class co-operative associations would go thoroughly into the matter, provided suitable terms were offered at the outset, say a minimum price guaranteed for the first twelve months, and no claims to be made on them for damaged consignments. They are large purchasers of American meat, and could readily dispose of any quantity of prime beef or mutton at middling rates. The working-class associations are represented principally by the Wholesale Society, which consists of a federation of co-operative societies, formed for the purpose of enabling them to buy at first hand in the market. They are large purchasers of live stock, and have experienced buyers attending all the great cattle fairs in Ireland, as well as in the United Kingdom. If they were to agree to take each shipment of Australian fresh meat as it arrived, there would be comparatively little difficulty in inducing the Midland and other railway companies to provide refrigerating cars, by means of which the meat would be at once conveyed to Rochdale, Bradford, and other places, where it would all be bought up within twenty-four hours of its arrival by the retail customers, the store managers being previously apprised by telegraph of its leaving town. There is not the slightest need to raise large sums to bring about this result. Let the executive of the Wholesale Society be communicated with, and requested to nominate three or four persons in whom they had confidence, for the purpose of visiting Australia, and reporting on the character of its food resources, and the possibility of commercially utilising the same. One of these individuals might be Mr. Thomas Hughes, the author of "Tom Brown's Schooldays;" another, Mr. E. O. Greening; and a third, Mr. G. J. Holyoake. These three gentlemen should be accompanied by a couple of business men from the Wholesale Society. The whole of their expenses would, of course, have to be paid, but a couple of thousand pounds would be amply sufficient for this purpose. Should the arrangements be effected the shipments could commence directly after the return of the party to England, and if there appeared a prospect of this leading to permanent business, there would be no difficulty in inducing the Orient Company to furnish facilities for its further development. That company are not to blame for the caution hitherto observed by them in this matter. They are simply carriers, not merchants. If there are regular stocks of meats to be shipped to England, they will take pretty good care that the carrying business does not fall into the hands of their rivals. In salted meat an enormous trade might also be done, but the buyers must be invited over here. It is of no use sending meat to England unless a market is prepared for it; unless those so doing are anxious to lose their money. Moreover, it must be remembered that English experiences of Australian meat have not always been of the most encouraging description. Some of the so-called Australian preserved meats formed messes of an exceedingly unsavoury character, little calculated to induce English housewives to regard with favourable eyes the produce of colonial pastures. Still, there exists a ready market for Australian beef and mutton, if the proper measures be taken for utilising and developing the same; but I have no faith in companies paying large rents for their offices, and high salaries to their secretaries. There is too much cry and too little wool. Payment by results is more likely to act as an incentive to practical and successful exertion.

I am, &c.,
JOHN PLUMMER.

MAURITIUS.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

PORT LOUIS, SEPT. 10.

Our annual races are just over, and in writing to you I must not omit to say that the Australian racers, as usual, fully sustained their reputation, having beaten all the others which were entered against them. The value of the prizes here now-a-days is perhaps too low to attract the best animals from your colonies; but I suppose it will be satisfactory to Australians to know that, in respect to their breed of horses, they are considered in Mauritius, at all events, to excel the Cape and Natal, from whence we formerly obtained our racers. And I may also say that Arabs are found here to stand little chance of success against the thoroughbreds of your colonies. It may be remarked that although horse racing is generally considered to be a peculiarly British sport, yet, here in Mauritius, it is most enthusiastically patronized by the Creoles of French extraction. Some of the principal prizes competed for were:—The Maiden Plate, worth £240, won by Emperor, an Australian horse; Ladies' Plate, worth £75; Drapers' Plate, worth £75; Merchants' Plate, worth £100; Yates Plate, worth £75; Champ de Mars, worth £80.

Our overland mails via Aden reached this on the 21st ultimo. The most important intelligence to hand affecting the colony is the appointment of an additional Judge of the Supreme Court. Mr. L. Cox, a Creole of the island has been nominated to this important post; and I may mention that another, Creole Monsieur E. Pellereau, was also appointed to the position of Substitute Procureur-General.

Sugar-making is going on with great activity in the country districts; and although the crops will not be a large one, still our planters do not work without good prospects, as prices are high, which will compensate them for the short yield.

The Governor's financial report on the estimates for next year, and the expenditure for 1879, has been laid before Council.

The revenue in 1881 is expected to reach 7,377,412 reels, and the expenditure is estimated at 7,345,321 reels.

A new department is to be created, to be called the Forest Department, for forest planting and the protection of the woods remaining undestroyed.

The public debt of Mauritius at the end of last year, including the railway debt, amounted to £946,051; at the same period the funds in the hands of Government were 1,581,569 reels; the actual revenue and expenditure of 1879 were 7,637,295 and 7,461,998 reels respectively.

One of the last Government Gazettes contains the nomination of the Registrar-General as officer in charge of the taking of the census in the colony and its dependencies. It is over ten years since this was done.

The population of the island exceeds 350,000 souls, and that of the dependent islands is probably about 20,000.

A difference of opinion, in which our quick-tempered Creoles rather interested themselves, sprang up lately between the mayor of Port Louis, Monsieur Bazire, and the Governor, in regard to the proposed singing of the French national hymn, the Marseillaise, at the opera here. It should be said that this anthem has already been the cause of more than one disturbance in our theatre, with our excitable audiences. The mayor, aware of the fact, declined to allow it to be sung; but the Governor, either in ignorance of what might ensue, or not considering any possible consequence worthy of precaution, informed the lessee of the theatre, through his private secretary, that he had not the slightest objection to the Marseillaise being sung. It was finally decided that "God Save the Queen" and the Marseillaise should both be sung, which was done without anything more resulting than some cheers and noise—rather to the disappointment of some of the rising generation, who had gone to the theatre with the object of seeing a shine.

An interim report of the Finance Committee of Council, in regard to the offer of Messrs. Donald Currie and Co. to continue to run their steamers between this and the Cape, has been submitted to the Government. The committee has reported (with the exception of two members, who dissent) that it considers that the advantages to be derived from the mail service do not warrant the acceptance of the conditions demanded by Messrs. D. Currie and Co., viz., a subsidy of £7500 per annum, with some other advantages. The Auditor-General and the Protector of Immigrants (members of the committee) have, however, sent in a dissent from the conclusion above arrived at; and they advocate the acceptance of the offer. The Colonial Secretary, the Hon. Mr. Broome, also a member of the committee, adds a rider to the whole correspondence, to the effect that he "views with regret any possibility of the severing of the connection established by these steamers between Mauritius and South Africa, and he cannot but think that the discontinuance of the line when the service can be improved and permanently secured for the small subsidy of £6000 or £7000 a year, would be a misfortune."

NORFOLK ISLAND.

(FROM OUR OWN CORRESPONDENT.)

NORFOLK ISLAND, OCT. 2.

The mission vessel Southern Cross, Captain Bongard, arrived on the 15th September from her second cruise, all well, bringing Messrs. Penny, Bice, Comins, Raddock, and the usual lot of boys. Santa Cruz was visited, and a landing effected within a short distance of where Commodore Goodenough was killed. The plucky bishop went ashore alone, and was kindly received by the natives, who consented to receive a teacher, and one was left under the protection of the chief; so now there is a prospect of this terror of a place being civilized a bit. Mr. Penny gives a good account of Florida, and says the good seed gives promise of an abundant harvest. All the other stations of the Melanesian Mission are fairly prosperous. The Bishop was left at Torres Island. The Southern Cross sailed again on 17th, taking Messrs. Bice and Comins, and is expected to be absent six weeks.

The Melbourne steamer Suva communicated on the morning of the 27th, to make inquiries respecting the little steamer Moyne, which sailed hence nearly four weeks ago, and had not arrived at Levuka up to the time of her leaving, and passed on.

Another whale has been added to the season's scanty get, making three to date. The prospect, although gloomy, brightens somewhat, as whales are making their appearance again.

With the exception of a "southerly wind" in the grocery and flour department, constraining almost everybody to a vegetable diet, everything is as usual.

The health of the island is good.

The importance of opening up the northern part of Africa—known as the Sahara—to European commerce is evidently fully appreciated by the French, for they have no fewer than four exploring parties in the region through which the proposed Trans-Saharan railway is to run. They have already expended a considerable sum in preliminary surveys, and the Minister of Public Works intends to ask for a further grant of £24,000 to promote the work. While the French are thus endeavouring to open up Northern Africa, the Germans are pursuing the work commenced by Livingstone, and have as many as ten different expeditions in the central districts of the "dark" Continent. That the end of the present century will see the interior of Africa a happy hunting-ground for commercial travellers is perhaps too much to expect, but there can be little doubt that by 1900, such markets as exist in the centre of that vast continent will be opened to Manchester and Sheffield. And it would probably pay those centres of industry to establish agencies as speedily as possible. Of necessity they will not be profitable for many years, but, as everything comes to the man who can afford to wait, a store in the "wilds" of Aftrica may ultimately prove to be very profitable.

DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL.—SURPASSINGLY EFFICACIOUS AS A RESTORATIVE MEDICINE AND FOOD.—Dr. Whitmore, Medical Officer of Health, St. Marylebone, writes:—"My own somewhat lengthened experience as a medical practitioner enables me with confidence to recommend Dr. de Jongh's Light-Brown Cod Liver Oil, as being more uniform in quality, more certain in its effects, more palatable, and infinitely less likely to disagree with the stomach than the Pale Oil. The practice which often prevails of mixing certain ingredients with cod liver oil, to render it agreeable to the taste, is highly objectionable, for we have it on the authority of Dr. de Jongh himself that anything which sophisticates it takes largely from its therapeutic value. If I were asked for an explanation of the marked success which for so many years has attended the administration of Dr. de Jongh's Light-Brown Cod Liver Oil, I should say that it is owing to its extraordinary medicinal, dietetic, and regimenal properties, and which are found to exist in no other medicine that I am acquainted with in such uniform combination." Dr. de Jongh's Light-Brown Cod Liver Oil is sold only in capsuled imperial half-pints, pints, and quarts by all chemists and druggists. Sole consignees, Ansar, Harford, and Co., 77, Strand, London. Agents at Sydney, Elliott, Brothers.—ADV.

A COMPARATIVE VIEW of AUSTRALIAN PROGRESS.

VI.—MISCELLANEOUS.

The wool clip, which has increased five-fold during the past fifty years, has been greater in Australia than in any other part of the world, the increase in Australia since 1830 having been 58-fold; South Africa, 24-fold; United States, 21-fold; River Plate, 11-fold, and Europe 2½-fold. Europe, at the present time, produces 740 million lbs.; Australia ranks next, with 350 million lbs.; River Plate, 240 million lbs.; United States, 208 million lbs.; South Africa, 48 million lbs. The yield of wool and cotton is greater every year. The cotton crop of 1879 in the United States was greater than that of any previous year, while the wool clip of Australia and the River Plate has increased 33 per cent. in the past nine years. The importation of cotton into Great Britain has risen from 54 million lbs. in 1801 to 1186 million lbs. in 1877: but the increase in the importation of wool has been much more remarkable. In 1801 the United Kingdom imported 7¼ million lbs. of wool; in 1811, only 4½ million lbs.; in 1821, 17 million lbs.; in 1841, 56 million lbs.; in 1861, 93 million lbs.; and in 1877, no less than 223 million lbs. The importation of wool into Europe was one-third greater in 1878 than it was only seven years' previous. The imports were as follows:—From Australia, 1871, 567,000 bales; 1878, 791,000 bales, being an increase of 40 per cent. From River Plate, 1871, 222,000 bales; 1878, 267,000 bales, being an increase of 20 per cent. From Cape Colony, 1871, 149,000 bales; 1878, 164,000 bales, being an increase of 10 per cent.

In shipbuilding the colonies are already taking a prominent part, although the United Kingdom retains its prestige as the great home of that industry. The depression in the shipbuilding trades in the United States during the past ten or fifteen years has been astonishing, particularly when compared with the advances which Great Britain has made. As an instance, it may be mentioned that the steamboat yards of New York, which in 1860 employed 15,000 workmen, gave employment to only 700 in 1870. This may be attributed, in the first place, to the preponderance in late years of iron vessels as compared with wooden vessels: and in the second place, to the protective tariff enforced by the United States Government, which rendered the building of iron ships in the States almost a ruinous speculation. Great Britain and her colonies at the present time build nearly 600,000 tons per annum, the tonnage of the vessels built in the British colonies amounting in the aggregate to 138,000 tons. Forty years ago Mr. Scott Russell was told that "to build iron ships was contrary to nature," and yet out of the total number of vessels built in Britain and the colonies last year there were:—Iron vessels, 389,000 tons; wooden vessels, 176,000 tons. In a single year the yard of John Elder and Company alone turns out vessels the aggregate tonnage of which amounts to more than that of the whole of the English fleet which defeated the Spanish Armada.

Australia appears to be contributing largely to the copper supply of the world, the production last year being as follows:—Chile and Peru, 34,000 tons; United States, 15,000 tons; Australia, 14,000 tons; Russia, 5600 tons; England, 5200 tons; other countries, 19,000 tons.

Until recently the tin mines of Cornwall had almost the monopoly of the supply of the world; but latterly the Straits and Australian tin has been entering vigorously into competition. The tin factories of the world consume 24,000 tons annually, and to this demand Tasmania is now a large contributor. Such is the extraordinary impetus which tin-mining has received in that colony that the Mount Bischoff tin mines, which a few years ago were worth only a few hundred pounds, are now worth (taking the total market value of the shares) at least £540,000. Of the tin used by the factories of the United Kingdom (about 15,000 tons), two-thirds are imported from Australia, the East Indies, or Prussia.

Australia has a larger telegraph system than either Africa or Canada, and even more extensive than that of Asia. That the people of these colonies avail themselves very largely of the means of telegraphic communication may be readily seen from the following figures, showing the number of messages for every 100 inhabitants: Australia, 150; Europe, 75; America, 32; Africa, 5; Asia, 2.

The railway progress of the world during the present century has been astounding, and can only be realized by reference to actual figures. In 1830 the total number of miles of railway open in the world was 880; in 1879 the total length of the railways of the world was 202,021 miles, constructed at a cost of £3,638,000,000, or an average of £18,000 per mile. The United States has the greatest length, viz., 81,850 miles, costing £12,000 per mile to construct. Germany comes next in length, with 18,080 miles, costing £20,000 per mile; and the United Kingdom next, with 17,333 miles, costing £40,000 per mile. Canada has 5850 miles, constructed at a cost of £12,000 per mile; and Australia has 4000 miles, constructed at an average cost of £14,000 per mile (total cost, £14,000,000.) An examination of the returns in reference to railways in such portions of the new world as the United States and Canada proves the vast influence that they have had in developing the country, extending settlement, and promoting commerce, and suggests the opinion that the vast grazing plains and extensive agricultural areas of Australia must rapidly become populated when the facilities of railway communication are provided to bring the more remote parts of the country within easy distance of the principal centres of commerce.

Mr. Mulhall points out that Australia and Canada have now as large a reading population as the United States, notwithstanding its enormous population, could boast fifty years ago, but an examination of actual statistics affords a better proof of the determination of the people of Australia to provide their children with education, and the efficacy of the means employed to carry out that determination. In 1830 the number of school children (compared with population) in the colonies was only 6 per cent.; to-day the percentage is larger than in any other part of the world, viz., 21 per cent. The United States comes next, with 19 per cent. of school children, Germany 17 per cent., and the United Kingdom 15 per cent. Australia and Canada are in advance of the rest of the world in promoting public education; and it is a thoroughly established fact in those countries in which education has been thus popularised that crime (as represented by the number of convictions) has decreased exactly in proportion to the increase in the number of persons able to read and write. In Great Britain, for instance, during the last 40 years crime has decreased 60 per cent., while the number of persons possessing at least ordinary education has increased at a similar rate.

MR. GIPPS and his KENNY HILL SCHEME.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—As there apparently exists in the minds of the Sydney public—although I know of no proven reason why—the fear of a fair impartial survey test not being applied by Mr. Moriarty's department to the Kenny Hill scheme, I would respectfully suggest that a first-class staff surveyor of the Surveyor-General's, be entrusted with the survey.

The Surveyor-General's Department and Mr. Moriarty's being entirely distinct, such an arrangement as I now propose would, I submit, be alike reliable to the Government and the public interested.

I am, Sir, 3·1416.

THE TICHBORNE CASE.—The Central News Agency says:—The Attorney-General has stated that he will consent to the case of Castro v. Regina being submitted to the House of Lords. The appellant's solicitor had submitted to the Attorney-General a series of points, giving reasons why he should grant his fiat to the petition. These are:—1. The precedent of Tweed v. Lipscombe. 2. The fact that the fiat is merely a ministerial act, and ought not to be refused, unless an appellant's case is manifestly frivolous. 3. That a prisoner suffering penal servitude should not be prevented from appealing to the highest tribunal if his counsel endorses it. 4. That the present law preventing appeals in criminal cases has been unanimously condemned by the Legislature, and in three sessions of Parliament bills condemning it have passed the second reading. 5. That the petition raises points which ought to be decided. 6. That since the trial fresh evidence has been obtained, on the absence of which the Lord Chief Justice strongly commented. 7. That many thousands of persons have signed petitions on his behalf, and the case should therefore receive the amplest discussion. 8. That the prisoner's solicitor can prove conspiracy against him. 9. That the Attorney-General is virtually Minister of Justice. That Lord Justice Bramwell's opinion is now of doubtful value, as shown by contradictory letters on the Employers Liability Bill. That the prisoner, though found by the jury to be Orton, is still called Castro in prison.

LAW REPORT.

INSOLVENCY COURT.—MONDAY, OCT. 25.

(Before his Honor the CHIEF COMMISSIONER.)

In the matter of Robert Moodie, an adjourned second meeting. Six debts were proved. Insolvent was examined by Mr. Smith (Messrs. Allen and Allen) for the official assignee, and deposed that the accounts at both the Joint Stock Bank and Mercantile Bank were in his own name; there was an account at the former in the name of F. Salisbury and Co., which was left open for settlement after he took the business over; his private account was at the Bank of New South Wales. The examination also went into the transactions between the insolvent and Mr. Salisbury, and it was stated that particulars of many amounts in the supplementary statement could not be given, owing to the books being in possession of Salisbury. The meeting was terminated.

In the matter of Chas. G. Lessing, adjourned examination. Further adjourned till Thursday next, owing to the non-arrival of the Gunga from Fiji.

In the matter of Michael J. Dempsey, adjourned examination, nothing was done, and the meeting was terminated.

In the matter of Thomas Upton, meeting for examination of insolvent. Dr. Donovan appeared for sundry creditors, and examined insolvent, who stated that he occupied certain property at Penrith under lease for fifteen years: he did not put it down in his schedule because he had handed the lease to Mr. William Clarke, as security for moneys lent by him: he handed it over about 7 months ago: Clarke had been lending him money for more than two years, to pay bills coming due; no writing passed between him and Clarke when he gave him the security: Clarke also held a bill of sale dated August 16 last, to secure the payment of £180: the bill of sale was executed at Penrith; Clarke sent him a cheque for £120 at the time he executed the bill of sale; this cheque was paid into the Commercial Bank to meet bills that were coming due; the money was paid in on July 3rd; he would not undertake to say that any money was paid him on August 16th; the bill of sale was given in respect to the money paid in on July 3rd; on August 16th, he was pressed by other creditors, and writs had been issued against him, but he believed executions were not issued; he defended the action brought by Mr. Long; he valued his interest in the leasehold property at £50; his son-in-law, Gurnett, assisted him to make up the books about a week before his sequestration; the cheque for £20, dated June 3rd, paid to Gurnett, in the latter's handwriting, was for money lent about a fortnight previously; the cheque for £14 15s., on June 29th, was handed to Gurnett to pay part of Myers and Solomon's account; he did not get any receipt for that amount from Myers and Solomon; Gurnett told him that he had paid the cheque to Gannon and M'Laughlin for Myers and Solomon; on July 9 there was a cheque for £14 in favour of Gurnett in his wife's handwriting; he did not know what it was paid for: he did not owe Gurnett any money at that time; the cheque for £47 to Mr. Clarke on June 4 was paid to him to meet a promissory note for £60; on July 3 the cheque for £46 5s was, he believed, sent to Mr. Clarke, but he did not recollect what it was for: he had no doubt it was on account of a promissory note; he had not kept the accounts in the estate, and hence did not know for certain; on September 4 there was a cheque for £63 4s. 6d. in favour of Mr. Clarke; it also was on account of a note due by him to Mr. Clarke; he believed the amount of £120 was inserted in the bill of sale because it was the amount due to Clarke at the time; he had sent goods from his store to Temora diggings, he believed, about the middle of August; he sent them to his son Albert for his brother Thomas to sell on his (insolvent's) account; Thomas was under age; part of the goods were sold, and he received £22 10s. from his son when he went to Temora, about August 20; there were only two small cases of drapery sent to Temora; his freehold property was mortgaged for £400 in May last. William Clarke was also examined in reference to his transactions with the insolvent, and stated that on May 3 he lent insolvent £90, and on July 2 he lent him £120; on May 30 he discounted a promissory note of insolvent's for £39 10s., in favour of Gurnett; on September 1 he advanced insolvent £40; for the first amount of £90 he received two bills—one for £47 10s., dated May 1, and due June 4, the other dated April 30, and due July, for £46 5s.; they were presented at the bank, and paid in ordinary course; he discounted the bill for Gurnett, which bill was dishonoured when presented on August 13; the £120 was paid by cheque, for which he received two promissory notes—one dated June 30, at one month, for £61 4s. 6d., the other, drawn at same date, at two months, for £63 4s. 6d.; the first of these notes was presented and dishonoured, the second was paid with the assistance of his cheque for £40; that £40 was still owing to him; he had prior to that not called upon insolvent to retire the dishonoured promissory note of Gurnett's; he had given notice of dishonour, but received no answer; he sent notice of dishonour of promissory note due August 2, and got an answer stating he would pay as soon as he could; about July 3 he received a letter from insolvent undertaking to give him a bill of sale if he would advance the £120; he had received the bill of sale on August 16; it was now in possession of Mr. A. H. M'Culloch, who was out of town, so he (witness) was unable to produce it; he instructed Gurnett by letter to take possession on August 18; he had not heard of any execution being out against insolvent; when he gave insolvent the cheque for £120 he understood his liabilities were only £300, and hence consented to lend him the money to meet his bills on July 4; he knew Gurnett was insolvent's son-in-law; he received a notice to attend a meeting of insolvent's creditors one or two days before the meeting was held, but did not attend; he never got a cheque for £10 from insolvent; he claimed security over leasehold premises at Penrith by deposit of the lease; he got it first when he lent the £120, and when he got the bill of sale he sent it to insolvent for signature, and it was returned with the signature Thomas Upton added to it: the bill of sale comprised all the insolvent's stock-in-trade. The meeting was adjourned for a fortnight.

In the matter of the Molong Consols Copper Mining Company, no one appearing, the matter was adjourned till Thursday next.

RULE NISI.

John Davis v. John Joseph Trenery, of Goulburn, clerk. Returnable 11th November. Mr. Sempill, official assignee.

SURRENDERS.

George Colless, of Brewarrina, late publican, on petition and affidavit. Schedule and statement to be filed on or before 4th November.

AMERICAN LUXURY.—One of the delusions fostered by certain American writers of late years is that some of our forefathers lived in great magnificence—"princely" is the favourite word employed by such writers, and but a few days ago a writer in an evening contemporary described Aaron Burr as having lived in "princely style" at the old Morris House, near Highbridge. The plain truth is that luxury, in the comprehensive European sense, has only been known here since the war, and is rare even now. A wealthy Frenchman or Englishman, with a thoroughly "mounted" establishment, can simply say to a head servant in the morning, "We shall be 20 at dinner to-day," and not give another thought to the matter. How many Americans, no matter what their means, could do that? American luxury has always been, and is still, distinguished by incompleteness. In the South, where it has been greatly exaggerated, it almost exclusively consisted of plenty devoid of elegance. In the North the same plenty, except where servants are concerned. When an Englishman stays with an American who has 50,000 dollars a year, or more, he is in some respects less comfortable than when in the house of a country parson at home, for the latter's man will assiduously valet him, whereas the chances are that his American host's servant will not come near him, and, if in the country, it is quite a chance if he even finds a bell to ring; in fact, a guest in an American millionaire's house was found, not long ago, wandering over the passages in search of a jug of hot water. It is this incongruity which still marks our juvenility. The lady who wears a 250 dollars dress has an establishment consisting of two slatternly Biddies; and in a house where dinner parties are given costing 20 dollars a head there is, on ordinary days, a single overworked and rather grimy man-servant. This state of things is gradually changing, but it will be many years before a sense of completeness is felt in many establishments, even in New York.—New York Times.

THIS day, at 11 a.m., at the Book and Stationery Depot of Mr. P. E. Reynolds, No. 410, George-street, continuation of the great clearance sales of books, stationery, pictures, photographs, artists' materials, albums, purses, desks, workboxes, &c.—Bradley, Newton, and Lamb, auctioneers.—ADV.

POLICE.

CENTRAL POLICE COURT.

The Police Magistrate was assisted yesterday, on the criminal side by Messrs. Pearce, Hunt, Moses, R. C. Murray, and Pringle; and on the summons side by Messrs. Alexander and Bull.

In the Summons Court the only cases tried were proceedings under the Tenants Act, Clancey v. Travers and Clancey v. Feddell, and a seven days' warrant of possession was granted in each.

Lewis Morris was found guilty of mendicancy, and was sentenced to be imprisoned seven days.

Lottie Barry and Ellen Howard were sentenced to be imprisoned seven days for conducting themselves in a riotous manner, between 1 and 2 o'clock in the morning.

Joseph Dorney, on failing to satisfy the Bench respecting his right to a door-scraper found in his possession, and suspected of being stolen property, was sentenced to be imprisoned one month.

Peter Robinson was charged with being an idle and disorderly person, having no lawful means of support. He said that he had two days' work last week as a labourer on the wharf, but did not know the name of the man who employed him. A long list of convictions was reported against him. To be imprisoned three months.

William Smith was charged with having feloniously wounded one Robert Henry Thompson. Constable Smart deposed that between 4 and 5 p.m. of Saturday he was at the Central Police Station and heard the sound of a groan come from one of the cells; he went at once, and saw prisoner, who about two hours previously had been brought in for drunkenness, kick a man named Thompson, who had been brought in on a like charge; prisoner wore heavy nailed boots; witness ran in and separated them; Thompson was lying on the floor, bleeding from the face and nose, quite a pool of blood being on the floor; prosecutor and prisoner were the only occupants of the cell; he took Thompson to the Infirmary, where the injuries were attended to. Dr. Trail deposed that he examined Thompson, who was very drunk, and found four cuts on his face; one of an inch and a-quarter long on one side of his nose, and his right eye swollen; these were true wounds; he dressed them, and the policeman took the man away; there is no immediate danger from the injuries. Thompson was sworn; but he knew nothing whatever of the assault. Prisoner did not deny the assault; but alleged in mitigation that prosecutor as soon as he was put into the cell assaulted and beat him, pulling him off the bed on which he was lying. Committed for trial at the Quarter Sessions. Bail allowed.

Margaret Cleary was summarily convicted of having assaulted Thomas Gould by throwing a stone which, striking him over the left eyebrow, inflicted a true wound of about an inch in length and a quarter inch in depth. Gould is a cabman, and alleged that the prisoner and another woman hired him about midnight, and on leaving refused to pay his fare. Prisoner, in reply, and in which she was corroborated by the other woman, denied the hiring, but that, on the contrary, the prosecutor invited them to have a ride. To be imprisoned two months.

James O'Donnell was convicted of being an habitual drunkard, and received a sentence of two months' imprisonment.

Emily Head was sentenced to be imprisoned seven days, and Mary M'Carthy to be imprisoned three months, as idle and disorderly persons, having no lawful means of support.

Thomas Hurley, alias Sullivan, and Nathan Davis were charged with assault and robbery. Frederick James Curtis, of Burwood, painter and paperhanger, deposed that a little before 11 o'clock on Saturday night he saw several young men standing near a public-house in Kent-street, one of whom (the prisoner Hurley) said to him, "Old man are you going short?" and thrust his hand into witness's trousers pocket, in which he had about 19s.; he seized Hurley's hand, and called out for police, whereupon several others came forward and throttled him; he could not say anything about the prisoner Davis; the police came up and arrested Hurley; he missed about £1 8s. Constable Farrell deposed that as he was leading Hurley to the station Davis came alongside and Hurley handed to him some money produced; at the station prosecutor charged both prisoners with having assaulted and robbed him. Committed for trial at the Central Criminal Court, and allowed bail for their appearance.

William Thompson was summarily convicted of having stolen two brushes and one knife, of the value of 4s., the property of John Hassell, and was sentenced to be imprisoned two months.

Jasper Holder was brought before Mr. Booth on the 6th October, and by several adjournments until to-day, charged with having stolen cube sets, of the value of about £3 10s., the property of the Government. Detective Tindall apprehended him, and showed him the property then lying on a piece of land near the corner of Buckland-street and Abercrombie-street; he said, in reply, that they were condemned cubes, and that he got them from the wharf. William Webber deposed that in the afternoon of the 5th October he saw defendant remove cube sets from the tramway line, and convey them in a cart as far as Belmore Park gate, where he completed his load, and drove along Elizabeth-street to Buckland-street, and tipped his cart on a vacant piece of land; he then drove home, and witness followed him; witness gave information to Mr. Paton, and helped to remove the cubes; there were about two loads at that place; he estimated the value at from £3 to £4; on some of the cubes were wheel marks, showing that they had been used. John Paton, inspector of tramways, deposed that on the evening of the 4th October he saw defendant removing cube sets, and in consequence of what he saw put two men to watch him; no one had authority to remove cube sets from the tramway to Buckland-street. William Grono corroborated the evidence of Webber. For the defence, witnesses were called who contradicted a portion of the evidence of Webber and Grono as to what and whom they saw on the 5th October, and to show that the cubes conveyed by Holder were the property of James Rutherford, foreman of works for Starkey and Larson, sub-contractors on the tramway works, who also is an importer of cubes from Shellharbour; on the 4th defendant removed cube sets from Goulburn-street, where the line had been completed; about a week before the 5th October he gave defendant permission to cart a few loads from Woolloomooloo Bay, to take them whenever it suited his convenience; very few of those were fit for tramway purposes, according to the specification. Several other witnesses were called by Mr. Roberts for the defence. His Worship committed the defendant for trial at the Quarter Sessions, admitting him to bail for his appearance. Mr. Gannon conducted the prosecution.

WATER POLICE COURT.

In the Charge Court, yesterday, Messrs. Marsh (W.P.M.), Goodridge, Hale, Deane, and Gray occupied the bench, and the Summons Court was presided over by Messrs. Lester and Perdriau.

A very large number of cases against drunkards and disorderly characters were disposed of, the defendants being fined in the usual amounts, with proportionate alternatives of imprisonment.

George Pike, for throwing stones to the danger of passengers, was fined 20s., with the alternative of seven days' imprisonment.

Edward O'Brien was fined 20s., or seven days' gaol, for being drunk; £5, or three months, for using obscene language; and £5 for assaulting constable Stewart in the execution of his duty.

Thomas Thompson, alias Cashman, was fined 20s., or seven days' imprisonment, for using obscene language, and 60s., or three months, for a similar assault.

MARINE BOARD.

At the weekly meeting of the Marine Board, held yesterday, there were present—Captains Fox (in the chair), Broomfield, Jenkins, M'Lean, and Robertson, and Lieutenant Lindeman (secretary).

An inquiry was held as to the circumstances attending a collision which occurred in the harbour, on the 20th instant, between the ketch Formosa and a punt towed by the steamer Lillie Denham, by which the punt was damaged to the extent of £60 or £80. Hans Christian Christiansen, master of the Formosa, stated that his vessel was coming up the harbour with a southerly wind when after he passed Battery Point a steamer was reported coming down; he went the lee side, saw the green and two masthead lights, and kept on his course until the look-out man reported that the steamer was showing her red light; he then saw the steamer's two-mast head lights passing his bow, whereupon he put the helm hard up and slackened the mizen sheet; he thought the steamer had let go her tow rope because the punt was showing a green light, and he was just in the act of putting the helm down again when they came against the tow rope, which caused the Formosa to come up in the wind and slew the punt round; the punt came into them on the starboard side, ahead of the mast, and cut down about five planks of the Formosa; his vessel then drifted in towards the stone wall at Dawes' Point, and he let go his anchor; until just previous to the collision the steamer and punt were on his starboard bow, and the punt was on his starboard side all the time; if he had not put his helm up he should not have cleared the steamer, from which he was about forty fathoms distant before the collision; he never put his helm a-starboard; the witness explained, by movable models, how the collision occurred, the steamer showing her red light and the punt her green light all the time. Edward Hughes, cook on the Formosa, and Frederick Jensen, a seaman on the Formosa, corroborated this evidence. Henry Denham Bellett, master of the Lillie Denham, stated that 1 a.m. on the 20th instant he started from the Abattoirs with a punt in tow, and had proceeded as far as Dawes Point when he saw a vessel dead ahead, and showing her port light; he blew the whistle, but the ketch came close to them, appeared to starboard her helm, and came into collision with the punt; the punt was in a sinking condition, so he towed her back to Glebe Island; he and the engineer had called out to the master of the Formosa to port his helm and look out for the punt in tow, but be starboarded, and cut across the tow rope. W. M. Knowler, engineer of the Lillie Denham, corroborated this evidence. After deliberation the Board announced their finding to be, that the collision was caused by an error of judgment on the part of the master of the Formosa, in improperly starboarding his helm, but that under the circumstances of the case they did not feel called upon to make a charge of default against him. The Board then adjourned.

A semi-official paper published at St. Petersburg states that Russia, while not objecting to a revision of the Treaty of Livadia, demands a rectification of the Kuldja frontier, and the cession of a portion of territory for the colonization of the Drinians, who had manifested friendship for Russia.

MELBOURNE INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.)

MELBOURNE, WEDNESDAY.

Although the question of opening the Exhibition by night was negatived by 42 to 29 at the meeting yesterday, some of the Victorian Commissioners are not satisfied, and have called a special meeting for Thursday next, in the hope of reversing the decision arrived at yesterday. A very unseemly amount of feeling has been aroused in reference to this matter, and the subject was discussed with almost parliamentary vehemence. The effect of the want of consideration shown by the Victorian Commissioners, or at least a portion of them, will be seriously felt should this colony ever attempt to hold another International Exhibition. I have heard many of the foreign exhibitors express their regret that they ever came here, and their determination never to show anything in Melbourne again. In many respects the regulations made by the Commissioners have proved so absurdly oppressive that they will have to be modified, notably the hard and fast rule that exhibitors shall not sell and deliver any article so long as the Exhibition remains open. So strictly has this rule been enforced that even the exhibitors of band saws are not allowed to sell the ingenious little puzzles that they cut out of blocks of wood, and an exhibitor of machinery for making confectionery is obliged to keep his machines idle, as the authorities will not allow him to dispose of even a single peppermint drop.

The Empire of India, which at the Sydney Exhibition was rather poorly represented, has here a grand display of its resources and industries. The principal Indian Court is under the gallery in the main building, adjoining the Art Court of N. S. W., but it has also a large space devoted to the exhibition of raw products in the annexe, and it shows a number of tents in the open space to the north of the building. The satisfactory representation of India at this Exhibition is largely owing to Mr. J. Inglis, of Sydney, who, as an old Indian resident, was dissatisfied with the appearance of the Indian Court at the Garden Palace, and made such representations to his friends in official positions in India, that the present splendid display is the result. The Indian Government fully recognise the benefit of extending their commerce to the Australian colonies, and have strictly enjoined their commissioners to ascertain what of the products of India are suitable for Australian use, and what the colonies can give them in exchange. As far as Victoria is concerned these negotiations are not likely to lead to much, owing to the protective duties that obtain here. As an instance of how this policy works, I may mention that one shipper in India sent a large consignment of strong leather boots and shoes, such as are used on the Indian plantations. Owing to the cheapness of both labour and material, these articles can be sold here at 5s. 6d. per pair. But the shipper on arriving here was at once confronted with a duty of 3s. 6d. per pair, or over 60 per cent. Under these circumstances, he declined to land his goods here, but sent them on to Sydney, where the whole lot was quickly sold at satisfactory prices.

The Indian exhibits may be considered in five different sections—those from Bengal, from Bombay, from Madras, from the Punjaub, and from the north-west provinces, and in each of these groups will be found illustrations of the manners and customs of the people, their skill in the arts and manufactures, and their natural resources and raw materials. It is evident at a glance that many of the articles here shown would be eminently adapted for Australian use, especially the calicoes, muslins, and other cotton fabrics. Cotton, as is well known, grows to the greatest perfection in many parts of India, and the Indian manufacturers are so unsophisticated as not to have learned the art of "dressing" their goods so as to make them appear stout and strong until they go through the ordeal of the wash-tub, after which they become miserable rags. The Indian goods, on the contrary, are not got up with any eye to effect, but one only requires to feel them to be assured that they are genuine in quality. The teas of Assam and the north-west provinces are already favourably known in Australia, and they too have a genuineness about them that ought to give them the preference over the made-up productions of the "Heathen Chinee." Indian coffee we are already familiar with, also with their sugars, though Australia will soon be comparatively independent of their lands as regards the production of this necessary of life. Spices, rice, and various articles of food can be supplied to us by India, besides dyes, drugs, oils, and many other items of commercial importance. Nor need the list be closed here, for if we choose to invest in jewellery, precious stones, and articles of curiosity and luxury, the productions of the native Indian workmen, with their taste and skill as great as their tools and apparatus are limited, cannot be surpassed for quaint elegance and semi-barbaric splendour.

On entering the Indian Court the eye is at once attracted by the display on the walls of carpets, in Oriental patterns, and of bright colours, yet disposed so harmoniously as to avoid anything like gaudiness. These goods come from various parts—the Punjaub, the north-west provinces, central India, &c., and some of them are the produce of gaol labour. They are constructed on a firm and strong cotton ground, the pattern in a kind of velvet pile being worked in by hand. According to size and quality these carpets can be sold at from £10 to £80; but if the price seems high, it would not prove so in the long run, for carpets of this kind have been known to last, in spite of heavy and continuous wear, for over 50 and 60 years, and such is the permanency of the Indian dyes that the colour never fades, and the goods look almost as well when they are nearly worn out as they do at first.

Perhaps the next thing that attracts the notice and excites the admiration of the visitor is the rich and handsome carving with which many of the show-cases are adorned. One could spend hours in examining some of this work, for the details are so delicately and so patiently wrought out, that one keeps on finding fresh beauties every way one turns. One of these cases, said to have been made to the order of the Duke of Buckingham, cost no less than £1000, and I understand that his Grace is now offering it at cost price.

But, if the cases are costly and handsome, what shall be said of the contents? Take for instance one case containing a large collection of real Cashmere shawls, with patterns most exquisitely wrought, and colours so rich and so artistically blended as to produce an effect which western civilization, with all its apparatus and appliances, attempts in vain to imitate. These goods are so fine that some of the largest size could be drawn through a lady's wedding ring, and they are woven from the silky hair of a species of goat that abounds in the hilly districts. Near this are other cases, containing specimens of an art almost peculiar to India—embroidery in gold on velvet or silk. The degree of perfection to which this art has been carried can at once be realized by an inspection of these articles, though the richness of effect and the beauty of the work can scarcely be described. The material used is pure gold, not mere tinsel, so that the articles shown are as intrinsically valuable as they are artistically excellent. In former times a wealthy despot would think nothing of adorning himself with a suit worth several thousands of pounds; but in the present day the demand for the higher class specimens of this art is fast declining, and it is feared that the industry will ere long die out. Amongthe articles here shown, are table-covers, cushions, dresses, slippers, &c., of the most handsome and effective designs, and at almost fabulous prices. Then there are some peacock-feather trimmings of marvellous beauty, worth about £8 5s. a yard. Muslin of cobweb fineness is shown, and puggeries for hats, many of them embroidered in the most delicate and tasteful patterns.

Among the exhibits that will excite the most admiration are the clay models from Lucknow, representing almost every phase of Indian life. They consist of figures, only a few inches high, but dressed and coloured in exact imitation of nature, illustrative at once of the customs and costumes of the natives. To mention a few, by way of sample. There is the Bhistis, or water carrier. He carries slung across his back the dressed skin of an animal, full of water, from which he is filling a bucket probably for some European resident. There are the khidnatgars, or under servants: the khansamas, or butlers; the chaprasis, or peons; the bearers, or head-servants; and the syces, or grooms, all attired in their characteristic costumes. There are the malis, or gardeners; the grass-cutters, carrying on their heads their bales of grass; and there are the dhobis, or washermen, engaged in their work. Female figures are shown, among which are the ayahs, or female servants, and dancing girls. Various trades are represented, as tailors, jewellers, &c., carrying on their respective operations; and there are groups of musicians, snake-charmers, and other representations of Indian amusements. One group illustrates an Indian wedding party, and there are models executed with life-like fidelity of elephants, Brahmin bulls, and other Indian animals. In another case are shown a collection of models of Indian vegetables and fruits, among which are the cucumber, orange, lemon, guava, pine-apple, plantain, custard-apple, mango, pomegranate, melon, egg-plant, jack-fruit, gourds of various kinds, sugarcane, figs, &c., in exact imitation of nature. These models are none the less remarkable from the fact that they are the production of unlearned, though ingenious, natives, who employ their leisure hours in modelling these articles, which they sell for a comparatively small sum to the Europeans. Fancy goods are shown in great variety, in the shape of ivory, ebony, and sandal-wood carvings. These articles include workboxes, tea caddies, writing desks, jewel caskets, glove boxes, card cases, and so on. The carving is very delicate, and the patterns effective and handsome, far lighter and prettier than the similar class of goods of Chinese make. In inlaid work there is great variety, including many articles at once useful and beautiful. In this direction may be mentioned a kind of mosaic work in stone, consisting of plates and fruit dishes of marble or alabaster, with patterns more or less elaborate of coloured stone inlaid. One set of plates with a jasmine pattern, is valued at over £2 each. This inlaid marble work is similar to that which is so largely employed in the celebrated Indian temple the Taj Mahal, a beautiful model of which, in white marble, is shown in this Court.

The carved ebony furniture which was exhibited at the Garden Palace is also shown here but in great variety. This is placed in the recess or room at the extreme end of the court, known as the "Tea Room," partly because a great variety of samples of Indian tea is here displayed, and partly because every afternoon at 4 o'clock the Commissioners offer to the public who visit this room a cup of Indian tea. There is naturally a tolerably good attendance at that hour, and the tea is handed round by native attendants, in the proper Indian attire. Indian tea differs somewhat in taste from the common China teas sent to Australia: it is more fragrant, and has more "body" in it, so to speak, and it leaves a pleasant taste in the mouth. Whatever prejudice may exist against Indian tea will be soon dissipated by a trial of the article, and if the qualities shown here can be sold on equal terms they will prove formidable rivals to the Chinese teas. On inspecting the samples shown here I notice that the price varies from a shilling to a guinea a pound—the latter price being for a scented flowery tea that would only be used for flavouring, and a little of which, I am told, would go a long way. Through a suggestion of Mr. Inglis, taken up by the Indian Government, a syndicate has been formed in India to supply the Australian colonies with this tea, and already considerable quantities have been sold in Melbourne. I would strongly commend this article to the notice of the Chinaphobia smitten people in Sydney. By encouraging the use of Indian tea they will be promoting the industry of their fellow-subjects, and at the same time striking a blow at the detested Mongolian.

To describe the metal work in gold, silver, brass, and copper would require a volume. The collection includes goblets, vases, cups, jugs, plates, dishes, and many articles so purely oriental in their construction that a European cannot even guess at their use. Nor do the names attached to them help you very much, for when you find that a utensil is a chemboo, a lotah, a pikdan, or a pandan, you are not much wiser than you were before. At the same time you cannot help admiring the elegant forms and the beautiful ornamentation of this work. I was particularly struck with the Lucknow inlaid metal work, which is made of a composition of copper, lead, and tin. The articles are first cast in a mould, and afterwards they are turned in a lathe. The designs are then inlaid in gold and silver, and the ground work is darkened with some kind of lacquer to represent bronze, and the effect is rich in the extreme. The brass work is perhaps not so much in accord with the European taste, but the silverware, especially the cutch work from Bombay, is magnificent. This includes tea sets, vases, bouquet stands, claret jugs, salt-cellars, &c., of exquisite designs. Then again there is some very beautiful filagree work—brooches, bracelets, &c.—in great variety. Before leaving this section the fancy wood work of Mainpuri deserves to be noticed. These articles—mostly trays, plates, bookstands, &c.—would be mistaken by anyone for bronzework inlaid very beautifully with gold. In reality the articles are made of wood, with the patterns inlaid in brass wire. I am told that this industry is peculiar to two towns in the north-west provinces—Mainpuri and Pilibhit—but that it was dying out for want of encouragement when the matter was taken up by the Department of Agriculture and Commerce. Only one man was found who could turn out really good work, but he was engaged by the department, and apprentices have been placed under him to learn the art.

Among the cotton goods shown are twills, sheetings, calicoes, checks, &c., in the production of which a large amount of capital is engaged. Canvas and jute goods also are shown in abundance. There is no reason why these articles should not find a ready sale in Australia, and in return a good trade might be done in our wools, which could be profitably manufactured in a country where labour is so cheap as it is in India, and thus great benefit might be done to both countries. Rope and cordage of all kinds i- here shown, both hempen and coir, apparently very strong and well made.

One of the most attractive exhibits in the outer Indian Court was a large model of a Brahmin pagoda, very handsomely carved, but the space allotted to it was unfortunately just beneath one of the low roofs of the annexe, and consequently its fine proportions could not be seen to advantage. The Indian authorities thereupon applied for permission to remove the pagoda to some vacant space outside the building. The Melbourne Commissioner, kindly granted the request, but assigned to the exhibit a position very inconveniently situated, and in a decidedly unsavoury locality. The Indians objected to this, and are now fortunate enough to have secured a position on the lawn where the pagoda is being erected, and where it will doubtless form an object of much interest. In the same direction there are a number of Indian tents displayed, which certainly deserve the notice of Australians, for they are of a character that would be highly suitable to our climate, while at the same time they are both elegant and durable, as well as cheap.

An English periodical states that the phenomenon known to astronomers as the zodiacal light is shown by Mr. J. W. Redhouse, a member of the Royal Asiatic Society, to be identical with the "false dawn," as it is called by the Mussulmans and other Eastern peoples, who have been familiar therewith, as with the Milkyway, from remote antiquity. On the other hand, the zodiacal light has not been known in Europe more than about two centuries. From these facts, Mr. Redhouse draws a curious conclusion. It is clear, he says, that our forefathers "could never have come from that central point of Asia so dear to modern Sanskritists, whence they would fain make the Aryan race to radiate, that is, from the snowy table-land of Pamir (behind the Himalaya). The zodiacal light must have been as well known to the shepherds of that plateau as it is to the wandering tribes of Arabia and Mesopotamia. It must always have been well known to them; and once known to a people, such a phenomenon could never be totally forgotten in latitudes where it was visible. Our Aryan race came not, then, from Pamir as their radiating centre. Ethnologists may well weigh this pregnant indication."

THE FATE OF LEICHHARDT.

(From the S.A. Register.)

It will be remembered that in the early part of this year some correspondence appeared in the Sydney papers from Mr. E. W. Lamb, calling attention to reports which he had received with reference to the alleged residence of a white man with the aborigines south-west of the Katherine River telegraph station, who, it was supposed, might have been one of the members of the ill-fated Leichhardt expedition, which disappeared without leaving a trace many years ago. Mr. Lamb urged that the matter was of so much interest that the Government should institute investigations on the subject, and at the same time communicated with our Government, requesting that they would make the necessary inquiries. The Government referred the matter to the Postmaster-General, who, with Mr. R. R. Knuckey, has furnished the Cabinet with the following interesting report:—

"The fate of Leichhardt, and the rumour of one or more of his party living amongst the natives in the interior, were often discussed during the construction of the overland telegraph; and the late Mr. Jarvis, who for several years prior to 1870 had charge of the Messrs. Levi and Co.'s stations at Mount Margaret and the Peake, informed me that the natives in that part of the country had told him that a party of whites were murdered by the blacks many years ago, some distance east of the Dalhousie Springs, in the direction of the Mulligan River. This is still repeated by the natives in the district in a more or less circumstantial manner, and no doubt, I think, can exist that it was here that Leichhardt's party came to grief, and it is in that direction traces of them should be looked for. In confirmation of this the natives of Dalhousie Springs recently informed Mr. Bagot that a large white party were killed a long while ago in an east-north-easterly direction from the Springs. The party, they say, were crossing a big salt lake, and were divided, some being behind with drays and sheep, others a good deal in advance. The natives mustered very strong, and while the whites were thus situated they attacked them, those behind being killed first, and those in advance afterwards. After the deed had been accomplished the natives burnt the drays, harness, &c., and drove the sheep further north, distributing them to the various tribes who assisted in the massacre.

"Mr. Bagot states that there is an old native at or near his station who knows where the tires of the drays are to be found. This is most important, as he would, I dare say, find other remains which could serve to identify them with the lost explorers.

"Another account, given by the blacks at the Peake station to Mr. Chandler, our stationmaster, is that two old men remember being told by the blacks to the eastward that a party of whites were killed by a large and overpowering number of natives on a creek. The attack is supposed to have been made while the white men were bathing; some of the natives drove away the sheep. The Peake natives do not remember hearing of any waggons or drays, nor have they subsequently heard of any whitefellows living with the natives.

"William Crick, who was with Jarvis at Mount Margaret 16 or 17 years ago, informs Mr. Chandler that a similar statement was made by the natives to Mr. Jarvis and himself at that time; and thinks the creek—then called the Tierrewarra or Cowrie Coota (probably identical with the Kallicoopa)—is the so-called Salt Creek, which runs into the north-east of Lake Eyre. The old man points in the direction of north-east, and says it occurred when they were boys. They further state that all the whites were killed, and that the bodies were buried near the spot, in the sandhills, and that the horses were also killed.

"Mr. Chandler further informs me that from what he can gather from the blacks the affair took place nearly due east from the Charlotte Waters, on what is known as the Pitcherie country. Members of the Diamentina and Kallicoopa tribes frequently visit the Dalhousie Springs, and it is from them the information was obtained. This, it will be observed, closely confirms Mr. Skathorpe's account of the information he obtained from the natives on the Diamentina, as that gentleman appears to have seen Hume's name cut on a tree, with the date 1867 beneath, and was told by the blacks that a white man—supposed to be Hume—was with them two moons.

"Hume's statement to Mr. Knuckey (whose interesting report I annex) and others of his journey westward, and his meeting with an aged white man living with the blacks, appears, therefore, to deserve greater credence than has hitherto been attached to it. But with regard to his statement that he met Classen in 1873 not far from the Tennant's Creek station, or within 30 miles west of the telegraph line, and his alleged possession of papers, watch, and compass belonging to Leichhardt or Classen, Mr. Knuckey's report, referred to, clearly shows it to be extremely unlikely, and, as regards the relics, utterly false. Some of the papers contained lists of native names and shorthand notes by Mr. Alfred Giles; the compass belonged to R. C. Burton, one of the overseers employed on the telegraph line; whilst the watch Mr. Knuckey ascertained to have been purchased from a teamster named R. Hebbforth.

"It will be remembered that Hume accompanied me from Newcastle to the Roper in the Omeo in January, 1872, for the ostensible purpose of searching for Classen. Although offered every assistance—horses, food, arms, &c.—to prosecute the search, I cannot ascertain that he ever availed himself of it. He was employed on and off up to October, 1873, and was never absent from our stations or telegraph parties for any lengthened period. None of our officers or men believed in him, and if he really saw Classen so near to Tennant's Creek others connected with the telegraph would certainly have come across some traces of his existence.

"On the completion of the telegraph line Hume was employed principally at Powell's Creek till November 30, 1872, when he left to make south, but finding some of our stray horses he was re-engaged on his arrival at Tennant's Creek, and again employed from January 4 to April 1, 1873. After that he was at Tennant's Creek and Powell's Creek unattached, and was again put on pay from July 1 till October 3, at Powell's Creek, when he left to get a horse at Tennant's Creek. Finally he left Tennant's Creek at the end of October, with three weeks' provisions, two horses, a rifle, revolver, and a prismatic compass. He passed, without calling, Powell's Creek and Daly Waters stations, where his tracks were seen, and was met at the Strangways about the middle of November. He was seen by Mr. Knuckey a few days later, and arrived at the Roper Depot at the beginning of December, where he remained until the arrival of the Emily, schooner, by which vessel he returned to Brisbane in February, 1874.

"I have thought it desirable to give the foregoing circumstantial account of Hume's movements that persons interested in clearing up the mystery surrounding the fate of Leichhardt and his party—and who is not?—may see what little faith can be placed on Hume's statements, which deceived so many at the time, and which still appear to find some believers. It was on his last journey from Tennant's Creek to the Roper, or between the end of October and beginning of December, that he says that he saw Classen (whom he had previously seen near Tennant's Creek) near the Victoria River, and obtained the papers and other alleged relics of the ill-fated expedition. These, it will be remembered, he conveniently lost before reaching Sydney.

"With regard to the humpy seen by Mr. Gregory on his way from the Victoria River to Brisbane, on the Elsey near its junction with the Roper, and supposed to be a camp of Leichhardt's—of which a sketch is given in the Sydney Mail of March 6, 1880—I directed Mr. Little to make a thorough search for it on his recent inspection of the line, which he did, and reports as follows:—'Made thorough search at and near junction of the Elsey with the river Roper, but could not find any trace of the humpy seen by Mr. Gregory. Searched both banks most carefully. The formation of the country is limestone, covered with rich black soil. It is lightly timbered with small bloodwood trees on both sides of the stream. The grass is very rich and about four feet in height, and it appears to have been burnt off by the natives every year for the purpose of procuring game. These fires have probably destroyed every trace of the humpy.' It may be well to mention that the natives are believed to erect similar structures as wurleys, or native camps, as they have been seen in that part of the country by Mr. Knuckey and others.

"With respect to the white man whom Mr. M'Donald supposes to be with the blacks near the Victoria River, Mr. Alfred T. Woods, a gentleman of great bush experience, and who had charge of the construction of the central section of the overland telegraph, has recently been in the neighbourhood of the Victoria exploring, and on his return telegraphs me as follows:—

"'Katherine, September 17, 1880.

"'I was on the creek where Mr. M'Donald interviewed the natives, at which place some also sent a deputation to wait upon me. Having read the report of Mr. M'Donald's belief, and also having been communicated with by Mr. E. W. Lamb, of Sydney, I naturally endeavoured to elicit all possible information. They spoke some English, but nothing they said tended to the belief Mr. M'Donald holds. Since I replied to Mr. Lamb blacks from distant parts have been at Springvale; all agree in saying, "No more white-fellow outside." We have good interpreters, and I do not concur with the opinion of Mr. M'Donald. The Agguaguilla tribe extends from west of the Shackle at Yam Creek to the Victoria River. On a creek which I believe junctions with the Sullivan's Creek, reported by Mr. M'Donald in the Queenslander, I saw a well-constructed break made with stakes and wicker branch-work, where a large corroboree had been held, but in its construction I saw nothing that showed necessarily the tuition of a white man. If I am not trespassing too much on your courtesy, I would add that in my reply to Mr. Lamb I implied a neglect of an opportunity by Messrs. M'Donald and Sullivan in not following up the clue they believed in; but I would now say, having seen the canegrass or wild sorghum of the Victoria, that no inducement would lead me into the folly of entering a patch of it at the suggestion of wild blackfellows. Nothing could save a man from being roasted alive—coolness, cowardice, or foolhardiness depend greatly upon circumstances. I may be visiting the country again, and will report any matter of public interest. No good country. If any found next trip, I, not being a prospector, will report.

"'ALFRED THOS. WOODS.'

"Mr. M'Donald's reasons for believing that a white man is or was with the blacks is that whilst on a journey up the Victoria River, in June, 1878, in latitude 15·40 S., longitude 131·10 E., he met some blacks who were anxious he should visit their camp, within sight, intimating, as he thought very clearly, that they had a white man with them, repeating the words, 'White fellow Jummy, white fellow Jummy.' Mr. M'Donald goes on to say that, 'naturally anxious to comply with so urgent a demand, he made for the spot, but soon finding himself in a high mass of canegrass from 9 to 10 feet high he deemed it more prudent, under the advice of his companions, to abandon the attempt, feeling that an ambuscade might easily cut them off—the party consisting of only three, one of whom had been left at the camp.' It is thought that the white man with the blacks must have been old or infirm, otherwise he would have made his escape and joined Mr. M'Donald's party. But I would throw out as a possible explanation that the supposed white man may have been a blackfellow who had been with some of the telegraph parties during the construction of the line. At the same time it must be admitted that Mr. M'Donald's statement singularly confirms the romantic and imaginary tale of Hume.

"No search has been made for the supposed graves seen by Mr. Koehler on his way from Normanton to Port Darwin (vide extract from the Sydney Morning Herald, April 10, enclosed in Mr. E. W. Lamb's letter to the Hon. the Chief Secretary, April 12, 1880, C.S.O. 585-80). Their locality is not very clearly indicated in Mr. Koehler's letter, and it might therefore occupy a party a long time to discover them.

"In conclusion, I would suggest the exploration of the country between the Dalhousie Springs and the Mulligan as the most likely course to lead to the discovery of traces of poor Leichhardt and his followers. I need hardly say that any assistance this department can give in following up any clue as to the fate of the explorers will be readily and heartily given.

"C. TODD,

"Postmaster-General and Superintendent of Telegraphs.

"October 4, 1880."

NEW ZEALAND.

We take the following intelligence from our files to the 15th October:—

From a conversation which occurred between a native interpreter and some of the natives who, some months ago, were arrested for obstructing the Government in taking possession of the Waimate Plains, and tried at New Plymouth but since released, there is little hope of the imprisonment having any salutary effect. The interpreter told the natives that he hoped they had learnt a lesson by their recent imprisonment, and that they would now settle down quietly on their land and not interfere with the Europeans, for if they again broke the law they would be more severely dealt with under the new Act which had been brought into force. One of the natives said he did not care for the new law, as it was made by the pakeha. If it had been made by Te Whiti, he would obey. He further said that if he were imprisoned for thirty years he would still obey the commands of Te Whiti.

The negotiations respecting Patetere between the Government and private purchasers have been concluded. The terms are that the latter deposit £11,000 as security for the Government advance, upon which the pre-emptive proclamation would be withdrawn. An association will pass the land through the Court and secure the title. The Government will probably select 20,000 acres in lieu of the £11,000, and return the deposit. It is also believed that the Association will be bound to put up blocks of land for sale in reasonable sizes, and to offer 25 per cent. of the best land on deferred payment by auction.

The Government have received a communication from Sir Julius Vogel explicitly tendering his resignation as Agent-General. At a Cabinet meeting this evening the matter was considered, and it was decided definitely to accept the resignation, and Sir J. Vogel was advised accordingly. The appointment of a successor, together with the salary and other points relating to the Agent-Generalship, are now under the consideration of the Government.

The New Zealand Times says:—"Alluding to the announcement in our last issue that the dismissed inspectors of police would be offered the option of serving either in a lower grade of office or in the ranks, intimation that the superior officers of the police force are to be relegated to lower rank, and the present subordinate officers dismissed to make room for them, has caused some consternation in the force and a good deal of animadversion outside, the current opinion being that the efficiency of the service will be imperilled by getting rid of officers really practically acquainted with their duties to make room for certain 'curled darlings' who originally entered the department, and have never been much more than sickly ornamental appendages."

It is understood to be the intention of the Government to make extensive reductions in the Marine Department almost immediately. It will be remembered that this department was formerly a branch of the Customs, but was created into an independent department by Sir George Grey's Government. However satisfactory this plan has worked, the expense is too great for it to be continued under present circumstances, and it is intended to re-amalgamate the two departments under one head as before. The details of the alteration, I believe, are not yet definitely settled.

A telegram from Nelson states that Mr. Haskayne Jones, who has been connected with the Bank of New South Wales for a quarter of a century, died somewhat suddenly on October 11. Although he had been ailing for some time, he appeared to be in better health lately.

The Lincolnshire farmers who intend coming to New Zealand have secured from the Waste Lands Board a concession of 17,000 acres at Te Aroha. They pay 45s. per acre within three years, and are bound to establish 45 families and make certain improvements. The block contains some hilly land, but much of it is of excellent quality.

TASMANIA.

For SALE by PRIVATE CONTRACT, the ESTATE of SYNDAL and ROSS RESERVES, The Property of the Late P. T. SMITH and BROTHERS.
The property consists of (a.) 30,000 acres of the finest grazing land in Tasmania, situate near Ross, in the midland district, and within three miles of a station on the Main Line Railway, between Hobart Town and Launceston, and having a frontage of four miles on the Macquarie River, and
(b.) 19,000 acres of summer grazing land, at the Great Lake. This is the very best land in the lake country, having been purchased during the first years of taking up land in that district. It affords abundant feed for all the stock of the low country during the summer season, as well as carrying a considerable number of sheep through the winter.
For terms and particulars apply to Messrs. DOBSON and MITCHELL, Solicitors, Hobart Town.

FOR SALE,
NORTH SHORE,
WILLOUGHBY, LANE COVE ROAD,
THE GREAT NORTHERN HOTEL and PLEASURE GROUNDS.
Situated within 4 miles of Sydney, in a very thriving district, surrounded with beautiful orangeries, strawberry and flower gardens, where 'buses ply to and fro twelve times a day. Area of land, 6 acres, which is all enclosed, with this magnificent HOTEL, containing 19 rooms, with a splendid paved verandah 10 feet wide, kitchen, washhouse, two 4-roomed Cottages, of which the whole is constructed with brick; also, a grand Dancing PAVILION, built with weatherboards, with fancy front, being 60 feet long, and 21 feet wide. Also, a splendid Skittle-Alley, and large stabling accommodation, there being 11 stalls, also, coach-house, &c., being altogether in length 121 feet. Bear in mind, all these are lit up with gas. There is also a blacksmith's forge; there is also a beautiful kitchen garden, containing several choice fruit-trees, being about three-quarters of an acre in size. There is also erected a gas-house and gasometer, by which the gas is manufactured. There is also a magnificent cricket ground, being well turfed and sewn with grass, with ornamental trees surrounding, under some of those are placed seats, which, on a hot summer's day, improves the day's pleasure. A never-failing supply of water. The place, 3 years old, doing a good business. Price, £6000 (six thousand pounds.)
H. RUSSELL.

GLEBE POINT ROAD.—For SALE singly, on the instalment plan, 6 new HOUSES, in Avon-terrace, Forsythe-street. Small deposit and monthly payments. They are of attractive exterior, thoroughly well-built, and conveniently fitted up; water laid on. R. NOTT, 313, George-street.

GRANGELAND FARM.—For positive SALE, in a highly improving district near Sydney, and within one mile by a first-class road of railway station, a freehold PROPERTY, known as Grangeland Farm, consisting of 80 (eighty) acres, more or less, of partly-improved well-fenced rich land, having all the advantages of a suburban property for a family residence, being close to a post and telegraph office and within fifteen minutes' walk of a first-class Public school, also Church of England and Roman Catholic schools. Price, £7 (seven pounds) per acre. Title, Crown grant. Terms: Half cash; balance may remain on the property for one, two, or three years. Deeds to rest in the London Chartered Bank of Australia until the balance of the purchase money be paid. It is needless to state, as intending purchasers will find on inspection, of the property that the ironbark timber on the land is worth a considerable sum. Satisfactory reason will be given why the property is now offered for sale so far below its estimated value. Plan may be seen by applying to FRANCIS FAHEY, Land Agent, King-street.

FOR PROMPT SALE, on the Mountains, at Blackheath, within 5 minutes' walk of railway station, FREEHOLD PROPERTY, consisting of 1 acre, more or less, of improved good land, with a comfortable cottage and other buildings thereon.

In the Sydney Morning Herald of 3rd September appears the following paragraph:—
"IN THE EUROPEAN MAIL
of the 2nd July, 'Anglo-Australian' in London writes:—'I notice amongst the clearances for Sydney, per Cyniska and Chimborazo, some shipments of oil paintings, and have information likely to be of interest to art patrons. Amongst them are two celebrated original historical pictures, the engravings of which must be as well known in the colonies as they are here; and it is surprising that they should not have been purchased for some of our picture galleries on this side. "Cromwell refusing the Crown of England," and "Cromwell Dictating to Milton" are the original paintings I refer to, and are so well-known that but little is required to be written about them. The former, by Maguire, and the latter by Newenham, have held a prominent place in many exhibitions here, and Australian colonists who have not already had an opportunity of seeing them will now have no reason for complaint. If they are shipped for sale, I strongly recommend them to the notice of art patrons, or to the Colonial Governments, as it is seldom that two such splendid historical paintings of universal note leave this country now-a-days.'"
These Pictures have already been received by Messrs. Bradley, Newton, and Lamb, and, together with a number of others, including "Love's Letter Box," by Sampson; Portrait of the Celebrated French Actress, Sarah Bernhardt, by Jules Bastien Lepage, exhibited at the Grosvenor Gallery, will be opened to public inspection on Monday, 18th instant, and remain on view until Wednesday, 27th instant, when the sale is to be held.

BRADLEY, NEWTON, and LAMB have much pleasure in informing the Patrons of Fine Arts, and the public generally, that they have received instructions to sell by public auction, at their Picture Sale Rooms, O'Connell-street, on WEDNESDAY, 27th October, commencing punctually at 11 o'clock,

☞ THE SALE OF THE SEASON.

On the PRINCE OF WALES' BIRTHDAY
Prince of Wales' Birthday.
NINTH OF NOVEMBER
9th November.

☞ THE FAULCONBRIDGE ESTATE, comprising FAULCONBRIDGE and MOUNT ALBERT.

☞ MAGNIFICENT MOUNTAIN SITES.

☞ UNEQUALLED MOUNTAIN VIEWS.

. The undersigned will sell by auction, ON THE GROUND, close to FAULCONBRIDGE RAILWAY STATION, after luncheon, TUESDAY, 9th NOVEMBER, in both LARGE and SMALL BLOCKS,
THE VERY CHOICEST SITES and BEST POSITIONS in those UNRIVALLED and PRINCELY PROPERTIES known as belonging to Hon. Sir HENRY PARKES, K.C.M.G., situate AT FAULCONBRIDGE, and MOUNT ALBERT, between SPRINGWOOD and NUMANTIA RAILWAY STATIONS, on the Western Railway line, distant 49 miles only from Sydney, with an elevation of nearly 2000 feet above the level of the sea.

☞ The FAULCONBRIDGE PROPERTY is highly improved by the erection of many large and comfortable MOUNTAIN HOMES, replete with every convenience and surrounded by improved gardens, orchards, &c., &c. All the comforts of modern life are here obtainable—the daily post, the daily call of the tradesman, the butcher, baker, grocer, &c.; and, in addition, the RAILWAY STATION is erected on the ESTATE.

☞ The MOUNT ALBERT property adjoins the above, and whilst having a slightly greater elevation, commands those lovely and enchanting views obtainable ONLY on the BLUE MOUNTAINS.

The following are the particulars of the Lots to be sold on the 9th November:—

FAULCONBRIDGE.

FIFTEEN (15) MOUNTAIN SITES, situate between the RAILWAY LINE and the WESTERN ROAD, each about 1 acre in area, opposite to the COUNTRY ESTATE of Mr. ALDERMAN MEEKS.
. From each of these lots GRAND VIEWS are obtainable, and anyone wishing to purchase a small area of land on which to erect a MOUNTAIN RETREAT, with all the advantages of NEARNESS to the STATION, and extensive and unequalled views, cannot on any part of the MOUNTAINS find better sites than these.

TWENTY (20) MAGNIFICENT MOUNTAIN SITES, close to the MOUNTAIN HOME of Sir Henry Parkes, ranging in area from 1½ ACRE each up to 11 ACRES.
. These sites are very grand, and the views very extensive, commanding the LIGHTHOUSE at SOUTH HEAD, and the pretty country of CAMDEN and DOUGLAS PARK, as well as of the RANGE of MOUNTAINS on every side. They are all PICKED POSITIONS, and very convenient to the RAILWAY STATION.

MOUNT ALBERT.

FIFTEEN (15) GRAND MOUNTAIN BLOCKS, ranging in area from 2½ ACRES each up to 10 ACRES, between Faulconbridge and Western House, the property and mountain residence of Dr. Bedham.
. Every one of these sites has been so chosen as to command the best views obtainable on the mountains. The auctioneers with confidence rely on the good taste and judgment of those inspecting these sites, when they state that for picturesque beauty they are simply unequalled.

. A feature survey of the whole estate having been taken by Mr. Surveyor Binsted, the blocks are so arranged as to secure a good building site, and also a small portion of the sloping gully land for each lot.
Extensive views are commanded on every site. The Faulconbridge Railway Station is on the land, and the distance from Sydney by rail occupies only about 2 hours in travelling. The change of air is most agreeable and not too severe, and in every respect these lots are worthy of inspection.

☞ DESCRIPTIVE PAMPHLETS with VIEWS are in course of preparation, and will be issued in ample time prior to day of sale.

HARDIE and GORMAN have received instructions from HON. SIR HENRY PARKES, K.C.M.G., to sell by public auction, at FAULCONBRIDGE, after luncheon, on TUESDAY, 9th NOVEMBER, THE PRINCE OF WALES' BIRTHDAY, THE FAULCONBRIDGE and MOUNT ALBERT ESTATES.
Lithographs may now be obtained at the Sale Rooms, or will be forwarded by post, and further particulars obtained from the AUCTIONEERS.
As the VENDOR'S INSTRUCTIONS are POSITIVELY to sell these blocks on the date advertised, INSPECTION IS INVITED.

☞ A SPECIAL TRAIN will be arranged for conveying INTENDING PURCHASERS to FAULCONBRIDGE free of expense on day of sale.

LUNCHEON WILL BE PROVIDED.

WAVERLEY.

A SMALL COTTAGE RESIDENCE, BUILT OF WEATHERBOARDS on stone foundations, with iron roof, and containing four rooms, verandah back and front, &c. THE LAND has a frontage of 66 feet to ARDEN-STREET, by a depth of about 150 feet to a lane at rear.

TITLE, TORRENS'.

HARDIE and GORMAN have received instructions to sell by public auction, at their Rooms, 133, Pitt-street, at 11.30 o'clock on WEDNESDAY, 10th November,
The above-described cottage property, Arden-street Waverley.

SUBDIVISION BLOCK OF LAND.

ON THE HEIGHTS OF REDMYRE.

In the immediate proximity to the Residences of T. J. Thompson, Esq., Dr. Jones, Mrs. Nichol, C. E. Pilcher, Esq.

HAVING 400 FEET FRONTAGE TO RAILWAY ROAD
400 ditto ditto AGNES-STREET,
by a depth of 400 feet.

TITLE—TORRENS' ACT.

TERMS, Very Liberal.

HARDIE and GORMAN have received instructions from the PROPRIETOR to sell by public auction, at their Rooms, Bell's-chambers, 133, Pitt-street, at 11 o'clock, on WEDNESDAY, 10th NOVEMBER,
The above-described block of land, situate on the heights of Redmyre, directly opposite the Woodgreen Estate, and within 10 minutes' walk of the Redmyre Railway Station.

PLAN ON VIEW AT THE ROOMS.

THE BEST and MOST PROMINENT BUSINESS BUILDING SITES in the TOWN OF PARRAMATTA, IMMEDIATELY ADJOINING THE RAILWAY STATION.

Most commanding and convenient position for a FIRST-CLASS FAMILY HOTEL, a requisite much demanded at the present time by the numerous railway travelling community to and from Parramatta, and a grand place for a LIVERY and BAIT STABLES to meet the requirements of visitors from the city and the country gentlemen driving to the station and visiting Sydney.

SATURDAY, 30th OCTOBER, at half-past 3 o'clock sharp, ON THE GROUND.

JOHN TAYLOR will sell by public auction, on the Ground, on SATURDAY, 30th October, at half-past 3 o'clock sharp,
All that truly valuable and important block of land situate adjoining the Parramatta Railway Station premises on the south side, next to the railway gates, at east end of platform, having a frontage to Wentworth-street, of 124 feet by a depth (and frontage to railway premises) of 150 feet.
The BLOCK can be sold as one lot, or as subdivided into three lots of 50 feet, 40 feet, 34 feet frontages to Wentworth-street, by a depth of 150 feet each.
The extensive improvements now being completed at the Parramatta Railway Station affording great facilities to the passenger and goods traffic by railway must add greatly to the increasing value of the above property.
Also,—
Immediately after the sale of the above, WILL BE SOLD A FIRST-CLASS BUILDING ALLOTMENT, 50 feet frontage to Wentworth-street, by a depth of 150 feet, situate near the station, and immediately opposite Mr. Ardill's row of new two-story buildings.
Titles unquestionable.
Terms at sale.

PARRAMATTA.

TWO COMMODIOUS FAMILY RESIDENCES, TWO STORIES, BRICK-BUILT, QUITE NEW.

ROSEHILL-STREET, midway between the RAILWAY STATION and JUNCTION, GRANVILLE.

MONDAY, 1st NOVEMBER, at 11 o'clock, at the Premises.

JOHN TAYLOR has been instructed to sell by public auction, at the above Premises, on MONDAY, 1st November, at 11 o'clock,
Those two new BRICK-BUILT TWO-STORY HOUSES, attached, with out-buildings and land, situate on the south side of Rosehill-street, the nearest buildings to Church-street.
The HOUSES are well and faithfully built. Balconies, verandahs, and the fronts are a very handsome and unique style of architectural design. The workmanship and finish of the buildings are of a most excellent order, and the fittings replete in every particular.
EACH HOUSE contains 7 rooms, kitchen, pantry, scullery, and bathroom—the arrangement of the whole remarkably convenient.
THERE ARE OUT-OFFICES, coal sheds, &c., with extensive underground brick and cemented tanks, fitted with pumps, and the water is laid on to the kitchen, scullery, &c.
THE YARDS and garden grounds at the rear of buildings are divided by close paling fences, and the premises thoroughly drained.
THE GROUND frontage is 50 feet by a depth of 150 feet, and a dwarf wall with iron railings in front of buildings.
THE SITUATION is in a retired position and high ground commanding picturesque views of the surrounding districts; convenient walking distance from either the Parramatta Railway station or Junction at Granville.
TERMS VERY LIBERAL. TITLE, UNQUESTIONABLE.

N.B.—The above will positively be sold in one lot, and capitalists or others in quest of a first-class investment in the town of Parramatta are respectfully invited by the auctioneer to inspect the property.

REPLY.

To the Gentlemen signing the Requisition.

Gentlemen,—The receipt of your numerously signed requisition inviting me to allow myself to be nominated at the forthcoming general election as a CANDIDATE for one of the seats in the Legislative Assembly for the Electoral district of Young, is to me very gratifying; and coming, as it does, from such an influential number of electors, I have the greater pleasure in acceding to your request. In doing so I will briefly place before you an outline of my views on some of the questions which will probably occupy the attention of the new Parliament; and I will also take an early opportunity of addressing you at various places throughout the electorate before the day of polling, to express my opinion on these and other subjects in detail.

I am a strong advocate for FREE TRADE, as I believe Protection would eventually ruin a young colony like this; but, apart from this, I cannot see why we should protect the few at the expense of the many.

I am in favour of an amendment of the PUBLICANS' LICENSING ACT, and would advocate the insertion in any bill of a clause for the compulsory closing of public-houses on Sunday.

I am a supporter of the present PUBLIC SCHOOLS' ACT, which, I believe, if properly administered, will be a great boon to the rising generation, as it will be the means of giving them a sound practical education, and, at the same time, religious instruction, if the clergymen of the different denominations will avail themselves of the privileges which are extended to them for this purpose.

I am opposed to the REMISSION of INTEREST on the balance due on existing Conditional Purchase, my knowledge of the views of the great majority of bona fide Conditional Purchasers of this district assuring me that they are opposed to repudiation of any kind in this direction. I look upon such a proposal as unjust in itself, and prejudicial to the best interests of the country; in fact, the remission of this interest would simply necessitate further TAXATION on the FREE SELECTORS THEMSELVES, the working classes, and those who are not directly interested in Free Selection; and, in plain language, would mean the condonation of nearly FIVE MILLIONS of money due to the public by the squatters, and large monetary institutions of the colony.

I am in favour of all Conditional Purchasers being allowed to make annual payments of principal and interest at the rate of say 1s, 1s 6d, 2s, or 3s per acre, in order to enable them to procure their Crown grants within a given time.

I am an advocate for the EXTENSION of RAILWAYS, and the construction of Tramways as feeders to the main trunk lines; the latter can be cheaply and expeditiously constructed.

I am opposed to the PAYMENT of MEMBERS of Parliament, and am in favour of RETRENCHMENT in the CIVIL SERVICE, not by cutting down salaries, but by weeding out a number of unnecessary officials, and compelling those who are retained to work longer hours.

I am an advocate for encouraging the GOLD-MINING INDUSTRY of this colony, and in order to do so would urge on the Government the necessity of introducing a new MINING BILL. The cumbrous piece of machinery now in existence, known as the MINING ACT, and the almost innumerable regulations at present in force, if not fatal, are at all events opposed to the successful development of our vast mineral resources.

In conclusion, I may refer to my LONG RESIDENCE and LARGE INTERESTS in the district. Having a full knowledge of your requirements, I shall, if elected, do all in my power to faithfully discharge the trust reposed in me.

I am, Gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
WILLIAM J. WATSON.

MUDGEE ELECTORATE REQUISITION.

TO JOHN HENRY MULHOLLAND, Esq., of Sydney.

Dear Sir,—We, the undersigned Miners and Electors of the Mudgee Electorate, do earnestly request you to allow yourself to be placed in Nomination as a Candidate for the forthcoming Election of Members to the Parliament of New South Wales, believing, from your great general ability, and also from your knowledge of miners' requirements, that you will efficiently represent us. By consenting to do so you will oblige us, and enlist our warmest support.

Hill End, October 18.

TO THE ELECTORS OF HARTLEY.

As you have returned me against no mean opponents in several general elections, I beg to state that it is my intention again to offer myself for election. Since I have been your representative I have recorded no vote that gives me regret; nor have I taken part in any debate that I should wish to recall. During the Parliament whose dissolution is drawing near, I introduced several questions; amongst them the opening of the Public Library and Museum on Sundays, the initiation of Gaol Lectures, and for the introduction of a bill for the limitation of usury. I am prepared to defend the opinions I hold in regard to these matters, let the result be what it may. Those who have notified through the Press their intention of opposing me on these grounds can now have the opportunity of doing so. The present Education Act received my warmest support and advocacy, and I shall at all times defend it. I am of opinion that the people cannot be too thankful to the agitators of a free, secular, and compulsory education—the League—for some of the best principles in the Act. The present Government, in my opinion, deserves, in some respects, well of the country; and the people no doubt rejoice over the fruits of a coalition Government, though the measures passed were virtually created during previous Parliaments; but now the oil of lucre is fairly divided the State coach runs smoothly. The proposals of the Government in regard to export duties met with all the opposition I could give them, the imposition of a duty on wool being most unjust, but not more so than the attempted royalty on coal, which, if carried, would have been a tax on all manufactures. I am in favour of still greater extension of railways, and regret that the present and past Administrations have lacked the energy and courage to construct a line to Circular Quay. I still firmly believe that railways should be formed from the sale of certain lands, as was explained in a resolution tabled by me on the 12th of November, 1878, viz.,—"That this House is of opinion that, in future, Crown lands adjoining to, and two miles in width on each side of, any proposed extensions of railways in this colony shall only be sold by auction, and that portions of such land as may be considered suitable for the purpose shall be reserved as the sites for townships or villages and for other public purposes, and that the proceeds of the sale of such land shall be set apart as a fund to be used in defraying the cost of such railways," &c., &c. The principle of this resolution was generally agreed to, but withdrawn on the promise of the Government to bring in a bill to deal with it. I believe in a constant flow of immigration to our shores, of a well selected class, notwithstanding the cant always raised against it by the so-called friends of the working classes. I am also of opinion that those who would deprive the country of some £450,000 per annum are worth watching. No principle of repudiation for remitting interest on the purchase-money of selections should be entertained for one moment. I favour an increased rental on runs, and for giving a more secure tenure. I shall support any measure for the prevention of Sunday selling in public-houses, and for the establishment of a Board to issue licenses. I shall not bind myself to support any particular party. Upon all matters of importance I shall address you in person. Trusting a renewal of your past confidence,

I am, yours, &c.,
J. HURLEY.

SINCE the sale of the WOODVILLE ESTATE has been announced, Messrs. HUDSON, BROTHERS, the well-known and enterprising contractors, have purchased 100 acres at the Junction, now Granville, whereon to erect extensive workshops. This will give an impetus to GRANVILLE, and will largely improve the value of land, as many hundreds of hands are sure to be employed there before long. The owner of the WOODVILLE ESTATE (the best land at the JUNCTION) has decided to give buyers the benefit at the sale on SATURDAY NEXT.
Get a RAILWAY TICKET for the Sale next Saturday.
REFRESHMENTS WILL BE PROVIDED ON DAY OF SALE.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.
TO WOOL GROWERS, PRODUCERS, and OTHERS.
To meet the exigencies of our increasing business, and afford our constituents the advantages appertaining to a concentration of their consignments, we have just completed the erection of a new Store at the Circular Quay, Sydney, and will during the forthcoming season receive consignments of WOOL, GRAIN, TALLOW, LEATHER, HIDES, SKINS, HORNS, BONES, HAIR, &c., for Sale or Shipment upon strictly moderate terms.
Our charges will (in every respect) be made with a due regard to economy, and the greatest possible care taken in the classification and preparation of consignments, so that they may be submitted to buyers in the most presentable form.
In all cases we restrict our business solely to that of Agents and Salesmen, considering the adoption of such a system essential to the faithful conservation of the interests of consignors, and almost an imperative necessity to ensure their Stock and Produce being placed on the market at the most opportune period, as well as to contribute to the realisation of highest values.
Constituents may rely upon every care and attention being bestowed upon their consignments, and all Account Sales and Remittances will be promptly rendered.

WOODVILLE ESTATE

GRANVILLE.

FREE RAILWAY TICKETS MAY NOW BE OBTAINED AT OUR ROOMS for the SALE, on SATURDAY NEXT.

LITHOGRAPHS OBTAINABLE at our ROOMS.

HARDIE and GORMAN, Auctioneers, Pitt-street.

SINCE the Sale of the WOODVILLE ESTATE has been announced, Messrs. HUDSON, BROTHERS, the well-known and enterprising contractors, have purchased 100 acres at the Junction, now Granville, whereon to erect extensive workshops. This will give an impetus to GRANVILLE, and will largely improve the value of land, as many hundreds of hands are sure to be employed there before long. The owner of the WOODVILLE ESTATE, the best land at the JUNCTION, has decided to give buyers the benefit at the sale on SATURDAY NEXT.

Get a RAILWAY TICKET for the Sale next Saturday. REFRESHMENTS WILL BE PROVIDED ON DAY OF SALE.

SUBSCRIPTIONS: £2 12s per annum.
This rate is for payment in advance.
N.B.—For credit the charge will be £2 16s per annum.

, All advertisements under six lines will be charged 3s to advertisers' account if booked.

N.B.—Advertisers in the country can remit payment by Money Orders or Postage Stamps.

ADVERTISEMENTS are classified, as far as possible, for convenience of readers, but no guarantee is given that they shall appear under special headings.

While every care is exercised in regard to the due insertion of advertisements, the proprietors do not hold themselves responsible of non-insertion through accident or from other causes; and the proprietors reserve to themselves the right of omitting advertisements that they may deem objectionable, even although such advertisements may have been received and paid for in the usual course of business.

For the convenience of advertisers, replies to advertisements may be sent to the Herald Office; but the proprietors do not accept any responsibility in this respect.

Births, Deaths, and Marriages, 3s each insertion.

Notices of BIRTHS and DEATHS cannot be inserted in this Journal unless indorsed with the name and address of the persons by whom they are sent.

Notices of MARRIAGES cannot be inserted unless certified as correct by the officiating Minister or Registrar.

, The above rule is rendered necessary in consequence of false and malicious notices having been sent for publication for the purpose of annoying respectable persons.
